FOLK ORDERS MILITIA READY FOR THE COUNTY

Governor Says He Is Prepared to Take Drastic Measures to Enforce Anti-Pool Selling and Dramshop Laws.

MAY DECIDE DEFINITE ACTION BY MONDAY

"St. Louis County Just Now Is a Sore Spot in Missouri's Side," He Says, Discussing "Deplorable Conditions."

Gov. Folk, who is in St. Louis today gathering information relative to violations of the anti-poolselling and the Sunday closing laws in St. Louis County, intimated to a Post-Dispatch reporter that a company of State Militia would be ordered to St. Louis County within the next week or 10 days.

He refused to say just what preparations had been made by the militia, but it is known that he has issued orders to Adjutant-General James De Armond to be ready to carry out his instructions on a few hours' notice.

The Governor may definitely announce his plans before Monday.

"The open defiance of the poolselling law in St. Louis County, the repeated repudiation of the authority of the State as expressed in the dramshop statutes; the neglect of official duty by grand jurors sworn to uphold the law," declared the Governor, "makes a most deplorable condition there and one that must alarm every good citizen.

"No county can nullify the laws of the State and I propose to go the limit of my authority, if necessary, to suppress such conditions.

Take Drastic Measures.

"If drastic measures are necessary, and I am now convinced they are, then drastic measures will be taken.

"The enforcement of a law necessarily displeases many, but so far as I am concerned I do not care for the opinion of the lawless.

"The dramshop law which the county authorities refuse to enforce is plain and clear and admits of but one interpretation.

"So, too, with the anti-gambling law.

"These laws are going to be enforced as long as they are on the statute books and the executive has the power to enforce them. There is no trouble about the observance of the law in the larger cities of the state where the police boards are appointed by the governor.

"In the counties, however, the situation is much more difficult and the local officials and good citizens must be depended upon loyally to see that the laws are upheld. The law is abided by in nearly every county of the State.

County "Sore Spot."

"St. Louis County is the most troublesome place.

"Missouri is the most law-abiding State in the Union, but St. Louis County just now is a sore spot in Missouri's side.

"No one has the right to demand that the Governor or any other executive official violate his oath to enforce the laws.

"This easy nullification of laws by executive officials is one of the greatest perils to government by the people.

"The reign of law is the rule of the people, for a majority of the people make the laws.

"But liberty to make laws does not mean license to break them."

Gov. Folk will confer with the Adjutant-General on his return to Jefferson City tonight.

JOHNSTON HALTS DELMAR ARRESTS PENDING "TEST"

Prosecuting Attorney Johnson of St. Louis County said yesterday there would be no more arrests made at the Delmar racetrack for violation of the new anti-gambling law until disposition is made of the cases of Bookmaker George Ehrlich and his assistants, E. V. Kintz and K. Miller, who conduct the "Texas Club" and were arrested just before the start of the final race.

"We felt," said Mr. Johnston to a Post-Dispatch reporter "that the evidence secured when Ehrlich was arrested a few days ago is not sufficient to make a proper test case. Therefore we concluded to make the raid yesterday, when we confiscated the complete gambling paraphernalia used at Ehrlich's book.

"If it is possible to secure a conviction under the new law we believe we have taken the right steps to bring that result about."

Before Grand Jury.

"Will you take Ehrlich's case before the grand jury?" Mr. Johnson was asked.

"That will be done at once," he replied.

"How about the other bookmakers?"

"Well, I can't tell about them yet. I guess we had better wait and see what becomes of the Ehrlich case."

"Do you think the law is being violated?"

"O, well, that is something for the courts to determine."

"Will you take action against the owners of Delmar track, who are held lia[illegible] under the anti-gambling law for [illegible] their premises to the gamblers?"

[illegible] Johnson smiled. When the ques-

Husband Says Filipino Scout Ruined His Home

MRS. JULIUS HAHN AND TEODULFO C. PALISO.

Julius Hahn Tells in His Suit for Divorce How His Wife Met Little Brown Man at Philippine Reservation and Invited Him to Their Home.

The divorce suit of Julius Hahn, clerk of the Probate Court, against Dora Hahn, in which Filipino Scout Teodulfo C. Paliso figures and the World's Fair as a setting for the story of marital unhappiness, came up for trial in Judge Kinsey's room, Division No. 8 of the Circuit Court Wednesday.

The suit was filed in December, 1904, and Mrs. Hahn later filed an answer and cross bill in which she denied her husband's charges of undue fondness for the Filipino Scout. Both parties ask for the custody of their 3-year-old daughter and Mrs. Hahn asks for alimony. The couple were married April 17, 1901, and separated in December, 1904, after the close of the World's Fair.

The plaintiff testified Wednesday that he and his wife had first lived in a flat at 2905 Wyoming street, and later moved to 1840 Victor street, where his mother-in-law lived with them. During the first part of the World's Fair he had taken his wife to the Fair and she had struck up an acquaintance with a Japanese named Ikeda, in charge of an exhibit in the Varied Industries Building. She introduced her husband and induced him to invite the Japanese to their house. The latter called three or four times, the husband said, and carried on a secret correspondence with Mrs. Hahn.

In August, 1904, witness testified, he took his wife and her mother to the Fair and they went to the Philippine Reservation. There they met the Filipino Scout, Paliso, who acted as their guide through the Visayan Village.

Paliso was accompanied by another Filipino, and Mrs. Hahn invited the two to call at the Hahn home. They did so, and then other Filipinos called, the number increasing to 10 or 12, and then dwindling down to 3 or 4, and then again diminishing until Paliso alone called, coming frequently to the house and often escorting Mrs. Hahn home from the Fair.

CALLED NEIGHBOR AND DRANK POISON

"Come Over a Moment," Said Woman, as She Swallowed Paris Green.

After threatening all morning to end her life, Mrs. Mary Walsh, 39 years old, of 2402 North Ninth street, drank paris green a few minutes after noon Wednesday in the presence of Mrs. Mamie Roth, her next-door neighbor. She was taken to the City Hospital. Her condition is serious.

Mrs. Walsh called to Mrs. Roth to come over a moment. Just as Mrs. Roth entered the rear yard she saw Mrs. Walsh drink from a glass and fall to the floor inside the door. She hastily called several neighbors and a large crowd gathered around the prostrate woman. While she was lying on the floor she asked that she be given more poison.

One neighbor ran to the Fifth District Police Station at Tenth and North Market streets and from there an ambulance was summoned.

Neighbors and Mrs. Walsh's 14-year-old son, James Shaffer, say that domestic troubles caused Mrs. Walsh to attempt to end her life.

OIL TRUST CUT PRICES IN HALF

Secretary of Independent Company Testifies to Drop From 15 to 7 1-2 Cents.

PIPE LINES AID MONOPOLY

Attempts to Kill Competition Described in Evidence in State's Suit.

A. L. Stocky, secretary of the St. Louis Oil Co., gave interesting testimony Wednesday in the hearing in the case of the State of Missouri against the Standard Oil Co., the Waters-Pierce Oil Co. and the Republic Oil Co., now in progress in the Appellate Courtroom before Judge Anthony of Fredericktown.

The suit was brought in the Supreme Court to revoke the charters of the companies for forming a combination in restraint of trade, and the present hearing is by order of the Supreme Court before a commissioner.

Stocky said that the ownership of a tank line under the river from East St. Louis to St. Louis gave the Waters-Pierce Co. an advantage of $15 to $20 a car.

He told of the manner in which territory was divided by the three oil companies and of an attempt to induce his company to enter into such an agreement.

He said that his company could not do business in some places because the freight rates were too high.

In some parts of Missouri his company came in competition with the Standard Company and in some parts with the Waters-Pierce Company. He said that the Standard had the northern part of the State and the Waters-Pierce the southern part. Where prejudice against these two was too strong the Republic Company had the territory.

The Republic Company was formerly the Scofield, Schumer & Teagle Co., with which the St. Louis company was on friendly terms, but as soon as the name was changed, Stocky said, the company made "terrific drives at our business."

Waters-Pierce Cut Prices.

The Republic company obtained its oil from Whiting, Ind., where there is a trust refinery.

The price of oil now is 7½ cents a gallon, Stocky said. In 1896, when the St. Louis company was organized, the price was 12 cents. The Waters-Pierce company depressed it gradually to 3¼ cents.

In 1896 or 1897 the witness said he was requested by H. C. Pierce, then President of the Waters-Pierce Oil Co., to come to his office. He went and Mr. Pierce took a typewritten agreement from his desk and read parts of it to him. It was an agreement for a division of territory. The proposition was that the St. Louis company take Eastern Missouri, Indian Territory, Texas and Oklahoma.

The witness asked to be permitted to take the paper home with him and think over the proposition. Mr. Pierce would not let him have the paper and the proposition was rejected.

Mr. Pierce told him, he said, that if the proposition was accepted there would be no competition against his company.

Stocky said that in 1897 H. C. Pierce offered him a cash consideration to cease active competition. He was not allowed to name the price offered him. He said he refused the offer.

He never cut prices, he said, until the others did. His firm and Scofield, Schumer & Teagle had a "gentleman's understanding." They were fighting a common enemy.

He was asked if his company got along well with the Waters-Pierce company.

Customers Deceived.

"Yes, now," he said, "after we have given them a thorough threshing."

He said that his company had its last trouble with the Waters-Pierce company in January when the Waters-Pierce company made a cut of a cent for several weeks. His company kept pace with the cuts and the Waters-Pierce company quit.

The Waters-Pierce company sent out cards fixing the price to the retail trade, but often cut under it.

He said that in localities in St. Louis where prejudice against the Waters-Pierce company was so strong that wagons could not do business, wagons of the International or the Republic company were sent, and the residents bought oil from them without suspecting that they were controlled by the same company.

PAY MY RENT! NO! TAKE HIS ORANGES

Wealthy Landlord and Poor Fruit Peddler Tussel Over Sacks in the Street

A new way to collect rent was attempted by John Dwyer, a wealthy old Alta Sita resident of East St. Louis, Wednesday, with results not so satisfactory as was expected.

Dwyer, who owns $75,000 worth of real estate in East St. Louis, claims that Pietro Bediro, an Italian fruit peddler, owed him $7 rent for the premises at 220 North Third street, and that he has vain tried to get the money from Bediro. Wednesday morning he tried again, taking with him Dave Williams, a colored man, who trundled a big wheelbarrow along the street besind his employer.

Arrived at Bediro's home, Dwyer again asked him for the $7 rent. Bediro refused to pay, saying that he had already paid his rent in full. At this Dwyer ordered the negro to load up his wheelbarrow with oranges which Bediro kept in his room, along with other fruit, for the replenishing of his pushcart each day. The negro filled two or three sacks with oranges, placed them in the wheelbarrow and started away, accompanied by Dwyer.

Pietro eBdiro followed, shaking his hands in the air, and invoking a choice lot of foreign maledictions on Dwyer's head. At Main street and Missouri avenue he grabed hold of one of the sacks of oranges, Dwyer holding on to the other end, and they had a fierce and noisy tussle which drew a large crowd and the police.

Dwyer was taken to the police station to explain the situation, and Bediro hurried to the State's Attorney's office to see what he could do to recover his oranges from Dwyer. The latter was told that Bediro would have a good case for damages against him if the oranges were not returned, and Dwyer bade the negro hurry back to the Italian's room and replace the oranges where he had found them. When the Italian returned from his conference with the State's Attorney, the oranges, the negro and Dwyer had all departed and he left for his room vowing vengeance.

"QUEEN'S GUARDS" CAPTAIN ARRESTED

John Pearson Is Accused of Swindling C. Y. Carr, Insurance Agent, of $10.

A man giving his name as Capt. John Pearson, representing himself to be a Captain in the Queen's Horse Guards, the famous English regiment in which Lord Barrington represented himself to have been an officer, was arrested Wednesday afternoon in the office of C. Y. Carr, an insurance agent in the Gay Building, accused of swindling Carr out of $10 and of planning a larger swindle.

When taken before Assistant Chief of Detectives Keely Pearson is said to have admitted that he was engaged in working a fraud game, but still contended that he was a Captain in the English Army.

Capt. Pearson first visited Carr at the latter's residence, 3524 Washington avenue. Carr says the visitor introduced himself as a nephew of a prominent English insurance man, a Mr. Clune, well known to insurance men all over the world. The story told by Pearson, Carr says, was that he had been the victim of a highway robbery and had lost not only his money but his letters of credit. He asked that he be advanced a small sum.

Carr explained that the day being Sunday, he could not let him have as much as he would like, but would advance him $10. He says he told Pearson to call at his office Monday and he would be given more money. He expected to let him have several hundred dollars if he wished it, he says.

Monday morning, however, Carr became suspicious and wired the New York office of the English company in which Clune is interested, and inquired concerning Pearson. He says he received an answer that Pearson had for sometime and in various cities obtained money under this pretense, and that instead of being given money he should be arrested.

Carr notified the police and Detectives Cabanne and Killian were placed on the case. Killian went to Carr's home and Cabanne to the office. Pearson did not appear at either place until Wednesday afternoon, when he called at Carr's office. He was immediately arrested by Detective Cabanne and taken to the Four Courts.

When searched a list containing the names of a large number of St. Louis insurance men was found in his pocket. Pearson told his story, admitting, the police say, that he was not a nephew of Clune, and that he had received the $10 from Carr. Pearson says he has been staying at 2307 Locust street since coming to St. Louis from Kansas City a week ago. He says he has been in this country three months.

SALMON'S BANK AT CLINTON, MO., CLOSES DOORS

State Officers Take Charge of Institution Following Refusal of a St. Louis Bank to Honor a Draft.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLINTON, Mo., June 21.—The Bank of Salmon & Salmon, the oldest and most important financial institution in Henry County, failed to open its doors today.

State Bank Examiner Robert M. Cook is in charge and Secretary of State Swanger, who received notice last night of the bank's condition, and is now here with the examiner, reports that it will be impossible to give out a statement before a late hour tonight at thee earliest.

It seems from what can be learned on the outside that the immediate cause of the closing of the doors was the dishonoring of a large draft from one of Salmon & Salmon's customers yesterday by a St. Louis financial institution.

A long distance telephone conference with the office of the Secretary of the State followed with the result that the bank quit business and was turned over into the hands of the Secretary of State and one of his bank examiners. This bank was opened for business Dec. 1, 1866, as Salmon & Stone, but on Jan. 1, 1873, Mr. Stone retired and the bank was and has been since then known as the bank of Salmon & Salmon. The capital stock was $50,000.

There are a few people about the bank this afternoon and hope is expressed that all the depositors will be paid in full. The bank was run as an individual concern of Salmon & Salmon, and all the personal property of, both men is subject to their creditors' claims. The concern was both the oldest and largest financial institution in Henry County and had the confidence of the people.

CITY BUYS FIRE PHONES.

The city has at last followed a line of advice similar to that of real estate dealers to "stop paying rent and buy a home."

It has bought 185 telephone transmitters for use in connection with the fire department branch of the city telegraph and telephone system.

Heretofore the city has been renting these transmitters from the Bell Telephone Co., which owned the rights to them, at $5 each a year. They have been purchased outright for $3.60 each.

The transmitters in use in the police department are still being rented, as the city's contract with the Kinloch Telephone Co., which furnishes them, has not expired.

ZACHRITZ HURT IN FIGHT OVER DIVORCE SUIT

Testimony in Creveling Case Regarding Marguerite Creveling Resented by Father and Brother.

LAWYER KNOCKED DOWN: KICKED IN THE EYE

On His Motion, After Assault, Evidence Regarding Girl's Engagement to Eddie Kelleher Stricken From Records.

Because of testimony introduced in the Creveling divorce case intended to prove that Marguerite Creveling, a Mary Institute girl, sister of William C. Creveling, the defendant in the case, was at one time engaged to marry Eddie Kelleher, who killed "St. Louis Tommy" Sullivan, the prizefighter, former Judge William Zachritz was attacked, knocked down and kicked in the face by Clem and Sam Creveling, the girl's father and brother, in the lower corridor of the Courthouse at 9:45 a. m. Wednesday.

Zachritz is attorney for Mrs. Anna D. Creveling, plaintiff in the divorce suit.

The last hearing of testimony in the Creveling divorce case was on June 16, and it was to have come up again Wednesday before Judge Bishop.

The reference to an engagement between Marguerite Creveling and Eddie Kelleher was made June 16, and the Crevelings bitterly resented it.

Zachritz was standing near the Chestnut street entrance to the Courthouse, just opposite the door of the Jury Commissioner's office, when Clem and Sam Creveling approached him.

According to witnesses, the two Crevelings at once began talking to Zachritz. The next moment, it is said, both men struck him and knocked him down. Then Clem Creveling is said to have kicked him in the face as he lay prostrate.

Both men then went hurriedly away, leaving Zachritz bleeding and dazed on the floor.

Eye Badly Cut.

The negro janitor of the Courthouse, who was a witness, says that one of the Crevelings hastily removed his coat as the two approached Zachritz and both attacked him with their fists, one kicking him in the face after he was knocked down.

Zachritz was lifted to his feet by friends. His left cheek was cut and bruised and the left eye was completely closed. His wounds were bleeding profusely. An oculist was summoned and dressed the eye. The injured man's eye and face were swathed in bandages.

Zachritz was too agitated to make a statement at the time, saying only that he would apply for a warrant against his assailants.

As soon as he was sufficiently recovered, Zachritz went to the courtroom to represent his client. As he passed William C. Creveling, the latter held out his hand and said:

"I regret very much that this thing has happened, Judge Zachritz. I knew nothing of it until told of it a few minutes ago."

Zachritz made an inaudible response and passed on.

Addressing Judge Bishop a moment later, Zachritz said:

"I wish to say that I have always been friendly toward the defendant in this case and toward the members of his family. In introducing testimony concerning the rumored engagement of Miss Marguerite Creveling to Eddie Kelleher, I had no intention of offending her family. I now move that the evidence heard in the trial of the case June 16, bearing upon this story of the engagement, be stricken from the records of the court, and I wish to repeat that there was no intention to bring into bad repute the name of the young lady thus introduced into the case."

Judge Bishop ordered that the testimony in question be stricken out. He then anounced that the hearing of the Creveling divorce case would be continued to June 29.

Zachritz left the courtroom immediately.

Creveling's Statement.

Clem Creveling was found by three policemen at Broadway and Olive street a short time later and taken to the Courthouse to confront Zachritz, but the latter had then gone away.

Creveling was then taken to the Chestnut Street Police Station, but, as there was no complaint against him, he was released.

To Ambrose Riley, attorney for William C. Creveling, Clem Creveling said that he had asked Zachritz for a public apology for bringing Miss Creveling's name into the case and that he move in court that the testimony be expunged from the records.

Zachritz refused his demands, he said, whereupon he struck him four times in the face, knocking him down.

Creveling denies that he kicked Zachritz in the face or that Sam Creveling attacked Zachritz, saying instead that Sam Creveling pulled him away from Zachritz.

LEE WILL TELL BOODLE SECRETS?

Reported Former Lieutenant-Governor Is to Disclose Legislative Deals of 1903.

IMMUNITY IS ARRANGED

Likely to Be Used as Witness Against Senators Farris and Smith.

It is said that former Lieut.-Gov. John A. Lee will tell the Cole County Grand Jury what he knows about all boodle transactions in the State Legislature of 1903, when he was President of the Senate, that are not now barred by the statute of limitations, and that in return for this service to the State the indictment for boodling against him now pending in the Circuit Court of Cole County will be dropped.

This arrangement, it is said, has been agreed upon by Attorney-General Hadley and Prosecuting Attorney Monroe Belch of Cole County, of which Jefferson City is the capital.

It has often been intimated that several members of the Legislature of 1903 were engaged in questionable transactions other than the celebrated alum legislation, and that a corrupt senatorial combination existed at that time. That he was a member of such a combine John A. Lee has never denied.

If Lee shall tell the grand jury all he knows and thus gain immunity for himself, he will be used as a witness against Senator Frank Farris of Crawford County and former Senator Charles Smith of St. Louis, whose trials are set for June 26.

COINS BROKEN IN SALOON EXPLOSION

Acid Tank Blows Up at Waterloo, Ill., Wrecking the Building.

The saloon of Henry C. Wolf at Waterloo, Ill., was demolished Tuesday by the explosion of an acid tank. The fixtures were reduced to splinters, and receptacles of wines and liquors blown to pieces. A hole was blown in the floor and fragments of the tank were imbedded in the wooden ceiling. An 18-inch wall of the Gatzert building, adjoining, was damaged. The force of the explosion was such that coins were broken in two.

That nobody was killed or hurt was due to the fact that Wolf and five other men, who had been in the saloon, had just stepped outside to see a parade. Matches were ignited by the explosion, and they set fire to the whisky, which flowed over the floor, but the flames were extinguished without doing much damage. It is not known what caused the explosion.

Mrs. Beroldinger Wins.

Judge Ryan granted a divorce and $50 a month alimony to Mrs. Ida Beroldinger Wednesday. Alfred Beroldinger sued his wife, who filed an answer and crossbill. Each charged the other with coldness and cruelty.

A WORKING BRAIN

Can Be Made Successful on Right Food.

A busy man in one of America's largest watch factories tells how by change of food he gained a clear brain and steady nerves and averted a mental and physical breakdown. He says:

"I was accustomed all my life to the ordinary diet of the average table. I thought that meat, potatoes and other vegetables and fruit were necessary, and that tea, coffee and pastry in moderate quantities were not injurious.

"But I found, in course of time, that my dietary was affecting my health seriously. For four years I continued to run down. In time my nerves became seriously affected, they seemed constantly keyed up to the highest tension, and I became subject to the most violent bilious attacks, which used to leave me in a weak and nervous condition for several days. The climax seemed to have been reached a few years ago, when I found myself about as near a physical wreck as a man could well be, and live. Physicians and tonics and other medicines, visits to the country, etc., etc., were of no avail.

"In sheer desperation I concluded, a few months ago, to see what effect a diet of Grape-Nuts food would have. I had often heard of it, but had little hope it would help me. I at once cut out all the heavy dishes with the tea and coffee that I had always used and began to eat Grape-Nuts with cream and a pinch of salt. Afterwards I added fruit, with occasionally an egg beaten up in milk, and entire wheat bread. This has been practically my diet for more than two months.

"I found that with the new diet I gained complete relief almost immediately from all the distress that used to follow every meal, my bilious condition was speedily regulated and cured, my nerves have grown healthy and steady—in short my run-down constitution has been reconstructed and built up. As to the effect upon my mental powers, I have only to point to the fact that I have recently been placed in a responsible position in our establishment where complete concentration of mind is required to deal with complicated records and reports, and that I have been enabled to keep my accounts absolutely correct, which my numerous predecessors uniformly failed to do.

"I think these things speak volumes in favor of Grape-Nuts food as a nerve and brain builder. I ascribe all my improvement, mental and physical, the fact that I am possessed of steadier nerves, a clearer brain, a fine appetite, and have gained healthily in weight, to the cutting out of heavy food and the systematic use of Grape-Nuts food." JOHNSTON LET GAMBLERS ALONE PENDING "TEST" tion was repeated he simply smiled again.

Mr. Johnston was accompanied by Deputy Sheriffs W. D. Olderworth and Clarence Campbell.

Earlier in the afternoon it appears Sam Adler, one of the owners of Delmar track, informed the bookmakers that only one arrest would be made and this merely for the purpose of making a test case.

Adler said that he had requested the prosecuting attorney to get whatever evidence he desired and if necessary to confiscate the tally sheets and other paraphernalia.

"I'm Ready," Said Ehrlich.

The sixth, or closing race of the day had just started when the deputies approached Ehrlich's book.

Ehrlich doffed his hat and bowing graciously said:

"Gentlemen, I am ready for you."

"And we want to take your things along too," said Deputy Sheriff Campbell, referring to the tally sheets, the minature blackboard on which the odds are posted and the satchel containing the money.

"That is all right, gentlemen, you are welcome," declared Ehrlich.

Joe Sippy, confidential bookkeeper for the Delmar Jockey Club, stood by as the arrest was being made and accompanied the prisoners to Clayton, where he gave bond for them in the sum of $1000 each.

Neither the deputies or the Prosecuting Attorney made a bet on any race, or secured specific information, but this they hold was not necessary. It was generally supposed that if this were done the case would have been more complete.

"Sports" Disheartened.

The sports are down-hearted and the officials of the Delmar Jockey Club are greatly worried over the slim attendance at the track.

Since the new anti-gambling law went into effect the attendance at the track has been below 500 every day. Yesterday not more than 400 persons were on hand.

Every horse owner of prominence shipped away from St. Louis on the day the new law went into effect. Even prosperous owners who are friendly to Cella, Tilles & Adler could not be persuaded to remain here and shipped their horses to Memphis, where Louis Cella, one of the proprietors of the Delmar Jockey Club, is conducting the betting ring.

There is serious dissatisfaction, too, among the racing patrons because of the inconveniences of the new betting designed to evade the anti-gambling statute.

POLITICS HINDERED WORK OF GRAND JURY.

No indictments were returned by the St. Louis County Grand Jury, which was discharged Tuesday, against violators of the Sunday closing law, although 23 persons were arrested on the charge and evidence of the same was submitted to the body.

The final report of the Grand Jury was accompanied by a minority report, signed by T. D. Kimball of Kirkwood, who was the foreman of the jury. In this report Mr. Kimball said there was no question as to the sufficiency of the evidence submitted, and he desired, as did others of the body, to protest against the action of the majority in not finding any "true bills" on the charge.

"I do not believe," said Mr. Kimball, "that the jury that just reported favored the saloon power more than other grand juries for the past 20 years. The trouble is in the way the juries are selected.

"The members are chosen by the three county judges. These judges are elected by the people. Politics govern in the county And we all know what politics is. The saloon element is the dominant power in St. Louis County politics, and so long as it is I do not think that there will be any action that will antagonize that power.

"I have talked with the various officials. I believe they desire to enforce the law, but until a grand jury will take action nothing can be accomplished. I do not believe that this grand jury was selected with the particular object in view of ignoring the Sunday closing law. But the same care is not observed in selecting grand jurors in the county as is the case in the city and in the federal courts. I have seen no evidence of and have heard no charges of bribery or graft."

PANIC FOLLOWS ACCIDENT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Joseph Ambruchwalter turned his head away from the sewing machine he was running at the factory of Farr & Fishman at 127 Bleeker street to speak to a fellow workman. As he did so he allowed his left arm to get under the needle of the electric machine. As the steel punctured his arm Ambruchwalter let out a yell which was heard on the six lower floors of the seven-story building. Vivid flashes of electricity caused by the short-circuiting of the motor followed, and someone shouted "Fire!"

The shout was taken up by the occupants of the lower floors and in an instant the 300 employes, over half of whom are women, became panic stricken. On the floor where Ambruchwalter was hurt were 60 persons and they rushed for the stairway, which became choked with frantic humanity.

A fire alarm was turned in, but it didn't take long for the firemen to learn that there was no fire. An ambulance was then summoned and a surgeon from St. Vincent's dressed Ambruchwalter's arm. He was not badly hurt. Luckily, too, no one was injured in the rush of employes to get out of the building.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., June 21.—Charles Parks and Annie Smith of East Cape Girardeau, Ill., crossed the river here yesterday and were married.

Upon their return to the Illinois side the bride's stepfather, who was opposed to the marriage, met the couple at the ferry boat, and it is said by spectators, started after Parks with a knife.

The young man picked up an ax that was lying on the boat and killed his father-inlaw. A coroner's jury last night exonerated Parks.

ROOSEVELT SPEAKS AT CLARK COLLEGE

President the Guest of Honor at Graduation—Wishes Harvard Luck in Race.

WORCESTER, Mass. June 21.—A heavy mist and a cold, raw day were not sufficient handicaps to prevent a big turnout of people of the city and vicinity today on the occasion of President Roosevelt's visit here to attend the graduation exercises at Clark University and Holy Cross College.

After a drive through the streets the President was taken to Clark University, where he delivered an address, and received the degree of Doctor of Law.

At the conclusion of the exercises the President visited Holy Cross and spoke briefly there in connection with the exercises, after which he was driven to the home of Congressman Hoar for luncheon.

Later in the day the presidential party left for Williamstown, where the President will participate in the exercises at Williams College tomorrow.

The trip north was without unusual incident, save that the President sent telegrams to captains of the Harvard and Yale crews.

The message to the Harvard crew was as follows:

"Captain Harvard Crew, Read Top, Conn.: I expected to pass through New London much earlier or I should have been up to greet you. I wish I could see the race. Good luck to you.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

To the Yale crew the following dispatch was sent:

"Captain Yale Crew, Gale's Ferry, Conn.: I expected to pass through New London much earlier, or I should have been up to greet you. Hope you will not think I am an offensive partisan if under these particular circumstances I do not wish you good luck. I would at any other time, but Taft, I am sure, is praying for you.

MILLION DOLLAR THEFT REVEALED BY DEATH'S HAND

Forgeries by the Late Banker Benjamin H. Gaskill of Philadelphia Already Prove to Reach an Enormous Figure.

VAST DEBTS SECURED ON WORTHLESS PAPER

Skillful Raising of Stock Certificates Only Discovered on Attempt to Record Transfers of Spurious Shares.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—That more than $1,000,000 was fraudulently obtained from various banks and trust companies has already been conclusively proved by a cursory examination of the affairs of the late Banker Benjamin H. Gaskill.

The money was raised by the banker in the form of loans secured on raised stock certificates. Between $750,000 and $840,000 has been definitely accounted for and no doubt exists that a complete examination of all his collateral will show his profits to have been far in excess of $1,000,000.

Gaskill's credit was never questioned. He was a member of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange, and was rated as a millionaire by his fellow brokers. He was a director in the Manufacturers' Club and in the Fifty Club, a most exclusive organization composed of business men. He traded as Benjamin H. Gaskill & Co., although he had no partners. His customers received the impression from him that he was the confidential broker of the Standard Oil crowd in New York.

The true amount of Gaskill's forgeries may never be known as banks which lost only small amounts are unwilling to face publicity.

Bankers learned today that they had been granting Gaskill loans on raised stock certificates for years. His method was to take a stock certificate for two shares and raise it to 20, or, as he did in the case of Philadelphia Traction stock, when he had a certificate for 400 shares which he skillfully raised to 6000. On this deal alone his profit was $560,000.

The three transactions so far known in which Gaskill raised certificates are:

Four hundred shares of Philadelphia Traction Co. stock, raised to 6000 shares; profit, $560,000.

Thirty shares of United Railways and Canal Companies of New Jersey, raised to 1000 shares; profit, $266,750.

Two shares of Frankford & Southwark Street Railway stock, raised to 20 shares; profit, $8100.

Gaskill lived like the millionaire he was believed to be. His home was at 101 South Twenty-first street. His family consisted of his wife, two brothers and four sisters. He entertained lavishly and generally spent a portion of each year traveling abroad. He had engaged passage to Europe and died May 25, the day he was to have sailed.

The physician who attended him gave a certificate that death had resulted from liver trouble, although some of his broker friends now assert that he may have committed suicide, fearing discovery of his fraudulent methods.

Friends Are Astounded.

"It is impossible," Gaskill's friends said when they heard the startling story of his forgeries.

But this charitable view was soon put at rest, as it has been shown that Gaskill took the raised certificates to the banks and trust companies in person and conducted his own negotiations.

"Gaskill kept a double set of stock accounts, one for the forged and raised stocks and the other for his legitimate business. His customers accounts have been found in every instance correct to a penny. His books for his regular business show that he has been losing from $15,000 to $20,000 a year.

The discovery of the raised certificate of stocks was by merest chance. The administrators of his estate, George K. Wegner and L. L. Eyre, were settling up the affairs of the brokerage office. E. C. Miller & Co., a brokerage firm bought from the administrators for a client, 100 shares of Philadelphia Traction stock, and 100 shares of United States Steel corporation. The Traction was sent late Friday afternoon to the Land Title and Trust Co. to be registered as transferred.

The forgery was so cleverly executed that it was not noted in the registrar's office and the stock was recorded as transferred and sent to the office of the Philadelphia Traction Co. for transfer on the books of the company. There it was compared with the original stub and it was found that the certificate had been raised from six shares to 100 shares.

The general opinion is that little of the money can be recovered. The Stock Exchange only a few days ago paid Mrs. Gaskill $5000 as life insurance. Gaskill's seat on the Stock Exchange is valued at $15,000.

To his own relatives as well as to the world at large the character of Benjamin H. Gaskill was an enigma. He talked to no one of himself; he reposed confidence in no one.

"I do not know whether Ben was worth one dollar or one million," said his brother, Israel Gaskill, who lives at 4001 Spring Garden street. "He was the closest mouthed person I ever saw."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 21.—Minneapolis lumbermen will subscribe the major part of a $100,000 fund for the endowment of a chair in the Yale Forest School, to further the study of forestry. Leading lumbermen of Minneapolis, who are at present owners of vast lumber tracts in the West and South, express the utmost enthusiasm concerning the plan, which bears the direct indorsement of President Roosevelt.

At the annual meeting of the National Lumbermen's Association in Chicago several weeks ago, Gifford Pinchot, forester of the United States, in the presence of President Roosevelt, appealed to the assembled lumbermen for a fund sufficient to endow a chair at Yale.

Boy's Story of Another's Accident Playing Bombay

"Sammy" Tells How "Slips" at "Knucks" Gave Player Fall in Which He Broke Arm.

BY SAMMY, THE OFFICE BOY.

"My hand felt as if it had slipped into a hole. When I looked at it I saw it was hanging limp, but I didn't know what was the matter until some men told me."

This is the way James Barnard, aged 11, who lives at 3611 Evans avenue, told me how he felt when he broke his arm playing bombay.

James visited Emmett Murnegham, who lives at 4000 Forest Park boulevard, Monday afternoon, and there he met Stewart Mayer and his brother and also two other boys, whose names James has forgotten.

After talking awhile Emmett, who is 14 years old, suggested that they play the popular boys' game, bombay. This was played on a vacant lot in the 4000 block on Forest Park boulevard, between 1 and 2 o'clock.

James was unlucky and was down first. After a while Emmett missed and he was forced to be down. A "free over" passed without mishap, but on "knucks," which followed, James' knuckles slipped off Emmett's back and he pitched forward. James put out his hands to save his face from harm, but the force of the throw broke his arm and he fell on his face.

When he found that his arm was broken he walked to the Mayer boy's home, then to another boy's house and then to a wagon shop on the northeast corner of Vandeventer and Forest Park boulevard.

When James went to the wagon shop some men told him the matter and put him on a large board where he lay until the ambulance arrived.

JAMES BARNARD.

From the wagon shop James was carried to the City Hospital. When asked whether he thought his injury happened accidentally or otherwise, he, without hesitation said, "It was an accident and no one was to blame."

I asked James when he thought his arm would be well enough to play again. He said in about a month, but his mother said that it would be seven weeks before he could use the injured member.

HUSBAND MAKES 6110 QUARRELS GROUND FOR SEEKING DIVORCE

Georgia Petitioner for a Severance of the Tie That Binds Presents List Showing an Average of More Than One Quarrel a Day for Fourteen Years.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 20.—John Madgett has petitioned for divorce. His spouse and he have, avers Madgett, quarreled 6110 times in 14 years, or a trifle over 400 times a year. More than one quarrel a day, therefore, varied the humdrum course of this couple's married life. Madgett kept strict register of every row. He gives the causes of quarrels as follows:

Late meals, 1581.
Wife asked money, 2250.
Husband tracked mud on kitchen floor, 823.
Husband snored, 134.
Wife used husband's razor to rip seams, 145.
No dumplings with chicken stew, 163.
Wife's cold feet, 123.
Wife sold eggs and bought clothes, 54.
Wife laughed when husband stubbed toe in dark, 43.
Husband would not cut his nails, 41.
Husband broke plates, 136.
The clock ran down, 11.
Husband would not quarrel, 13.
Husband would not go to church, 6.
Wife threw husband's pipe into the stove, 4.
Wife wore red ribbons, 4.
Pump froze, 3.
House smelled of onions, 3.
Wife made coffee without an egg in it, 3.

Madgett's recital includes other causes of quarrels, which are as follows: Because the black hen's leg was broken; cause the cow choked on a raw turnip; because the canary bird died; because he was not a Baptist; because the house smelled of cabbage; because the horse ran away; because Germany would not give up Alsace-Lorraine; because a dog howled; because God made Eve out of one of Adam's ribs; because alligators lay eggs; because Solomon had 1000 wives and no end of concubines; because the Mormons are not Indians; because pineapples do not grow in Canada; because he fell in the creek; because he shot the pig; because she sat down on his hat, and because they had no children.

"BIG FRANK" M'COY GOES TO BELLEVUE

Famous Bank Burglar, Penniless and Dying, Tells of His Career of Crime.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Frank McCoy, known in criminal lore as "Big Frank," a bank burglar, who has stolen and spent fortunes, was admitted to Bellevue Hospital last night, penniless and dying.

He was a companion of Jimmy Hope, who was buried two weeks ago, and participated with him in the famous Manhattan Bank robbery. On his deathbed last night McCoy, a giant in stature and a patriarch in appearance, with his long white hair and flowing beard, recalled some of the adventures of former years.

"I took no actual part in the Manhattan Bank robbery," he said, "but I helped plan it and received part of the bonds taken from the vaults. I never realized on them. Hope and I broke into the Philadelphia Savings Bank of Philadelphia in 1872 and got away with $60,000. It was a Catholic institution and most of the money belonged to poor people. The police suspected us, but had no proof. Several prominent Catholics appealed to us in the name of the poor depositors and we gave most of the plunder back. It can do no harm to tell it, now that Hope is dead and me so close on his train.

"I had a hand in many of the big jobs in my day and spent several good years of my life in prison. I'm glad to be able to say that I never had to kill a man. I have had some pretty close calls myself. The nearest I ever came to being killed was in 1877, when a gang of us tried to crack the bank at Suffolk, Va. It was early in the morning, on election day, and we were discovered at work. There was a hot chase after us and plenty of shooting, and if we'd been captured alive they'd have hung us without waiting for judge or jury. Those were exciting times, but most of the old pals are dead now, and I guess my time is about up."

McCoy is suffering from nephritis. He has no home of immediate family, but is said to have well-to-do relatives living on Staten Island.

"Hello, Paul Werner," Said Detective, Surprising Prisoner.

Paul Werner, who is a prisoner at the Four Courts, will go back to Milwaukee, where he is wanted on the charge of embezzling $264 last September, without a requisition.

When Detective McNeil saw Werner leaning against a post at Eighth and Locust streets Tuesday afternoon he rushed up to him and striking him in the stomach with his hat exclaimed: "Hello, Paul Werner." Partly from the effect on his breath of the blow in the stomach and partly from the shock to his nerves from having his right name pronounced, he could not speak for a moment. Then he claimed to be Peter Wolf, but after being taken to the Four Courts admitted his identity. He says he is innocent

BROKE PLATES TO DANCE WITH BRIDE

Ashley Building Residents Throw Dollars at Dishes for Privilege After Wedding.

CELEBRATION TWO DAYS

Bridegroom Proud of Mate Who Waltzed Hours at Time All Night.

The second day's celebration of the wedding of Gizzego Takelea and Mariann Stizencka is in progress in the Ashley Building and at a neighboring hall.

Their courtship began beneath the shadows of the Ashley Building two months ago. At 8 p. m. Tuesday Rev. Father Gneilinski, pastor of St. Kasimir's Church, in the presence of 400 friends, performed the wedding ceremony.

The bride was attended by Proitri Vinkorowski and Tony Komosa was the groom's best man.

The celebration that followed the ceremony was strenuous and the end is not yet. Immediately after the priest had read the wedding service the floor was cleared for dancing, and from a few minutes after 8 p. m. until 3 a. m., Wednesday the dancing never ended.

Residents of the Ashley Building and the friends of the young couple participated with a zest. Each man was eager to dance with the bride, but this could not be accomplished until a certain ceremony had been gone through with.

Money-Throwing Contest.

A number of heavy iron-stone china plates had been provided, and the man who threw a coin into the plate with sufficient strength to break the plate could get a dance with the bride.

A silver dollar was the smallest coin that could be expected to break the plate, and at that it required strength behind the toss. All the money that went into the plates became the property of the newly married couple, and at the end of dancing it was found that $164 had been paid for the privilege of dancing with the bride.

Takalea was proud of his bride's endurance. He said that she danced steadily three hours at a time on several occasions.

Takalea was the host at the feast that followed. Wednesday there was plenty of refreshments left, and anyone who attended the wedding was at liberty to regale himself. There is still dancing, but the bride is not among the number.

She will appear for a little while late Wednesday and then she and her husband will go to their apartment on the third floor of the Ashley Building.

LEAP SAVES LIVES, TRAIN HITS AUTO

Charles A. Logeman and Chauffeur Have Narrow Escape, Near Factory.

6 HORSES KILLED THERE

Motor Is Wrecked by the Fast Speeding Freight Train.

Charles A. Logeman, president of the F. H. Logeman Chair Co. at 2000 North Main street, and his chauffeur, Frederick Rheinheimer, saved themselves by their quickness and agility from serious injury Tuesday afternoon when Mr. Logeman's automobile was wrecked by a Chicago & Alton freight train.

Mr. Logeman's left ankle was slightly sprained; Rheinheimer was not hurt.

The accident occurred at 4:30 p. m. in front of the chair factory, which is alongside four tracks of the Terminal Association. At this same point six horses belonging to the Logeman company have been killed by trains in recent months.

Mr. Logeman had started for his home in Normandy.

They turned south from Mr. Logeman's office, and after going a block started across the tracks from the east.

At this point there is a slight curve, and several box cars on the tracks obstructed the view.

Leap as Train Hits.

An instant before the automobile reached the eastern track, Mr. Logeman saw a freight train approaching rapidly from the south. The automobile, also, was going rapidly. There was no possibility of stopping it before it reached the rails

Mr. Logeman called to his chauffeur and sprang out of the machine, to the left. Rheinheimer sprang out to the right. The lightened auto sped upon the track as the two men struck the ground.

The train's speed could not be checked, and just as the machine was going over the west rail the engine struck it, smashing it and throwing it upon the other tracks.

Scores of employes of the factory witnessed the accident and hurried to the scene. Mr. Logeman was somewhat slow in getting to his feet, and it was feared he was badly hurt. An attempt was made to carry him into the factory, but he refused to be carried, and walked unaided to his office. There his ankle was massaged and he proceeded to his home on street cars.

The wrecked automobile was towed to a shed in the factory. The damage to it is estimated at $900.

MODISTES' MODEL ARRIVES.

Parisian Poser for Dressmakers Will Stand for Draperies in New York.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Mrs. Brown, said to be the most famous model in the world, who poses for Parisian modistes in winter and New York dress builders in summer, arrived on the Kron Prinz Wilhelm to fill a number of engagements. It is said that Mrs. Brown is the best paid model in the business, receiving in some cases $1000 for allowing the gown of some rich society women to be fitted to herself. She has a remarkably fine form and stands on French heels above the medium height.

Mrs. Brown wore, when she landed, a most astonishing gown of silk, cherry colored, slightly shading into buff or fire brick. Inside the blue jacket was a smart chemisette. The hat was a low, bell-shaped beaver of large circumference, over which drooped an immense black feather.

Two Checks Received to Save Lives of Babies

One Contributor Sends $10 to Pure Milk Fund While Aboard Railroad Train—A Charity That Is Worthy of Support From All.

Two contributions, aggregating $15, were received by the Post-Dispatch Monday for the Pure Milk Fund. One letter, written on board the Pennsylvania train between St. Louis and New York, requested that the check for $10 enclosed be credited merely to "cash." The other letter was from Mrs. E. L. Glasgow Jr. and enclosed a check for $5.

The St. Louis Pure Milk Commission is accomplishing much in the work of saving the lives of babies who live in the congested districts of this great city. Especially is this work appreciated by the physicians who are familiar with the conditions existing in the districts where the milk is supplied and who are conversant with the methods of the commission.

In every large city the death rate among infants during the summer months increases at an alarming rate. Close observation has shown that this is due in a large measure to the impure food which the babies receive. Before the St. Louis Pure Milk Commission established its laboratory at 1726 North Thirteenth street, and began dispensing a food that is as near to mother's milk as science can produce, the corner grocery was depended on for the milk supply.

It was not altogether the fault of the grocer that danger lurked in every drop. Oftentimes the milk was adulterated, and germs that might prove fatal to the baby would develop in a few hours in the best of milk. Milk that left the corner grocery store pure at one hour would in another become unfit for food, and when baby took the milk into the stomach the germ developed, disease resulted and death in many instances followed.

The commission has remedied this. Only the purest of milk finds its way to the laboratory. Here it is pasteurized, subjected to a heat that destroys the germs, but does not interfere with the food qualities. The milk is put in bottles of sizes adapted for the uses of babies aged from a few weeks to 3 years, and each bottle contains just enough for one feeding. The milk is sold at the nominal price of 1 and 2 cents, according to size, for the bottles, and in the event that the family to be supplied be worthy and unable to pay this nominal price, the milk is supplied absolutely without cost.

The revenue derived by the commission will not pay more than 5 per cent of the operating cost, and the commission is dependent on subscriptions from the public to continue the work.

Contributions for this worthy cause will be received and acknowledged by the Post-Dispatch.

What will you give to save the life of a baby?

Tried to Open Cash Drawer.

Albert Jennings, an orphan who says he is 16 but looks to be no more than 14, was in old City Hall Police Court Wednesday on the charge of reaching over the counter while he was taking an ice cream soda at 2013 Market street and trying to open the cash drawer. Judge Tracy was convinced by the boy's appearance that he was under 16, and placed him in charge of the probationary officer for arraignment in the Juvenile Court. Albert says his father and mother died within two months of each other two years ago, and since then he has been "doing the best he could."

PNEUMONIA GERM SOUGHT.

New York Health Commissioner Wants Man to Go With Peary.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Health Commissioner Darlington has suggested to the Pneumonia Commission that it extend its research to Greenland. Yesterday he wrote to Lieut. Peary asking that a representative of the commission be a member of his next Polar expedition.

"It is the general belief," said Dr. Darlington, "that the pneumonia germ does not exist in the Eskimau. We hope definitely to settle the question. The Esquimaux are to be examined for the germ. I consider the research one of the most important the world of medicine has ever known.

"The report of the commission is to be published in August, but the work is to go on—maybe for years."

USE TOOTH BRUSH THRICE EACH DAY

Dental Experts Scores Those Who Do Not Keep Mouth Perfectly Clean.

MAY PREVENT DECAY

From Early Morn Till Dewy Eve Brush and Powder to Be Kept Busy.

Do you brush your teeth at least three times daily?

Do you use tooth powder and dental floss and brush them up and down?

Do you brush the gums as well as the teeth?

Do you use a mouth wash for rinsing just before retiring at midnight?

Do you brush your teeth 5 minutes at a time?

If you don't do all these things, you are one of the persons whom Dr. E. E. Haverstick scolded good and hard in his paper on "Prophylactic Dentistry," read before the June meeting of the Fraternal Dental Society of St. Louis at Hotel Jefferson Tuesday evening.

"What lady or gentleman," asked Dr. Haverstick, "would dare go down the street with the filth on the front of her dress or his collar that is hidden behind their lips?"

And then he went on to tell how comfortable and happy are those who take proper care of their teeth, and how unpleasant to their friends are those who don't. Honestly, you would have thought he wasn't a dentist, because a dentist makes his living from people whose teeth have gone wrong, and Dr. Haverstick says your teeth won't ever decay if you attend to them the way they should be attended to.

Therefore he was taking the bread out of his own mouth when he thus gave the public a straight tip as to the best means of keeping dentists out of their mouths.

The Right Sort of Brush.

You must use a brush with moderately strong bristles, says Dr. Haverstick, the bristles curving toward the back or handle. They should form a tuft at the end. And the powder you use must not contain grit. You must use certain liquids to disinfect the mouth. Do this before breakfast. Keep the teeth closed, or almost closed, while they are being brushed. Relax all the muscles of the face when the outer surfaces of the teeth are being brushed. Open the mouth wide when you are brushing the inner surfaces.

Lots of supposedly nice people don't keep their teeth as clean as they should, Dr. Haverstick says. Society is finding them out, he declares. They have been forgiven heretofore, but patience is nearing its limit. And it won't do for them to plead that they "try" to keep their teeth clean and wholesome. They "must" do it, because it's easily done, and there's no pardon for those who claim to be of neat habits of person and yet have unclean teeth.

Gentility demands clean teeth, says Dr. Haverstick, and his fellow dentists agreed with him. His paper was warmly applauded.

TELEPHONE GIRL A NOVEL HEROINE

Ivan Whin's Representative Tells of His Latest Assignment to Get Material.

By Ivan Whin's Representative

"We must get down to work now," said Ivan Whin this morning.

He persists in regarding my ten days' experience dodging identifiers as a lark, a vacation. I cannot make him understand the nervous strain of it at all. When I try he reverts to a pile of notes signed by feminine names and remarks:

"You seem to have had a pretty good time."

"Half of those are from girls who never saw me. Some pretender jollied them," I declare.

"Ah, but the other half," he says twinkling.

The worst of it is there is, in one instance—maybe two—some ground for his suspicion. I can't in truth make a sweeping denial.

He has an unerring nose for romance. Little Brown Eyes, the telephone maiden I mentioned in the last story of my wanderings, was to him, the pivotal point of a romance.

"We must get down to work now," he said.

"What'll it be?" I asked, despairing of changing his thought of my task.

"Telephones. Find out all about the telephone girl, where she originates, how she's employed, by whom, her hours of work, the scene of her work, everything about her. Did you ever notice that all telephone girls have the same voice? This is absolutely true of girls in downtown exchanges. How are they trained to speak alike? Who does it?"

"What'll you call the story?" I asked curiously.

"'My Thirty-Fourth Heroine,'" he said, looking at me over the tops of his glasses.

"Good," I said. "It's fine, it's 'different,' it's catchy."

"We'll have to hurry," he said.

I looked inquiringly at the glasses that now glared at me.

"Why?"

"I've set back the speculator story and 'My Thirty-Fourth Heroine' must be ready to begin in the Post-Dispatch next Monday."

There it goes. Out of the frying pan into the fire. A ten days' hustle after information he is not ready to use, with all its incidental annoyances, and now a swifter hustle for a new set of facts.

However, Ivan Whin writes his best stories under pressure and I can see Little Brown Eyes looking very romantic in the setting he will give her.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Under a decision handed down by Justice Vernon M. Davis of the Supreme Court, Robert L. Cutting, scion of a mighty family of the "400," who married Minnie Seligman, an actress, and who, in consequence thereof was disinherited by his father, must pay former Surrogate Ransom $400 a year for life as compensation for his work in bringing about a settlement whereby Mr. Cutting received $30,000 in cash and $4000 a year for life.

It was disclosed at the trial that immediately after Robert L. Cutting learned the contents of his father's will, he retained Ransom and agreed to pay him 10 per cent of any cash recovered. He paid for a time, then when sued set up the defense that the agreement was in champetre.

R. E. AGENTS PROTEST SALE

Object to Disposal of Central Presbyterian Church to Negroes.

When Central Presbyterian Church congregation meets Wednesday evening to consider the sale of the old church at the northeast corner of Lucas and Garrison avenues, they will receive a protesting petition, signed by numerous real estate owners in the neighborhood against the completion of the sale or to any other negro congregation.

Memorial congregation has already paid $1000 earnest money on the deal, although the pastor intimates that there is considerable opposition in the congregation to the purchase.

At a meeting of the Methodist ministers Monday Rev. C. M. Keeton, presiding elder of the negro conference including Memorial Church, said Union Methodist Church, which is at the southwest corner of Lucas and Garrison, need feel no apprehension as to the results if the negro congregation should get Central Church. He declared both the white people and the negroes had quite enough to do to attend to their own work, and said if the color question was the only one to be considered the white people would be taking a very un-Christian attitude in opposing the purchase. He declined, however, to say that he was in favor of the purchase, and it is understood he will confer with his bishop before announcing his attitude.

NO SUBPENAS ARE OUT

Belief That Farris and Smith Boodle Cases Will Be Continued Again.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 21.—No subpenas have as yet been issued, either for the State or for the defense, in the Smith or Farris cases, which are set for trial in the Cole County Circuit Court next Monday.

All the jurors and witnesses in the Lee case were notified by Judge Davis at the time of the continuance last week to be on hand next Monday morning. As next Monday, the 26th, is the date set for the hearing of the maximum freight rate law injunction in the Federal Court in Kansas City, it is considered doubtful here that Attorney-General Hadley can be in Jefferson City on that day, and this seems to clinch the general belief that there is to be a continuance of the cases.

POPE PIUS X IS ELIMINATING HIS OLD ADVISERS

Head of the Church Becomes Constantly More Independent of Help in Management of Catholic Affairs.

ACCEPTS RESPONSIBILITY AND EXERCISES POWER

Spends His Days Much Alone and Relies Upon His Own Judgment and Faith to Solve Problems.

ROME, June 21.—Within the last few months it has become apparent to everyone connected with Vatican circles that Pius X no longer consults anyone in relation to church business and that he has gradually been making his position as the head of the church more and more independent every day from the influences of his entourage.

Immediately after his election to the Pontificial throne Piux X, endowed as he is with a great sense of responsibility, finding himself unprepared for the great burden placed upon him, had to rely more or less on the advice of the oldest Cardinals and prelates of the church, many of whom, known for their experience in church affairs, had even volunteered to assist the new Pope with their advice.

Then there were personal obligations towards the Cardinals who stood by him in the conclave, obligations which even Pope Piux X could not entirely disregard, and so he made a practice of insisting that these Cardinals should visit him frequently at the Vatican in order to help him in conducting the business of the Church.

Cardinals Now Little Seen.

One of these Cardinals was the Camerlingo of the Church, Cardinal Oregla, who had presided at the Conclave and to whom, more than to anyone else, the election of the present Pope was due. He was made much of by the Pope during the first few months of his reign and was seen daily ascending the staircases of the Vatican to be closeted with the Pope for several hours at time. Gradually, however, even the Cardinal Dean ceased to find his advice and assistance needed by the head of the Church, and now it is very seldom he ever visits the Vatican, and then only on perfunctory duties without intimate or lengthy conversation with Pius X. This has of late become the fate of other Cardinals—the two Vannutellis, Satolli, Martinelli and Gotti—who for many months had held the Pope's ear.

How this change came about few really know, but it seems that the disastrous effect of the policy inaugurated by Pius X toward the French Government, following the counsels of his intimate advisers, was the principal cause that made Piux X open his eyes wide and doubt the reliability of the advice given him.

It was easy for Pius X to discover that every one of the Cardinals on whose services he had relied was bent in separating the Holy See from the line of policy followed by the late Pope and Cardinal Rampolla, his Secretary of State. This was not caused so much by the fact that the policy was wrong or disastrous, but by personal opposition to Rampolla, who, as it appears in the Conclave, was the only Cardinal who commanded at first the majority of the votes of the Sacred College. Then it was known how often during the reign of the late Pope Cardinal Oreglia clashed with the then Secretary of State and with the Pope himself regarding many matters of church discipline and how he never had gone to the Vatican oftener than once or twice a year notwithstanding the personal requests of the late Pope for more frequent visits.

Had Taken the Wrong Road.

All these considerations persuaded Pius X, that he had taken the wrong road and that, perhaps, as the responsibility of every decision in church matters remained on his shoulders, it was better that he alone should decide what was best to be done in difficult contingencies, without following the advice of any one in his entourage.

Spends His Days Much Alone.

How beneficial the present position of the Pope will be for the church only the future can tell. In the meantime the Vatican halls are usually deserted, few of the Cardinals ever making an appearance unless obliged by the duty of the positions they hold in the several congregations, or called to the Papal residence to take part in solemn functions and ceremonies.

Pius X spends his days very much alone, his only companions being his young Secretary of State, who visits him for an hour every morning and receives his orders for the work of the day. Mgr. Bressan, his confidential secretary, answers Pius X's personal letters at the Pope's dictation, and has never been known to make any observation or criticism. The other prelates on duty in the Papal apartment glide softly here and there, as occasion requires, but are kept in absolute ignorance regarding the really important affairs of the church.

The Papal summer villa at Castelgandolfo, near this city, has just been made ready for the occupancy of the Cardinal Secretary of State, who will spend there the two hottest months of the summer. Electric light has been introduced and direct telephone and telegraphic communications with the Vatican installed. It is the Pope's intention that all the members of the Papal household shall take turns of two weeks at a time to enjoy the magnificent air of the Alban hills, as he feels seriously himself the forced confinement of two years within the walls of the Vatican.

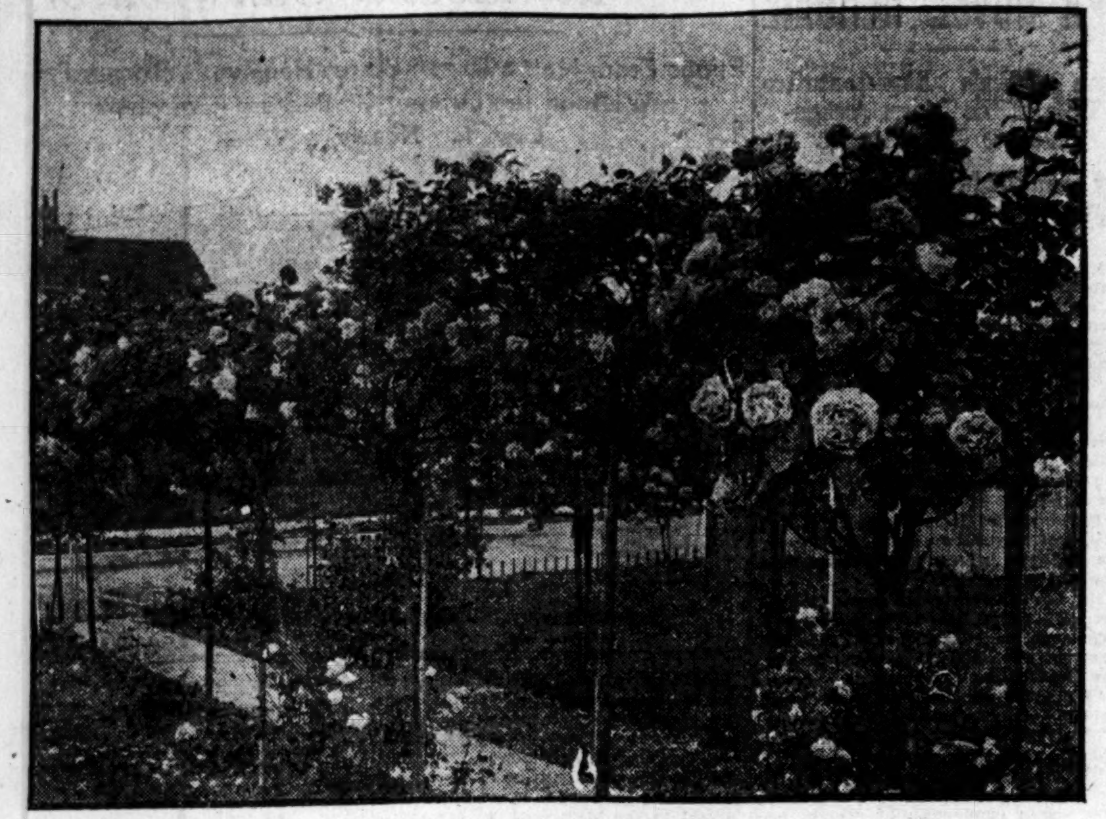
Ten Million Roses Bloom in Portland to Delight the Eyes of Exposition Visitors



No Home, However Humble, Is Without Its Rosebush Which Grows There to a Height of 36 Feet.

PORTLAND, Ore., June [illegible].—Ten million roses are now in bloom in Portland, to the joy of Exposition visitors. This is an estimate made by an expert rose culturist. If these roses were strung on a string, side by side, the posy-line would reach from St. Louis to Chicago and across Lake Michigan to the famous Gretna Green, St. Joseph, with roses enough left over to entwine garlands for all the brides who will elope from Chicago for the next ten years. This rope of roses, a gorgeous, glorious strand of variegated hues and mingled perfumes, would reach more than 315 miles—and all made up of rose blossoms now actually in full bloof in the city of Portland, which invites the world this season to come hither and behold its Lewis and Clark Centennial Expsition, and its roses.

Portland has approximately 140,000 inhabitants. Figuring seven persons to each house, it has 20,000 homes. One may search for days and fail to find a home in Portland, however cheap and humble, that is not glorified by at least one rose bush.

Every yard is generously studded with rose bushes stooped under the weight of hundreds of blossoms. The city offers a riot of color. Roses of every hue are to be seen in profusion, and the soft atmosphere is freighted with the welcome perfumes of these varied flowers. The stranger in the city raves over the sight. The people of Portland revel. They are enthusiastic. A good-natured rivalry exists among them. Each strives to outdo his neighbor in an abundance of flowers or in the production of new species.

While the profusive growth of the roses is surprising, the size some of the bushes is more so. At the home of Frederick V. Holman, 500 Taylor street, a bush has climbed the side of the residence to a height of 36 feet. In the rear of the same house is a bush 30 feet high and covering the front veranda is one 24 feet high.

In the height of the season approximately 20,000 blossoms adorn these three bushes. The surfaces are so covered that the green of the leaves cannot be distinguished, and from under the outer roses blossoms hang in tiers two and three deep. Some houses are completely hidden by the vari-hued blossoms, which brush the arm as you enter.

To bring its roses before the public, Portland put forth every effort to make "Rose Day," June 3, one of the most memorable occasions of the Lewis and Clark Exposition period. Almost every citizen in the city contributed blossoms for free distribution. These were handed out to visitors at the Exposition.

A "rose parade" was a feature of the day. In this were seen hundreds of vehicles, automobiles, barouches, victorias, traps and carts, their wheels and bodies decorated with the magnificent blossoms. Roses were strewn along the highways, on the floors of the Exposition buildings and covered the surface of the Exposition lakes. They made a glorious, never-to-be-forgotten scene.

NAN PATTERSON IN DEFENSE OF HERSELF

Florodora" Girl Writes to New York Papers, Denying She Has Visited Tenderloin Cafes Since Her Release.

NEW YORK, June [illegible].—Nan Patterson, "Florodora" girl, who is still under indictment on a charge of murdering "Caesar" Young, her lover, has taken to writing letters to the local papers in defense of herself. Here is an extract from her latest:

"In the character of a woman who has but recently emerged from imminent peril of death, and who has now to begin the battle of life, with the burden of an indictment for murder still hanging over her, I ask permission to correct certain lying statements now in active circulation in various quarters, and to remove from the mind of the public an entirely erroneous impression as to the general conduct of my life since my release from prison.

"It is not true that I have visited any Tenderloin cafes before or since the tour, which, alas! came to so sudden a close.

"There is no truth in the story that on the night of my release, during a supper, I gave a certain toast, bearing directly on the trial in which I was a defendant. The story is a malicious lie, one of many emanating from a certain clique of enemies in the Criminal Courts Building. These persons are, however, in no sense connected with the District Attorney's office. In pursuance of a pledge made to my mother, I have refrained, and shall to the end of my life refrain, from use of wine.

"My story since I stepped out of the Tombs has been a monotonous record of work and home life.

"The second phase of my letter bears upon my motives in returning to the stage, and as to which again the public have been misled by lying reports.

"I return to the stage for these reasons:

"1. The necessity of earning a livelihood.

"2. Because the stage is my profession and the only calling for which I am fitted.

"3. The necessity of paying my debts.

"4. Because I hold the belief that it is possible for me to take up my career as an actress where I left it when I met the man whose name has been associated with mine.

"My return to the stage is, after all, only a reversion to first principles. It is as natural for me to go back to the stage as for the professional man to return to his desk or the mechanic to go back to his bench.

"I am determined, by ceaseless work and study, to earn an honorable place on the stage. With the help of God I will prove that it is possible for me to build a new life and a new career on the ashes of the past.

"The dreadful days and nights in which I stood in the shadow of death have left an indelible mark on my heart. The mark is deep enough to guide every action of my life, and to keep green in my memory for all time the words of the accomplished jurist and kindly gentlemen who presided at my last trial."

PIONEER IS LOCATING OLD OVERLAND TRAIL

Ezra Meeker, in Prairie Schooner, Is Doubling Back on the Track He Traveled in 1852 and Will Write a Book About It.

PORTLAND, Ore., June [illegible].—To define the exact route of the old Oregon immigration trail across the country as he traversed it 52 years ago, is the aim of Ezra Meeker, a pioneer, who has reached Portland on the steamer Joseph Kellogg, coming from Toledo, on the Cowlitz. He travels by prairie schooner of the old type, hauled by Stub and Twist, two fine 7-year-old oxen. Mr. Meeker will proceed from here to Council Bluffs or Kainsville, as he refers to the city.

Mr. Meeker has passed the 70-year mark on the trail of life, but there is no sign of feebleness in his clear eye, erect—frame and sturdy bearing. It was in 1852 that Mr. Meeker crossed the plains, accompanied by the wife who has shared his joys and sorrows for 54 years. With them came the first baby boy, and they stopped at Portland for a time before continuing on into Washington, settling at Tumwater. The pioneer and his oxen began the present journey from Puyallup, coming by way of Olympia and Bush Prairie, and thence to Toledo, where the steamer was boarded. A hired man and his wife are members of the party, and while Mr. Meeker drives the team and his helper keeps an eye on the brakes when the condition of the highways demands, the woman rides on the box.

Mrs. Meeker is not in the robust health she was when the family first migrated westward, consequently she remained at the Puyallup home. From Portland the schooner will be taken to The Dalles by water, the same way in which the family entered this region, and there Mr. Meeker will endeavor to locate the old trail which was blazed by those hardy sons in early days. He will mark it by townships and sections as far as Council Bluffs, in order to quiet numerous disputes regarding where the trail travels and to secure material for a book he proposes to write. He is the author of "Pioneer Reminiscences of Puget Sound" and "The Tragedy of Leschi," and he thinks that in the story of the old trail he will have a publication that will be welcomed by early settlers.

IOWA MAY LOSE CONGRESSMAN THROUGH POPULATION REDUCTION

State Census, Now in Progress, Indicates That Some Former Citizens Have Moved Away.

SIOUX CITY, Io., June [illegible].—Decrease in population, indicated by returns already received in the State census now in progress, threatens to deprive Iowa of one member of Congress.

For a State famed for politicians, conspicuous for the prominence of its Congressional delegation, and favored by double representation in the Cabinet, this is a serious blow.

The redistricting of the State, which a reduction in its representation would entail, might eliminate Congressman W. P. Hepburn, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, author of the canal bill, for aught that can now be told.

J. A. T. Hall, who has been Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs for 10 years; Congress Lacey, Chairman of the Committee on Public Lands; Congressman Cousins, a well-known editor, and Congressman Conner, Chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings, are alike in danger of being dropped should the worst happen.

Estimates based on reports thus far received by the State official who has charge of the census clearly shows that the rural districts have suffered a decrease in population during the five years elapsing since the Government census, and the reports fail to indicate a corresponding increase in the census of the urban centers.

The last Congressional apportionment was made under the census of 1900, and the next will be made under the census of 1910. The ratio of representation under the present apportionment is one Congressman to every 194,182 population. The increase under the last census was so slight that Iowa was disappointed in not securing an additional Congressman. It was conceded then that the next apportionment would witness an increase in the ratio of representation, which would result in a reduction of Iowa's Congressional delegation even if there was no decrease in population. Decrease in population leaves little room to doubt that such will be the case.

CUPID'S RUSH AT CITY HALL

Wednesday was a busy day for the Marriage License Clerk. In the three hours of business from 9 a. m. to noon he issued 43 licenses, which he says is the biggest June morning he has ever had.

"There does not appear to be any especial reason for the rush," he said, "except that this is June, and women like to get married in June, and there is not much of June left."

None of the prospective brides and bridegrooms could give any reason for the rush. Speaking of their individual cases, they merely said "it's the date we selected."

NO FAVORITE FOR DENEEN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 21.—Gov. Dineen will not play favorites with the senatorial candidates in naming the State Railroad Commission, which he will do in a few days. In fact, it is understood that he has already selected the men, and they represent each of the three senatorial candidates in the field.

The three men selected are James S. Neville of Bloomington, James A. Willoughby of Belleville and Charles G. Eckhart of Tuscola. Neville is a Yates man, Willoughby is for your uncle, Shelby Cullom, and Eckhart is a lieutenant of former Attorney-General Hamlin.

Thus does the Governor hope to please all the candidates and make no enemies.

Health Wrecked by CATARRH WHICH AFFECTED KIDNEYS.

Pe-ru-na Restored His Health.

HON. JNO A. HEILMAN, KANSAS CITY, MO.

In Miserable Condition For Years.

Hon. John A. Heilman, 3536 Flora avenue, Kansas City, Mo., City Assessor for twenty-two years, writes:

"I am very grateful for what Peruna has done for me.

"My health was run down and broken, the result of kidney and bladder trouble.

"I was in a miserable condition for a good many years.

"Peruna was recommended to me and after using it a few days I began to improve, and kept on improving until I was finally well again.

"It is a blessing to have good health."

BOTH the kidneys and bladder are subject to catarrh.

KIDNEY CATARRH LEADS TO SERIOUS DERANGEMENTS.

Catarrh of the kidneys results in a derangement of these very important organs, poisoning the system with retained acids and excretory products.

Catarrh of the kidneys very soon produces catarrh of the bladder. The urine becomes highly acid and irritates the mucous lining of the bladder until it produces that condition known as "cystitis," in other words, catarrh of the bladder.

PE-RU-NA AN INFALLIBLE CATARRH REMEDY.

These cases are very promptly and permanently cured by the use of Peruna.

Peruna cures catarrh wherever located, whether in the kidneys, bladder or any other organ.

Should you be in need of special instructions regarding the treatment of your case, write at once to Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio, and your letter will receive a confidential and prompt reply.

MUST MAKE SCALE OR MINES CLOSE

Illinois Coal Operators Vote Ultimatum for Presentation to Miners.

STRIKE PROBABLE RESULT

Shotfirers' Law Held to Abrogate All Existing Wage Scale Contracts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 21.—Coal miners in the Illinois district must submit to making a new wage scale by June 30 or all the mines in the district will be closed down.

This is the ultimatum of a resolution adopted here at a meeting of the Illinois Coal Operators' Association which will be presented to the miners' union officials.

It is believed that the miners will refuse to accept it and that a lockout is sure to be the result.

The miners have a satisfactory wage scale at present and the contracts thereunder run until April 1, 1906.

The operators hold that this scale contract will be abrogated by a new mining law, called the shotfirers' law, which goes into effect on July 1. This shotfirers' law is calculated to make mining more safe and entails considerably more expense on the operator. Its passage was procured by the miners' union officials, or at least supported by them.

The extra expense the operators assert should be in part borne by the miners' since the operators are forced to incur it solely for the miners' benefit. The miners demur.

This and the fact that the enforcement changes the basis, according to the operators, of the wage paid will make the present scale void.

Hence the ultimatum.

So apparently certain does it look that a lockout and strike must follow the presentation of the ultimatum that large users of coal are storing great quantities against the emergency.

Ranney Indicted for Murder.

Jack Ranney, bartender in Max Gumpertz's saloon, is charged with murder in the second degree in an indictment brought by the St. Louis County Grand Jury in its report submitted to Circuit Judge McElhinney Tuesday for killing Earl Townsend, a chorus singer, June 7. At the coroner's inquest a verdict of justifiable homicide was returned, but county officials ordered Renney held under heavy bonds to await the action of the grand jury.

LIT CIGAR IN FIREWORKS STORE: BANG!

Smoker Threw Lighted Match Over His Shoulder and Then——.

The next time that Edward Chaffee of East St. Louis lights a cigar in a fireworks store he will look behind him before flipping the burning match over his shoulder.

Tuesday evening, at the notion store of J. T. Branch, 227 South Fourth street, the match fell in a box containing $50 worth of freedom explosives, and the next minute the liveliest kind of a premature celebration was in progress.

Branch and his son-in-law, Charles Gilliland, carried the box out on the sidewalk, Gilliland burning his hands severely, and somebody sent in an alarm, but by the time the firemen arrived the celebration was over.

The damage, outside of the loss of the fireworks, was immaterial.

IS IT ANY WONDER

That Malta-Vita Melts in Your Mouth and Satisfies as No Other Food Can?

Do you know why Malta-Vita is so delicious, so crisp, so sweet? Do you know why it is the most satisfying and healthful food in the world?

Because—

Malta-Vita is made from the best white wheat.

Before the process of manufacture begins, the wheat is cleansed and scoured and the dust and refuse are drawn out of the big factory by suction, leaving it as fresh and pure as your own kitchen.

The grain is thoroughly cooked in water and steam and matured in fresh, pure air. By this time the starch in the wheat has been gelatinized, or, in other words, has lost all its indigestible characteristics.

Now the wheat is mixed with the highest quality of malt extract and this malt extract, a most active digestive agent, converts the gelatinized starch into malt sugar.

You understand, of course, that malt sugar (maltose) in which Malta-Vita is always so rich, is of wonderful food value, very strengthening and easily digested. It makes the digestion of the crisp flaked wheat an easy task, too, even for the weakest stomach.

Malta-Vita is baked under such intense heat that when it comes out of the ovens, its crisp brown flakes are delicious beyond description, it contains only a little more than one per cent of moisture.

Do you wonder now why it melts in your mouth?

And here is another thought.

Throughout the entire process of manufacture Malta-Vita is practically untouched by human hands. Machinery—clean, shining machinery—conveys it through all the changes, even to the filling and sealing of the air-tight, moisture-proof packages.

Malta-Vita is the perfect food for old and young, weak or strong. For the run-down or overworked digestive organs it is a God-send. It makes red blood, refreshes the brain and the nerves, builds up bone and muscle. It is so satisfying and healthful that no home should be without it.

Malta-Vita is 10 cents at all grocers—same high quality, same big package as when it sold for 15c.

PECK CONVERTED NOT THE PASTOR

And Stratford M. E. Church Becomes Possessed of Strip of Deists' Land.

END OF LAND TALKFEST

Rev. Royal Raymond Listened for 11 Hours to Arguments Under Queer Compact.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—The very latest syllables have been spoken in the celebrated long-time, word-endurance contest wherein the Rev. Royal W. Raymond was the listener to the deistic argument of Thaddeus E. Peck.

Mr. Peck has not converted the minister but he admits sorrowfully that the minister has heard his arguments to the end. And best of all, the Methodist Episcopal Church at Stratford, Conn., of which Mr. Raymond was pastor when he entered into the contest, has obtained from Mr. Peck clear title to a strip of land 10 feet by 100 and valued at $250. By a curious contract made on Sept. 1, 1902, Mr. Peck gave the strip of land to the church on the condition that Mr. Raymond "should reasonably and honestly listen to Thaddeus E. Peck for the period of 11 hours * * * for the purpose of study and mutual investigation in questions of science and theology."

When Raymond came to his present pastorate in Brooklyn, four hours of the alloted time were still unserved. After long negotiation, talker and hearer agreed upon a date.

To avoid being overtaken by reporters, Mr. Raymond and Mr. Peck met at New Haven and went to Savin Rock, New Haven's Coney Island, where they found comfortable places in the pavilion and settled down for a solid four hours' talk, Mr. Peck took up his discourse where he left off months.

"Loyalty to nature," he said, "is obedience to God. Ignorance is crime against good. The crime of crimes is ignorance. The state has no penalty for the man who plays the fool."

Mr. Peck declared that the theology of to-day is antiquated, practically obsolete. The churches to-day, he said, try to prevent the spread of enlightenment. All other sciences than theology have grown and advanced.

At 6 o'clock, after three solid hours of listening, Mr. Raymond said he was hungry. He led the way to Wilcox's restaurant and there the talker and hearer made an onslaught on clams, lobster and blue fish and all the other elements of a shore dinner. Mr. Peck never ceased talking. At 7 p. m. Mr. Raymond drew out his watch and called attention to the time.

"Are you converted to my way of thinking?" asked Mr. Peck.

"No," replied the minister.

"Too bad. You ought to be," said Mr. Peck.

$1000 IN BONDS FORFEITED.

Five bonds to the amount of $1000 were forfeited in the Dayton Street Police Court Wednesday when neither James McMahon, an excavation contractor, nor his five drivers who were arrested Saturday on charges of operating wagons on which no city license had been paid, appeared in court to answer to the charge.

In addition a fine of $10 was assessed against each of the five missing men.

GIRL FALLS THROUGH SHAFT

Cashier Topples From First Floor to Basement Trying to Board Elevator.

Miss Laura V. Bryan of 4731 Maffitt avenue is suffering from nervous depression and injuries consequent on a fall Tuesday through an elevator shaft from the first floor to the basement of the establishment of the Wheeler & Wilson Manufacturing Co. at 1005 Olive street, where she is employed as a bookkeeper and cashier.

Miss Gussie Reisse and Miss Effie Reed, employes, were riding to an upper floor on a freight elevator, and Miss Bryan tried to board it after it had left the first floor. She lost her balance and fell off and rolled into the shaft. She received a scalp wound and was unconscious when picked up. After a doctor had attended her there she was sent home in an ambulance.

KING DODO'S HAPPY REIGN

Revival of the Pixley-Luders Piece at Delmar Garden Is Surprisingly Good.

The productions at the Delmar Garden Theater improve every week. "King Dodo" is not only the best thing the company has done, but it is almost worthy of one of the first-class downtown theaters.

"King Dodo" could and should run out there two weeks.

This Jones is a hustler. Jones is the stage manager. Jones knows a thing or six. He knows players when he sees them, and he is getting some good ones into the company at Delmar. He knows the chorus manual. He knows a lot about mythical isles like Dodoland, which really are not, but which seem to be when Jones waves his magic wand over the stage. His staging of "King Dodo" is bristling with professionalism and experience. Jones made the original production of this Pixley-Luder's piece for Henry W. Savage, and he all but equals that original production out at the garden this week.

One week is too short a reign for "King Dodo." He should have two terms. The men who wrote "The Prince of Pilsen" were in a most happy and able mood when they wrote "King Dodo," and it is fine outdoor entertainment these hot summer nights, what with its pretty music, its good lines and funny business, its big Amazon chorus, which the audience would have worked to death last night, and its fine opportunities for such able people as Gus Weinburg, Eleanor Kent, Edwin A. Clarke, Bessie Fairbairn, Pearl Revare and W. H. West.

The Delmar company is rapidly becoming the best which any St. Louis garden has had. Weinburg is proving a satisfactory comedian, and Clark, the new baritone, sings and acts in a way to add immensely to the tone of the performance. If Stella Tracey is to join the troupe, as it is announced she will, the performances at Delmar will become a great bargain for the summer prices. The company's great need now is just such a wonderful soubrette as Tracey is.

A very acceptable young tenor, now permanently located here, Mr. Harold Gordon, appeared for the first time at the Alps last night, singing a cycle of songs with Mr. Lund and the orchestra, and also another series of selections accompanied by a smaller number of instruments. Mr. Gordon's varied and exacting opera experience here as well as elsewhere served him handsomely in a somewhat ambitious outdoor endeavor, and he succeeded without apparent effort in filling the vast auditorium to the remotest parts, thanks to the workings of the big acoustic shell under which all the music is now being offered at the famed World's Fair resort. Mr. Gordon pleased immensely with two somewhat unfamiliar numbers: "I Envy the Bird," from the serenade by Victor Herbert, and "My Dream of You," by Rodney. Mr. Lund takes great store by Herbert, whom he regards as easily the foremost American composer. Herbert is an Irishman by birth, a German by education, a man of the world by choice and an American by adoption. His versatility is reflected in every bar he has ever written. Mr. Lund plays his works by preference because they were written for a large orchestra and have never been heard here except at the hands of the thinly-scattered instrumentalists in theaters called an "orchestra" by courtesy. The addition of Mr. Gordon's tenor solos to the Alps' tonal scheme this week will prove very acceptable to the many lovers of advanced music to be found among the patrons of the beautiful open-air resort. Mr. Gordon has an extensive repertoire on which he will draw liberally during his present engagement. Attendance at the Alps continues satisfactory to all concerned.

The Wills Musical Comedy company is in its last week at Suburban Garden. It will give way next Sunday to Melbourne MacDowell and his company in the dramas of Sardou. This week James Leslie is appearing in the part of Mulcahey, and John D. Wills is as Tim McCormick. The piece is an old-timer among musical farces, and has two scenes which are quite well-known for their fun-making—the Irish reel and the donkey scene. The piece was generally introduced through the United States by Murray and Mack. Miss Helston and Miss Adams are the other leading players.

Paul Conchas, at Forest Park Highlands, held out against weather and weight and gave a remarkable exhibition of physical prowess and endurance. His playful antics with Krupp heavy shells and cannon balls are as nothing compared with the lifting of a gun carriage on his jaw, and even that feat is topped by the finale, in which he makes a human bulwark of himself and receives a flood of cannon balls from an inclined plane on his back, between the nape of the neck and the shoulders. Conchas is none the worse for these daily exhibitions. He is a perfect specimen of physical manhood, with not an ounce of superfluous flesh, but muscles of steel, and as springy as rubber bands. Friend Morton, he who can talk nonsense by the yard, and make people laugh in spite of themselves, succeeded with his clever trickery as well as ever. Snyder and Buckley are among the capital musicians and fun makers, and the Doharty Sisters were delightful in songs and dances. Cole Frances Bowers is a singer with a fine voice and good looks to boot.

The Marco Twins are doing the bulk of the amusing work in Mannion's Park this week, heading a pretty good program of vaudeville. Ranking next is Tom Ripley, a monologue man of ability. Sawtelle and Sears, girls in a song and dance act, are dainty. Le Dent, in comedy juggling, is clever, and Wahlund and Tekla, in an athletic turn, are diverting. The biograph winds it all up with new views, these pictures changing weekly.

A farce-comedy of the lively sort, "Les Trios Ch peaux," was produced at West End Heights Sunday by Washburne's New York Comedians, and these clever players will continue through the week with the piece. It was written by Robert Shirley, and, like others of his plays, has breeziness and a broad comedy, which are peculiarly suited to al fresco performances. Mr. Seay is rather at his best in the piece, and others of the company, notably Miss Lackaye, the leading lady, are very enjoyable, indeed.

THREE WAGONS AND CAR IN COLLISION

One Vehicle Knocked Against Others and All Smashed—One Man Hurt.

A west-bound Market street car struck an east-bound huckster wagon at Seventeenth and Market streets at 7 a. m., Wednesday. The huckster wagon was hurled against a dairy wagon, the dairy wagon was thrown against an ice wagon, all three wagons were damaged, two horses thrown down and one driver injured.

The huckster wagon was driven by W. Edward Raynor, a negro, of 2641 Pine street, who had his wife with him on the wagon.

The dairy wagon belonged to Herman Vorweick of 4031 Papin street, who was in a saloon at the time delivering milk.

The ice wagon was owned by J. P. Nicks of 3222 Laclede avenue and driven by William Sieckman.

The huckster wagon had just turned into Market street from Seventeenth and was directly in front of the other two wagons standing by the curb.

Two front wheels were knocked off the huckster wagon, the shaft broken and the driver and his wife thrown to the street. The driver sustained some bruises and cuts.

The front wheels and pole of the dairy wagon were broken. The two horses attached to the ice wagon were hurled to the street and cut and briused.

BONDS WORTHLESS, CORRIGAN SAYS

Turf Magnate Has Broker Arrested for Selling Alleged Worthless Paper.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Edward Corrigan, the Western turf magnate, caused the arrest of Zebulon Stewart on the charge of selling $125,000 of worthless bonds, purporting to be issued by the New Orleans Jockey Club.

"There are several men involved in this," said Corrigan. "They operated in Los Angeles, Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans. They began business six months ago by organizing the Imperial Brokerage Co. They posed as officials of the New Orleans Jockey Club and offered the bonds at 99. They purported to draw 6 per cent interest. The paper was of $100 and $500 denomination. I don't know who the purchasers are. The stuff was sold all over the country. The first quarterly interest was paid."

Stewart said that R. E. Funk, president of the brokerage company, has received all the money. The New Orleans Jockey Club is the new enterprise promoted by Corrigan and largely owned by him. The first meeting was run last winter.

SUBMARINE SUNK BY LOSS OF ONE RIVET

Expert Reports Apparently Trifling Defect Responsible for Loss of 11 Lives.

LONDON, June 20.—The loss of one rivet from the forward petroleum tank caused the recent loss of the British submarine boat "A 8" with the death of 11 men, according to Capt. R. H. S. Bacon's report of the accident.

The small hole in the petroleum tank was sufficient, the Captain says, to admit a ton of water in ten minutes.

The ensuing explosion in the craft, the report adds, evidently did not occur until an hour after the boat sank. The nature of the burns on the bodies of the crew proves that the men must have been alive at the time of the explosion, although the Captain thinks it most improbable that any of them were conscious.

SSS THE BEST TONIC

When the system gets debilitated and in run-down condition it needs a tonic and there has never been one discovered that is the equal of S. S. S. It is especially adapted for a systemic remedy, because it contains no strong minerals to derange the stomach and digestion, and affect the liver and bowels. It is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks selected for their purifying and healing qualities, and possesses just the properties that are needed to restore to the body strong robust health. When the blood becomes impure and clogged with waste matters and poisons the body does not receive sufficient nourishment and suffers from debility, weakness, sleeplessness, nervousness, loss of appetite, bad digestion and many other disagreeable symptoms of a disordered blood circulation, and if it is not corrected some form of malignant fever or other dangerous disorder will follow. S. S. S. builds up the broken down constitution, clears the blood of all poisons and impurities and makes it strong and healthy. The nerves are restored to a calm restful state, refreshing sleep is had again, the appetite returns and the whole system is toned up by this great remedy. S. S. S. is a blood purifier and tonic and acts promptly in this run-down depleted condition of the system. Book on the blood and medical advice furnished by our physicians, without charge.

I have used your S. S. S. and found it to be an excellent tonic to build up the general health and give tone and strength to the system. I have used other things highly recommended, but S. S. S. did me more good than everything else combined. As to its tonic properties it gives a splendid appetite, refreshing sleep, and the system undergoes a general building up under its invigorating influence.

SUMMER HEAT

Causes those who are afflicted with Piles, Fistula, Fissure and other diseases of the rectum great annoyance and untold suffering.

To those so afflicted I wish to say: If you will put yourself under my care and treatment I will guarantee to cure you in from ten days to three weeks, after which time you will be entirely free from the trouble, annoyance and suffering you have endured ever since your trouble came on. By reading the testimonial letters in this advertisement (and hundreds in my book which I will be pleased to send to you free on request) you will learn directly from my former patients that notwithstanding the fact that many of them had been afflicted and endured suffering all the way from one to thirty years or more, they were cured sound and well in a very short time after they put their case in my care.

My 18 years of close application to my specialty in St. Louis has won for me a host of friends, friends because I have cured them of serious rectal troubles of years' standing, after they had tried others, and many remedies of various kinds. Therefore you should not put off taking treatment until the warm weather is over, but come now. Then you can enjoy the rest of the summer and go into the fall with better health and comfort than ever since you became afflicted.

A Word About My Treatment

My treatment is mild. I do not use the knife or caustic. My patients are seldom confined to his or her room while under treatment. This point is important to you, for many times the afflicted would take treatment if they could spare the time from their daily duties. You will find the best proof of these points by reading the testimonial letters above referred to.

Don't fail to send for my free book, and remember that I give consultation and make examination at my office, or by mail, free of charge. Whether you take treatment or not I will give you my opinion of your case, and tell you just what is necessary to do to be cured. Yours respectfully,

M. NEYSMITH, M. D.,

Mr. Geo. W. St. Louis, Mo., March 14, 1905.
Dr. M. Ney Smith, 814 Pine street, St. Louis, Mo.

My Dear Dr. Smith—It is with deep gratitude that I am pleased to write you, that your treatment has entirely cured me of the piles. It is now over a year since I was treated and I have forgotten that I ever had the piles. At one time it seemed that I had always had them! I suffered with them for 20 years. I treated them with everything that I ever heard of but without success.

I had given up in despair, when a friend spoke to me of you, which led to my trying your method of treatment.

Your method was a surprise to me, as I suffered very little from the treatment.

I feel that I owe you much, not only for the cure, but for the kind and considerate manner in which you handle your patients. It gives me great pleasure to commend you to any who are in doubt as to your ability to cure them. I feel sure that your treatment will cure any case, no matter how long standing. You have my permission to give this statement to the public.

I am pleased to say that Dr. M. Ney Smith's professional and business standing is the very best, and I am pleased to recommend him to all those who are sufferers with diseases that he treats. If you submit your case to him he will cure you. With very best wishes, I am yours truly,

Mr. F. Otto Eisenring Cured of Blind, Protruding and Bleeding Piles—Had Suffered Twelve Years—Tried All Remedies—Tried a Number of Doctors—Saw Dr. Smith's Ad in Paper, Then Went for Treatment—Friends Advised Me Not to Patronize an Advertising Doctor—But Today, Thanks to Dr. Smith, Am Well—I Regard Dr. Smith's Treatment Best in World—Lost Little Time From Business, Severe as Case Was—Entirely and Completely Cured — Wants Prospective Patients Referred to Him.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 21, 1905.
My Dear Doctor Smith:

On the 24th day of March, 1904, I came to you for my first treatment for the Blind, Protruding and Bleeding Piles; and I will say that I have never regretted the day I first made your acquaintance.

As you already know, I had been a sufferer with the above trouble for 10 years, and during that time I had tried all kinds of remedies without any success, and there were any number of doctors who wanted me to undergo an "Operation," in order to be cured.

Noticing your "ad." in a morning paper, I decided to give you a trial, and I will state again I have never regretted the decision!

I had any number of friends tell me not to patronize advertising doctors; that they would not help me, etc. But today I know better, for I gave you a trial and you entirely cured me. I regard your treatment the best in the world! For, under your treatment, I lost but a few days from my business—severe as my case was, I suffered but little pain. I am entirely and completely cured.

You can use this letter whenever you want to if you think it will be of any benefit to you, and you can also recommend your patients to me, if you choose, for I can tell them better of my affliction and cure.

Hoping you will continue in your good work and wishing you all the success in the world, I am, Yours in health,

Mr. Henry B. Eveker, a Very Bad Case of Piles—Cured—Tried Every Known Remedy—Suffered Ten Years—Underwent One Operation—Got Only Temporary Relief — Recommends Dr. Smith's Treatment to All Afflicted With Piles—Treatment Cured His Friends.

St. Louis, Mo., March 18, 1899.
Dr. M. Ney Smith, 814 Pine St., St. Louis, Mo.

Dear Sir—I cheerfully add my testimony to your list of "testimonials," having been cured by your treatment of a very bad case of piles. I had tried every known "remedy," such as ointments, salves, etc., etc., for ten years; also had surgical operation performed before applying to you; all of which gave but temporary relief only, but no cure.

I recommend your treatment to all those suffering with that troublesome and torturing disease of piles, as I am confident it will do for others what it has done for me. Your treatment has cured friends of mine to whom I recommended you; they are now entirely cured by your treatment. Respectfully,

Henry B. Eveker

BALTIMORE BANS UNSEEMLY NOISES

Trolley Parties Must Cease to Emphasize Their Fun With Horns and Cowbells.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BALTIMORE, June 21.—The Municipal Board of Public Safety has decided to put a stop to the blowing of horns, ringing of cowbells and the making of other "loud and unseemly noises" on the part of trolley parties.

The subject was brought before the board by Mr. George W. Gall Jr. at a meeting at the City Hall. As President of the Fire Board Mr. Gall is at the head of the Department of Public Safety. He told the board of some personal experiences on the street last Wednesday night while a noisy trolley party was passing. He said the noise was "sufficient to raise the dead, much less greatly disturb the sick."

Mr. Gall was instructed to bring the matter to the attention of City Solicitor Bruce and request him to prepare an ordinance prohibiting such noises by trolley parties. It is believed that the ordinance will deal with street noises of every sort. It will be prepared and introduced in the Council solely in the interest of hospitals and persons who are sick or injured. Health Commissioner Bosley, who is Secretary of the Board of Public Safety, heartily indorsed the movement.

Commissioner of Street-Cleaning Wickes brought to the attention of the board the necessity for the issuance of an order preventing householders from mixing garbage with ashes, especially during the summer months. It was agreed that the law in the case should be enforced, and instructions to that effect will be issued to the Police Department. Mr. George R. Willis, President of the Police Board, took part in the discussion. Mr. Willis is a member of the Board of Public Safety by virtue of his office, and he is a regular attendant on the meetings of the board.

Among those who enjoyed the affair were: Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox; Misses Jeanette Kempff, Grace Thornhill, Tessie Amier, Louie Wilcox; Messrs. Wegel Schulte, Albert Kempff, Thomas Spahn, Mead Powell.

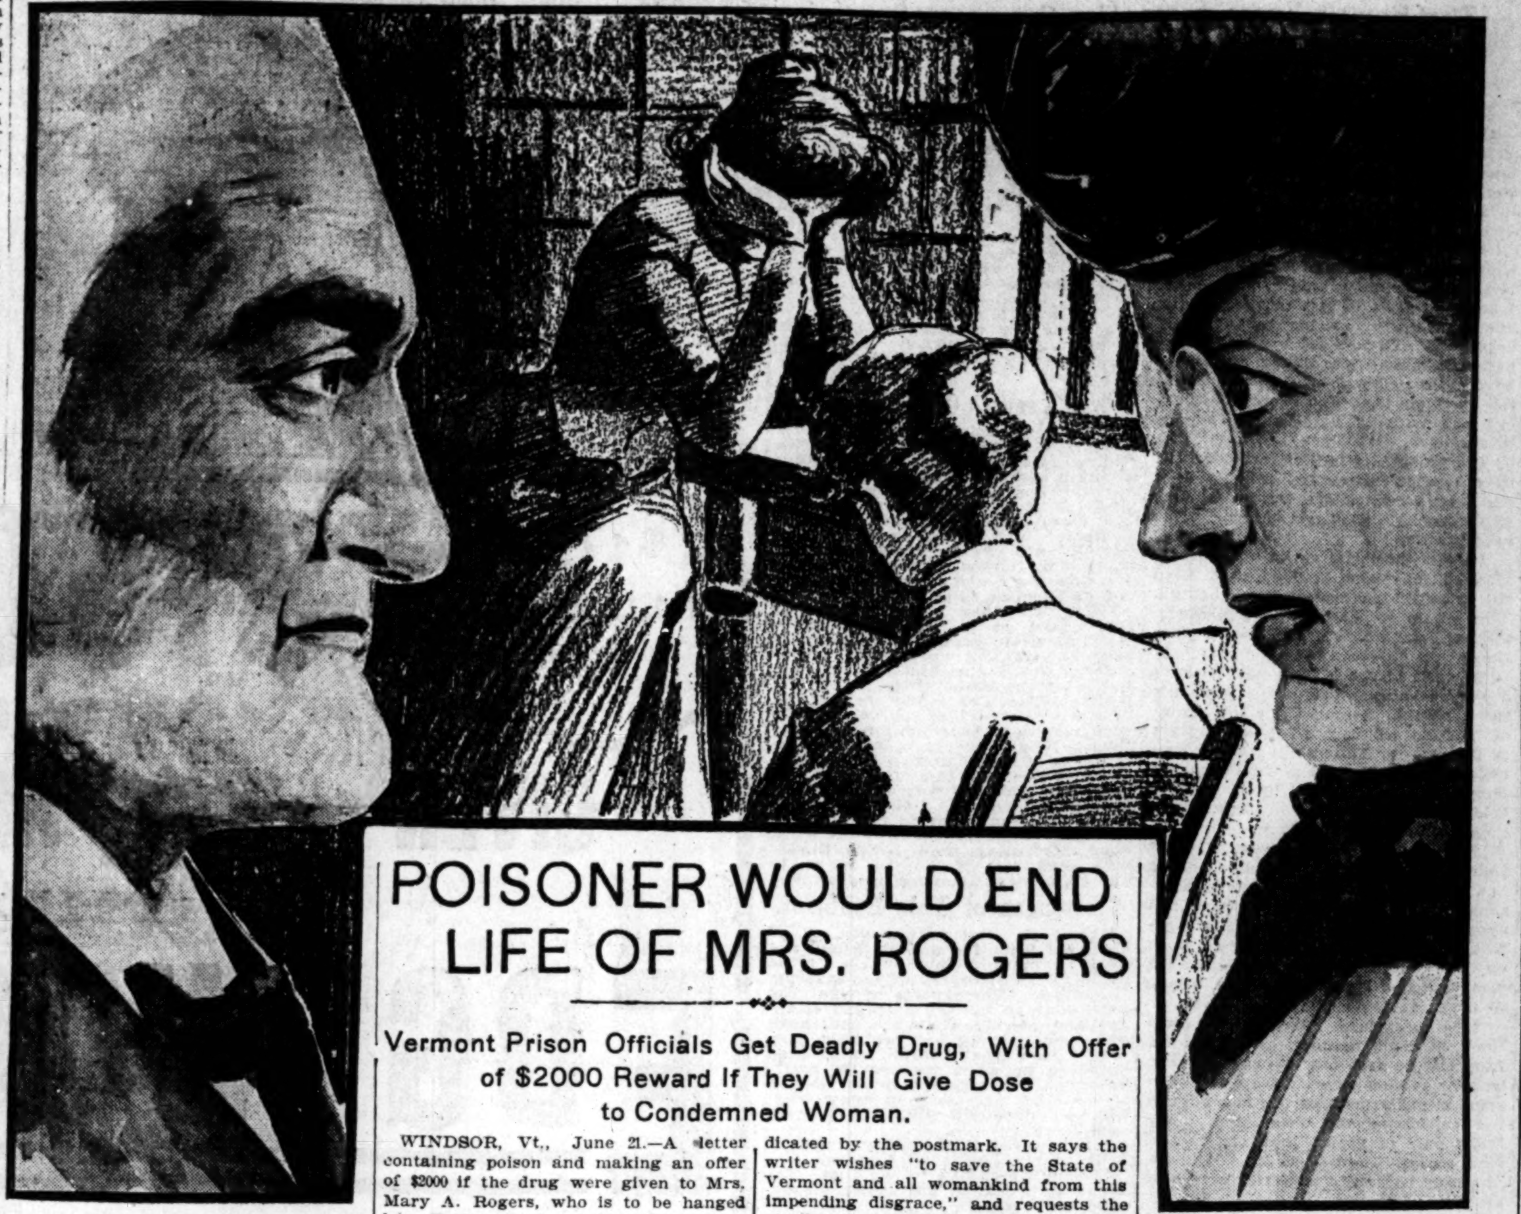
Mrs. Mary Rogers of Windsor, Vt., Condemned to Hang Friday, Gov. Bell, Who Can Save Prisoner's Life if He Chooses, and Death Watch Guarding Cell as Hour Approaches for the End



POISONER WOULD END LIFE OF MRS. ROGERS

Vermont Prison Officials Get Deadly Drug, With Offer of $2000 Reward If They Will Give Dose to Condemned Woman.

WINDSOR, Vt., June 21.—A letter containing poison and making an offer of $2000 if the drug were given to Mrs. Mary A. Rogers, who is to be hanged here Friday for her husband's murder, was received by Superintendent Lovell of the state prison today. The letter was turned over to the federal authorities.

The letter, which bore no signature, was mailed in Boston yesterday, as indicated by the postmark. It says the writer wishes "to save the State of Vermont and all womankind from this impending disgrace," and requests the warden to arrange for Mrs. Rogers to take the "inclosed powder," promising "if the gallows is cheated on Friday" to mail him two $1000 bills.

The writer says if further details are desired to insert a personal in a certain Boston paper to "Justice."

Then Louis Bowman Took His Father's Money and Pistol and Ran Away.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PATERSON, N. J., June 21.—Louis Bowman was as good a boy as ever was—until Saturday. He stood at the head of his class; he read such books as "Cecil and His Dog" and John S. C. Abbott's histories. He was kind to his pets and never played marbles "for keeps."

Yesterday, astounding to say, Louis, 13 years old, disappeared from his home, taking with him, according to his father, $2200, a revolver and a supply of cartridges, all belonging to his father, the money being his parent's life savings.

His parens are certain that some "little black boy" tempted him; some other self, the Mr. Hyde of his small Dr. Jekyll.

Louis is freckled-faced, light-haired, with a big scar on the side of his head. He wore a black and white spotted shirt, blue knickerbockers and a blue cap.

LAST WISH OF PRIEST.

Father Schreiber May Be Buried Beside Vicar-General.

It is probable that the last wish of Rev. Father Francis Schreiber, to be buried by the side of the late Vicar-General Muehlsiepen at Arcadia, Mo., will be complied with. Rev. Father Schreiber, who died at 11:30 o'clock Tuesday night at the Ursuline Convent, was a close friend of the Vicar-General. Since his retirement from active work, 10 years ago, he had lived at the convent, where the Vicar-General lived up to his death, two years ago, and Father Schreiber was with him when he died.

Father Schreiber held pastorates in the Chicago and Peoria dioceses before his retirement. His attainments were exceptional. He was considered one of the best Latin and German scholars in the country. He was 73 years old. Death was due to kidney disease.

TWO WOMEN ARE ACCUSED OF MURDERING THEIR HUSBANDS

Los Angeles Coroner's Jury Says C. E. Thaisz Was Shot in Back by a Revengeful and Jealous Wife.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 21.—That C. E. Thaisz, the Pasadena durggist, formerly of Ridgewood Heights, L. I., was murdered by his wife, who afterwards committed suicide, is the verdict of the coroner's jury. Testimony of men who found the bodies and of the physician who performed the autopsy showed that the murder was deliberate and that the woman shot her husband in the back as he was running away. It was also made evident that Thaisz had not touched his wife.

Just a year ago last April Mrs. Coleman E. Thaisz, a handsome woman, left her home on Ridgewood Heights, with the avowed intention of tracking her husband, who had deserted her because of her threats against his life, to the end of the earth, if necessary, to kill him. She was successful in Los Angeles.

Thaisz was a prosperous druggist, and expert in pharmacy, unassuming, and devoted to study and research. His wife could not understand his studious moods, and they seemed to arouse her to insane jealousy. It was not until more than 15 months ago that neighbors learned that the home life of the couple was unhappy. Mrs. Thaisz complained that her husband ill treated her. Neighbors never saw anything to justify the complaint, but on the contary extended their sympathy to the husband, who finally fled.

New York Police Hold Wife of Edward Crane, Who Was Shot in Back of Head at His Home.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Edward W. Crane of East New York is dying at a Brooklyn hospital from a bullet wound in the back of his head. His young wife is held by the police.

A policeman heard the shot and rushed up to the door just as a revolver dropped from the bedroom window above. It grazed his shoulder in falling. He picked it up, forced open the front door and going to the second floor saw Crane lying full length on the floor, partly clad. He was unconscious.

Beside him half knelt his wife who was moaning and wringing her hands, calling upon her husband to speak to her. Crane revived when a physician had been called, but refused, as he did later at the hospital, to make a statement.

Mrs. Crane was taken to the station, where she declared that her husband came home late, started a quarrel and threatened to kill her. In a scuffle over a revolver which he held she said he was shot. How the bullet happened to strike Crane in the back of the head the young woman could not tell.

PATENT WORK BEHIND

Twenty Thousand Patents and Trademarks Untouched in Office.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The work of the United States Patent Office is further behind than at any period in the history of that institution. Twenty thousand applications for patents and trademarks remain unacted upon, although a large force of clerks are working heroically to bring the work of the office up to date. This rush of business indicates public prosperity, for when money is scarce inventive genius takes a back seat, for the necessary funds with which to meet the requisite fees is not always easily found by those who seek patents.

The rush for protection on trademarks can be accounted for by the fact that a new law enlarges the scope of the trademark, that is, allowing it to be used in commerce among the several States, this having been denied under the old law. Since the first of April, when the new law went into effect, there have been 7000 applications, or about twice as many as were received during the whole of last year.

The work of the Patent Office cannot be hurried, for once a decision is made by the Patent Examiners it stands for 17 years and gives the patentee a monopoly on his product during that period. On the first of the new fiscal year 11 new Examiners will be added, but the force will still be inadequate, for the officials contend that at least 50 new Examiners should be added to the staff.

The Patent Office is the only one of all the Government bureaus that is self-supporting, and yet Congress has declined year after year to give it the force necessary to keep up with its work. It is more that self-supporting; it puts into the Treasury annually a large surplus. When the work now on hand is disposed of it will net the Government in fees a little more than half a million dollars.

ARRESTS STOPS HONEYMOON

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GALVESTON, Tex., June 21.—Federal officers grabbed J. W. Campbell here just as he was about to board a steamer for New York with his 15-year-old girl bride.

They held him on warrants charging him with defrauding an Indian Territory bank out of $7500 and with having deserted his wife and family.

Campbell has been a well-to-do merchant of Marlow, I. T.

The girl with him was Miss Dora Meyer. He persuaded her to run away with him. She believed him a single man and that she was married to him properly. She showed a disposition to stick by him when the charge of fraud was made, but she could not stand the accusaton that he was a married man before she married him, became hysterical and then tried to kill herself. She was placed under guard and will be returned to her parents.

Campbell will be taken to Ardmore. The officers have been warned to be very careful, as Miss Meyer's family have many friends who might try to summarily dispose of Campbell if they got a chance.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Johann Hoch, who is to be hanged Friday, is as chipper as a sparrow. While his lawyer is making a last appeal to Gov. Deneen, the prisoners in the county jail have contributed $100 towards appealing Hoch's case.

"I have done all I can do," said Hoch. "Now I trust in my friends and in God. I have asked a loan from the other prisoners in the jail and they have all been very glad to help me.

"Oh, I stand well in the jail. They have just put their hands in their pockets and have given whatever they had. Some times it was 50 cents, and some times it was $10. I've no idea what it amounts to yet.

"It's only a loan. I'll pay it all back when I get my book published. I'll make a fortune out of it and it will be easy to pay this money. It will take me all summer to finish the book.

"Of course, if they hang me Friday, the book won't be finished."

PLANS MARRIAGE WHILE NOT FREE

Then Wyker Writes Girl That He's Dead and Names Burial Date.

LADY GOES TO FUNERAL

Arriving Miss Hall Finds Wyker Alive and Legal Proceedings Follow.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MOUNT VERNON, O., June 21.—Edward Wyker, a married man, residing in Fredericktown, north of this place was arrested in Mansfield by Chief of Police Dermody and brought to Mount Vernon to face a charge filed in court of having falsely represented himself to an unmarried woman.

He pleaded not guilty before Mayor Gotshall and was released under $100 bond. He will be given a hearing next Saturday. In addition, he is defendant in a $10,000 breach of promise suit filed this afternoon in the Common Pleas Court by Miss Henrietta Hall, a charming young woman, whose home is in Senecaville, Guernsey County.

According to the story related by Miss Hall, she met Wyker in Newark last fall while she was visiting a sister. It is claimed that Wyker represented himself as a widower, when, in fact, he has a wife and one daughter residing in Fredericktown.

It is said that he pressed his attentions on Miss Hall during their stay in Newark and subsequently visited her at her home in Senecaville. His last visit at the Hall home was early in June, when it is said that final arrangements were made for their wedding, which was set for Tuesday, June 13.

Engage the Minister.

A minister was engaged, and Wyker exhibited a long list of names of persons to whom he said invitations had been extended for a reception arranged for June 25, at the home of his father, William Wyker, one of Knox County's wealthiest and best-known farmers.

Wyker returned home after the arrangements for the wedding had been perfected, leaving Miss Hall happy in the prospect of the marriage, as she supposed, to a man of immense wealth.

Her dream was turned into sadness Sunday night, when she received a letter signed "Carrie," Wyker's little daughter, stating that "Papa had died Sunday, after a two hours' illness of paralysis."

The letter continued to say that the funeral would be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Miss Hall hurried to Fredericktown on the first train, and when she arrived she learned that Wyker was married and that he was not dead, but very much alive.

Proceedings Begun.

She then came to Mount Vernon and employed L. C. Stillwell as her attorney and at once commenced both the criminal and civil proceedings. She states that letters written to her by Wyker were filled with most endearing terms, and that on one occasion he sent photographs of his father's fine farm and said that the broad, fertile acres and fine buildings represented a portion of his own wealth.

Miss Hall, who is heartbroken over the developments of the week, is still in the city and will remain here until after Wyker's hearing Saturday.

It is said that she has had a trunkful of letters shipped to this place by express and that some of them will be used against the defendant at the hearing.

Miss Hall is an attractive young woman of 22 summers.

Sue Slot Machine Company.

J. W. Collins and H. P. Mosely filed suit Wednesday in the East St. Louis City Court for $8715, which they claim on a contract with the Peters Manufacturing Co., controllers of rights on a patented nickel-in-the-slot cigar machine. They allege that they were to get half on new agents secured by them and $10 bonus on contracts. They say they earned $6130, $2315 of which was paid. They ask the balance of $8715 and $5000 damages.

AMERICAN SCIENTISTS SKEPTICAL AS TO PROF. BURKE'S DISCOVERY

Some Flout and Others Comment Doubtfully on Report That English Experimenter Has Generated Spontaneous Life From Sterilized Bouillon and Radium at Cambridge.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Prof. Burke's claim that he has generated life spontaneously by the action of radium on sterilized bouillon was read with skepticism by New York scientists, so far as could be judged by their comments.

Dr. William H. Park, head of the bacteriological laboratories of the Health Department, said: "Personally, I do not believe in any theories to the effect that life can be spontaneously generated. To pass fully upon the experiment which Mr. Burke is said to have conducted with radium and bouillon at Cambridge, one should be present and actually witness the experiments.

"The probability is that Burke did not have bouillon entirely free from some of the lower forms of life. But he thought he did, and therein lay the error of his experiments.

"In our laboratories we frequently sterilize jelly and bouillon, and keep the tubes for years free from bacteria. Then again we have tubes supposedly sterilized in which forms develop in time.

"Bacteria of one kind or another have a very tenacious hold upon what life they possess. Some of the low forms of bacteria will survive a temperature of 250 degrees Fahrenheit. Some bacteria will withstand the intensely cold temperature represented by 270 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. In other words, they will live in liquid air.

"Bastian, another Englishman, some years ago convinced himself that he had succeeded in spontaneously generating life, and he has since remained apparently firmly convinced to that effect. Recently he has published a book on the subject. But his so-called demonstration was obtained by means so crude as to be almost laughable.

"Life must have started at some time, in some manner, on the globe. Life may be even now starting in some manner at some place on the globe. But spontaneous generation of life is against our experience and observation. We know only of germs that are derived from germs. There is, so far as I know, absolutly no proof that germs have ever grown from nothing.

"I do not know what effect the radium could have had upon Burke's bouillon. Radium is supposed to be not actively destructive of life, but at all event slightly deleterious thereto. We can grow bacteria in a radio active fluid, quite true, but they do not grow very well. If there is any stimulating effect on bacteria by radium it is infinitesimal."

Prof. T. M. Prudden of Columbia, declined to comment on the Burke experiments, because, he said, he did not know anything about them.

Dr. Thomas Darlington, Commissioner of Health, took Dr. Park's view, that the bouillon was not sterilized.

Dr. Walter Bensel, formerly of Columbia, now Sanitary Superintendent of the Bronx, said: "I have never believed in the theory of the spontanenous generation of life. It involves producing something from nothing, and is contrary to all our experience and observation. It will be found there was an error in the Burke experiments—an error due to the fact that his bouillon was not prefectly sterilized."

Nothing Will Come of It.

Prof. Otis T. Mason, Chief Curator of the National Museum at Washington, and Chief of the Anthropology Division of the institution, and other Government scientists declined to discuss the matter for publication, but informally discussed the subject freely.

Many other scientists have made the same claim, they say, but no one has yet demonstrated his theories.

Prof. Burke declares, if his conclusions are correct, he has demonstrated they fit in exactly with Herbert Spencer's definition of life. Spencer's definition of life is "a series of changes from homogeneity to heterogeneity through differentiation to integration."

One of the leading scientists of the Government says: "Radium is a wonderful thing, but it also appeals to the imagination, and there have been many interesting experiments with this new discovery. Some of them are very useful. If Prof. Burke, by the use of radium and bouillon, has succeeded in producing cultures he has merely demonstrated Spencer's definition, but I am not prepared to say that he has produced life itself. It is strange that the leading scientists of the world, after experimenting for 20 centuries, have not discovered the secret, and I do not believe we have approached it. The trouble with all of these wonderful claims is that when an honest attempt is made to demonstrate these discoveries nothing comes of them."

Like Negative Gravity Theory.

Dr. Charles W. Duval, one of the best-known pathologists of Boston and an extensive experimenter with radium in medicine, would make no comment on the cabled discoveries of John Butler Burke of Cambridge, England. The line that Dr. Burke has been following is outside the course pursued by Dr. Duval, who, as a member of the City Hospital staff, has been employing radium in the treatment of diseases. He was greatly interested and would look for further reports. Asked if he considered such a find impossible, he replied that he would not say a word.

Another eminent pathologist, who on no account would have his name mentioned, said:

"The time is not more than three years back, and rather less I should say, when, if asked for a comment concerning such a thing as spontaneous generation, I should have replied that it was quite as impossible as 'negative gravity.' But today our ideas of the universe are being overturned, and what seemed impossible a few years ago is now taking position among things commonplace. A great deal, of course, depends upon the standing of the investigator, and whether or not, like Prof. Koch, he has been badgered into premature announcement. As it now reads, the statement of Burke's findings seems as substantial as a sudden announcement from somewhere that there is such a thing as negative gravity."

Faithless at Cornell.

Scientists at Cornell put no faith in the reported discovery of life by John Butler Burke, the Cambridge, England, scientist. It is the opinion of the Cornell professors most competent to speak upon the subject that no such discovery has been made, and also that even were such a discovery as that reported from England actually made, it would be of no value.

Prof. B. F. Kingsbury, professor of physiology said: "The discovery of spontaneous generation has been reported time and again in recent years. Each time it has taken very little investigation to discover a flaw. This is undoubtedly another case of the same thing. I for one would not expect living matter to be formed in such a crude manner of that of sterilized bouillon with radium as reported from England. Even if such a discovery had been made it cannot have any practical scientific value."

Dr. Kingsbury, who said that a professor in the Chicago University had recently declared that spontaneous generation was going on all the time inside the human body as a part of the process of the assimilation of food, and that it was believed that by proper experiment a similar spontaneous generation could be produced outside the human body, in a much longer time. However, such spontaneous generation, Dr. Kingsbury said, he thought might be possible.

Will Lead to Other Things.

Philadelphia scientists here are extremely loth to discuss the alleged finding by John Butler Burke of life-giving properties in radium in the absence of exact data setting out precisely what he has accomplished and how results were obtained. Dr. John L. Borsch, one of the earliest investigators into the properties and uses of radium, virtually voiced the expression of a dozen other eminent scientists when he said:

"With less than a hundred words covering a great discovery before me, I certainly cannot be expected to pass an opinion worthy of consideration as to the findings of Mr. Burke or the value thereof. My experiments with radium were directed in other ways and, of course, I got no such results as those obtained by Mr. Burke. The discovery is intensely interesting if not of great practical scientific value at this time. It will doubtless lead the way to other and greater discoveries. I shall look forward with eagerness to receiving an accurate, technical report of the work done and findings made by Mr. Burke, who advances, if he be correctly quoted, a most amazing proposition."

Chittenden of Yale Doubtful.

Russel H. Chittenden, director of the Yale Scientific School, would not give an opinion now on the Burke claim to the discovery of life-making. He added: "The reports of what has been done so far are extremely meager and merely announce that such and such a thing has probably been done. How the results have been achieved or what the results really are have not been set forth. Before it would be necessary to know what has been done and what has been accomplished."

When asked if it was an impossibility, Prof. Chittenden replied:

"I should not like to say that. Too many new things are being discovered every day."

Mr Chittenden is profesor of physiological chemistry in the scientific school and is one of the leading authorities in his line in this country.

JOHN IS A FRIENDLY FISH

Pet Carp of Limeport, Pa., Farmer Responds to Calls and Petting.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., June 21.—Lovine Schaeffer, a truck farmer, living at Limeport, has a trained fish. It is a carp, 24 inches long, weighing eight pounds. Mr. Schaeffer caught it in a mill dam near his house two years ago, when it weighed six pounds. With two others he placed it in a spring in his yard. The fish, which was named John, when called by Mr. Schaeffer or any member of his family, comes to the surface, near the shore, to be fed and petted.

It eats bread from their hands and is fond of cake. To retain a piece of cake, which it has been allowed to bite, it will permit its body to be raised halfway out of the water. It will not respond to the call of strangers, but is not afraid of them if a member of the family is present.

Madden's Horses Will Be Sold.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, O., June 21.—Judge Swing refused to enjoin the sale of John E. Madden's string of 66 yearling horses set for Thursday in New York City. This injunction had been asked by Madden's wife, who alleged that he was trying to get his property in such shape as to defeat her attempt to force him to pay allimony. The judge said that he did not see that a sale of horses would defeat her claims, as Madden is a very wealthy man. Madden is now, according to agreement, paying his wife $250 a month.

UNION LEAGURERS WRATHY AT BROWN

Mysterious Man Insulted Woman and Said He Was Club Member.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Annoyed at the objectionable notoriety into which the man has thrown the club, several prominent members of the Union League have held a conference regarding the mysterious "Thomas Brown," arrested Tuesday night for insulting a woman on Eighth avenue. The fact that he gave the club as his address and then called on a prominent member to be his bondsman and counsel is considered by these members proper grounds for rigidly disciplining him if he is a member, and forbidding him entrance if he was a guest of a member at the dinner given to Joseph Choate.

A photograph of "Mr. Brown," taken as he emerged from court with his counsel, George S. Daniels, was shown to a number of members yesterday, but they failed to identify him. Employes of the Union League said they had seen the man at the club frequently, but did not know his name.

"It is just possible," said one member, "that this man who gave his name as 'Thomas Brown' was the guest of some member at the Choate dinner, and if he was, then it is up to the member to come forward and remove the odium that has attached to the club.

"The angriest man in the League is Mr. Thomas B. Brown, the only member that we have who has that name. He is a regular man here, and always takes his breakfast in the club dining room at 7 o'clock.

"About four years ago a similar accident occurred, when a member was arrested and gave a false name, saying he was a member of the Union League. It happened that the false name he gave was the real name of one of our most distinguished members, who instantly demanded and was given a complete investigation by the club.

"Of course we all know that Mr. Brown is not the man arrested, but the Union League will in all probability take some action to clear the club and its members."

PASSENGERS SAVE BURNING TROLLEY

Car Catches Fire From Motor Box While Running in East St. Louis.

A garden hose and a bucket brigade of amateur firemen were brought into service to extinguish the flames enveloping a burning street car at the corner of Collinsville and Missouri avenues, East St. Louis, about 9:30 a. m. Wednesday.

A car of the Lansdowne line had crossed the bridge on its trip from St. Louis and was speeding merrily up Collinsville avenue when the motor under the car caught fire. The flames communicated to the woodwork of the car and just as the alarm was given the motor "died" and the car came to a sudden stop in front of the unfinished First National Bank Building.

The car was filled with smoke, the flames licking their way upward on the outside until the windows were reached. The 25 passengers in the car, among whom were several women, fled pell-mell to the street.

Motorman Davis spied a garden hose used by workmen on the First National Bank Building. The hose was already connected with a water main and Davis turned the stream on the burning car.

At the same time Conductor W. Maulin organized a bucket brigade of bystanders and they, too, helped to "douse" the car. The flames were extinguished in a few moments, with a damage to the car of about $50, and the disabled car was then pushed to the sheds.

JAPANESE ARMY NOW MOVING ON TO VLADIVOSTOK

Three Columns Marching Overland and Several Transports Are Now on Their Way With the Besiegers.

ROOSEVELT WORKING FOR AN ARMISTICE

Midnight Visit of Ambassador Meyer to the Russian Foreign Office Starts Rumor of Cessation of War.

LONDON, June 21.—A Chee Foo dispatch to the Times says that three Japanese columns are moving parallel to the coast of Northeast Korea with a view of converging at Possiet Bay, 60 miles southwest of Vladivostok. A large fleet of Japanese transports has sailed from Gensan for Vladivostok and it is believed that the Japanese are about to lay siege to the fortification.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 21.—Interest in the peace developments has again been subordinated to that in the war, the developments of which were given additional importance today by the report that the Japanese are moving on Vladivostok.

Reports are very meager, and at the War Department it is stated that no official news is available. The press dispatches, however, state that the move on Vladivistok is being made largely with fresh Japanese troops, who are moving overland to take up the siege.

Press reports and Gen. Linevitch's dispatches to the war office are greatly at variance. The Russian commander insists that he is well situated and begs that the peace plans be delayed long enough to allow him one chance to retrieve some of the lost glory of the Russian flag.

The press telegrams from the front all convey the impression that Oyama is drawing a cordon about the Russian army, and already has it at his mercy. Today's dispatches say that the Japanese have outflanked the Russian position on both sides, and that Oyama has already started a wedge through between Linevitch's left wing and Vladivostok.

The war party is making the most of every moment and begging the Emperor to continue the fighting and break off peace negotiations until the Russian army has done something to make an honorable peace possible.

That President Roosevelt is now taking the initiative in an effort to bring about an armistice, even before the peace plenipotentiaries can get together, is a belief which obtains here.

Late last night, near midnight, Ambassador Meyer was driven hurriedly to the Foreign Office, where he had a long conference with Foreign Minister Lamsdor. It is believed that the American Ambassador conveyed some important message to the Russian official, and as everything is progressing smoothly in the matter of the peace negotiations, there is every reason for believing that the message related to an armistice. Officials both at the Foreign Office and the American embassy declined absolutely to discuss the matter.

WANTS TRUST TO ACCOUNT.

Mrs. Swift Sues Harvester Co. for Statement of Division of Profits.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Mrs. Margaret G. Swift, who says she is owner of 325 shares of the capital stock of the International Harvester Trust, has begun a suit against the trust for accounting. President Cyrus H. McCormick and the board of directors are accused of "high finance" methods.

The trust, she alleges, makes a profit of $10,000,000 a year, but somehow the stockholders do not reap the full benefit of its earnings. The McCormick company, which was established in 1879 with a capital of $2,500,000, was taken into the trust in 1902 for $50,000,000. Mrs. Swift charges that $1,000,000 in rebates from the railroads has been received by the McCormick company up to the time it joined the trust.

John B. Miller, counsel for the Harvester company said: "This Swift suit is an attempt to get even with the company for the discharge of Rodney B. Swift, husband of Mrs. Smith. He was a confidential man for many years. It was discovered recently that he had made $60,000 by selling the company patents which he had previously bought from inventors. They were sold, of course, through other persons. He is being sued for the money."

PROTEST AGAINST LOVELL.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ITHACA, N. Y., June 21.—The alumni of Cornell's College of civil engineering have protested against the appointment of E. B. Lovell to the position of dean and director of the college, which was recently announced by President Schurman. The protesting petition is signed by 30 civil engineering alumni now in the city. E. B. Lovell is now assistant professor in Columbia University and a graduate of Cornell in the class of '91. It is understood that the protest, which will be made to the board of trustees at their annual meeting, charges that Prof. Lovell has been unpopular both as a student and professor and that he possesses little executive ability.

"I Stand for Religion, Not for Fraud," Says Medium

MRS. JOSIE K. FOLSOM.

Mrs. Josie K. Folsom, Accused of Making Bogus Spirit Pictures, Says the American Public Is Too Intelligent to Be Thus Deceived.

"She was a woman. She appeared to be in need of help. I tried to give that to her. This is my reward."

Mrs. Josie K. Folsom of 3007 Dickson street made the foregoing explanation Tuesday afternoon of the difficulties existing in the State Progressive Spiritualists' Association of Missouri, shortly before her departure for Kentucky.

The subject of her conversation was Miss Ella C. Preston, an assistant missionary of the organization.

"As yet," said Mrs. Folsom, "I have received no notification that charges have been filed against me. My only information comes through the public press."

Mrs. Folsom held the office of treasurer of the association. C. W. Stewart was its president. One faction of the organization represented by Dr. Olin D. Whittier and Oscar F. Evertz, declares that Mrs. Folsom and Prof. Stewart have been deposed. Mrs. Folsom contends that such is not the case.

Mrs. Folsom is an original minister of the Spiritualist faith and has performed marriages and officiated at funerals. Her visit to Kentucky, she says, is for the purpose of rest.

Her Recent Sorrows.

"Eight members of my family including my husband, have passed away within the last few months and that together with this strain is too much for me," she said.

The exact cause of the trouble in the organization is hard to determine, different members having different explanations.

Mrs. Folsom, who was born and reared in Kentucky, is a slight woman of medium height. Her hair is brown and she wears it parted and arranged after a fashion that one sees in the magazines published in the Civil War period. It is curly and is permitted to have its way in front. Hair pins hold it loosely in place at the nape of her neck.

Her eyes are a light hazel and have brows, that seem to be mere tracings of a soft pencil. Her complexion is that which many women might envy—a strange whiteness that seems hardly natural. Her lips are thin and color is not wasted in them. Her nose is long and straight.

Her hands are soft and cold to the touch. She wore black silk when seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter and several rings, among them a wedding ring, were on her fingers.

This is her explanation of the whole story:

"I was elected to the office of Treasurer of the State organization and succeeded Dr. Green, who is an old man, living in an eleemosynary institution. When I received the books from him there was a shortage of $106. He begged me not to speak of it and said that he would refund it.

Charges of Fraud.

"I felt sorry for him and managed affairs by making reports to the organization and merely giving the accounts of what I had received and paid out."

"Finally," interrupted Prof. Stewart, who was present at the interview, "I tired of seeing Sister Folsom under a cloud, as it were, and I determined to have her righted. I spoke of the matter."

"But I pleaded with the Board," continued Mrs. Folsom, "asking it to give Dr. Green more time."

"We did not know what was happening, but were aroused when at a meeting mention was made of a man in Ohio who had asked for ordination, paid his fee and received no reply. Dr. Green explained that he did not give the man ordination because of what had been said by Brother Folsom. Then I understood that he was trying to affect me through my husband, who has passed away.

"Meetings were held and I understand that testimony was given against me by Miss Preston.

"How can she testify against me? She is a confessed fraud. I am neither a falsifier nor a fraud. She holds a license as a fortune teller. She says that I employed her to help me. I stand for religion, not for fraud.

"They say that I copied newspaper pictures and palmed them off as spirit pictures. Even if I wanted to do that it would be impossible. The American public is intelligent.

"Miss Preston says she acted in the manner she did because I was cool to her. I had reason for my attitude. She had broken her word to me. I stood sponsor for her and gave her an opportunity to make tests.

"I thought she possessed psychic power. She did some things which seemed remarkable to me."

Prof. Stewart interrupted to read a letter from the national president in which mention was made of Miss Preston and the fact that she had been deprived of authority.

"She confessed before the board," said Mrs. Folsom, "that she practiced fraud."

Kindly Towards All.

In an effort to clear matters the reporter asked a question about Prof. Stewart's presidency in which was used the past tense.

"Brother Stewart is president," asserted Mrs. Folsom, and the strength in her voice gave indication of strong will power.

Mrs. Folsom told this much of herself:

"I was brought up an Episcopalian. I left Kentucky to come to the 'Show Me' State, because I like the inquiring mind of its people. I have always 'told things.' I foretold my grandmother's death when I was six. With me it is a gift. I am not a mind reader, not a fortune teller.

"I like St. Louis and mean to end my days here. The world is my country, all human beings are my brothers and to do good is my religion. Though these persons of whom I spoke are not kind to me they are still my brothers and I must feel kindly toward them.

"I am a member of the Rebecca Lodge and of the Knights and Ladies of Security," continued Mrs. Folsom. "I am president of a woman's club of 97 members in which there has never been a disagreement.

"I am president of the Spiritual Society of Truth Seekers, whose aim is to build a home for Spiritualists in St. Louis. At a meeting of that organization Monday its members said: 'We will stand by you, Mrs. Folsom. Go on your vacation, as you had planned; we'll be here while you're gone.'"

GIRL CONVERTS FIANCE.

Marriage of Deaf Mutes After Change of Faith.

A unique wedding ceremony will be performed Wednesday afternoon at St. Leo's Church by Rev. James T. Coffey in marrying Miss Katherine Sullivan of 1912 Cass avenue and Frederick Oscar Peterson of 1325 North Second street, both of whom are deaf mutes.

The courtship of the couple, carried on in the sign language, was not without its disagreements.

Miss Sullivan is a deevout Catholic, and, when Peterson first proposed marriage to her, she objected because he was not of her faith.

Peterson was persistent and Miss Sullivan resolved to convert him to her faith. She took him to the Convent of the Sisters of St. Joseph and there he was educated in the doctrines she believes.

Miss Sullivan is 19 years of age, while Peterson is 27. Both have been deaf mutes since childhood. They have known each other for three years, becoming acquainted at the Institute for the Deaf and Dumb at 1948 Cass avenue.

After the marriage the couple will live at 1412 Sarsfield place.

Badly Hurt by a Car.

Richard Brockmeyer of 1401 Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, who was struck by a Suburban car while boarding a State street car between the tracks at Missouri and Collinsville avenues Tuesday evening, was reported Wednesday morning to be in a serious condition. Dr. Doyle, who attended him, said that there were indications of severe internal injuries, though the external injuries were slight.

East St. Louis Franchise.

The petition of the St. Louis & Northeastern Railway Co., known as the McKinley Syndicate, requesting a franchise to maintain and operate an electric street railroad over certain streets in East St. Louis, this being the terminus of the interurban street railway from Decatur to East St. Louis, was presented to the East St. Louis City Council Monday and was referred to the committee on railways.

HYDE'S PRINCELY SALARIES TO GO WITH HIS OFFICE

Resignation of Young Vice-President of the Equitable Means the Loss of Thousands of Dollars to Him.

RYAN SAYS HE WILL PROSECUTE OFFICERS

New Head of Assurance Society Announces Intention of Forcing Restitution of Misappropriations.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—The acceptance of the resignation of Vice-President James H. Hyde by the Equitable Life Assurance Society, together with that of President Alexander, promises to have an important effect in lessening the income of the former.

In the first place it ends forthwith the salary of $100,000 a year which he has drawn as vice-president of the society.

It is expected that he will soon retire as vice-president of the two trust companies really owned by the Equitable and from which he got $22,000 a year salary.

It is also expected that he will shortly retire from the directorate of the 51 corporations to which he was elected because of his ownership of a majority of the stock of the Equitable Life. He got a fee every time the directors of these corporations held a meeting, the fee ranging from $10 to $20. It has been figured that his connection with these 51 corporations yielded him in fees alone an annual income of about $50,000.

There was gloom several feet thick in the suite of Mr. Hyde when his staff of clerks, secretaries and others heard the news that he was no longer vice-president of the society.

Hyde Staff to Go.

One of the first of the Hyde staff to go, it is said, will be Charles F. Williamson, who has been drawing a salary of $7200 a year from the Equitable, though it has been charged that his chief duties were the management of Mr. Hyde's country home on Long Island and his house in Paris. Several under secretaries who have been drawing fat salaries from the Equitable, though it has been charged that they devoted all of their time to the clerical work of the Cercle Francaise and other French societies in which Mr. Hyde is interested, are also said to be on the decapitation list.

One of the gloomiest in the Hyde suite was a big negro who is also on the Equitable payroll, whose duty, it is said, has been to act as steward of Mr. Hyde's private car Bay Shore when the young man has made pleasure jaunts about the country.

Following the announcements of the resignation of Hyde and Alexander and the manifestation of Gov. Higgins' aversion to having the State Legislature investigate the affairs of the Equitable, comes the announcement that Thomas F. Ryan, the new "boss" of the company, is gathering evidence relative to the past doings of the Equitable officials, with a view to compelling restitutions of diverted funds, and also bringing criminal prosecutions.

And hanging onto these is the development that the voting trust created by Henry B. Hyde does not expire for another year and that the whole reorganization scheme may be illegal.

No action has yet been taken as to Tarbell and Wilson, the second and third vice-presidents.

Cleveland for President.

Mr. Ryan's first choice, the man to succeed Mr. Alexander, is said to be Grover Cleveland. Mr. Ryan figures that Mr. Cleveland has the confidence of the American public to a greater extent than any other citizen of the United States, and that if he could induce Mr. Cleveland to accept the place, much of the hostility against Mr. Ryan's ownership of the Equitable would be averted. His second choice is said to be Morgan J. O'Brien.

The directors of the Equitable are vested with the power to elect its officers, but as Mr. Ryan now occupies the dominant position vacated by Mr. Hyde it seems that a majority of the directors will carry out the wishes of Mr. Ryan just as they formerly obeyed all the orders issued by young Mr. Hyde.

Thomas F. Ryan has won a great victory at Albany and the people have lost one. There will be no legislative investigation of Mr. Ryan's Equitable company.

The message that Gov. Higgins will send to the extraordinary session of the Legislature will direct the attention of the 50 senators and 200 assemblymen to but one subject for consideration—the charges of unfitness against Supreme Court Justice Warren B. Hooker.

The Governor made this announcement following a most extraordinary series of conferences with Chairman Odell, Republican State boss, and other politicians.

Politics Plays a Part.

The Governor was dissuaded from seizing the great opportunity afforded him to grant the universal demand for a legislative investigation of Mr. Ryan's Equitable Assurance Society by his political advisers, who, responding to the potential influences which Mr. Ryan is admirably equipped to command, convinced the Governor that it would be inadvisable for party interests to open the doors of the Legislature to either the insurance or gas proposition.

Until Boss Odell came from Newburg and descended upon the Governor with his political allies, there were not lacking indications that he would harken to the demand of the 600,000 policy holders of the Equitable for relief from past and present oppressive conditions.

But after Odell and the politicians trained their guns upon him for more than five hours without interruption the Governor had seemingly made up his mind to ignore all other matters in his message to the Legislature except the Hooker case.

Boss Odell did not appear over-sanguine upon his arrival that he would find conditions as he desired them. But when he departed for his home in Newburg he was manifestly pleased with the result of his first conference with the Governor in four months.

Restitution and Prosecution.

The Sun, which is popularly supposed to be owned by Thomas F. Ryan, today created a tremendous sensation in financial districts by printing on its first page a story to the effect that Mr. Ryan is gathering evidence for the purpose of suing, and possibly criminally prosecuting, all of the Equitable officers and directors who have misused Equitable Life funds. It says in part:

"After Mr. Morton had accepted the resignations of Mr. Alexander and Mr. Hyde, the Sun was authorized to announce that the investigations conducted by Supt. Hendricks and Henry Frick would be pastoral poems compared with the investigation which Mr. Morton's accountants are now making of every department in the society, from roof to cellar.

"It was ascertained also, and the Sun is authorized to announce that frequent consultations with eminent lawyers, together with the three trustees, Mr. Cleveland, Justice O'Brien and Mr. Westinghouse, have resulted in Mr. Morton's taking the stand that as fast as the developments of the accountants are ready he will prosecute all directors and officers, big and little, who have abused their trust by using the funds of the society for their own personal ventures and private profit.

"The Sun furthermore is authorized to announce that many suits are already in contemplation and will be brought as fast as the developments warrant the preparation of the papers against all these men to compel restitution of all profits illegally acquired, by the use of the funds of the society.

Look Over the Books.

"The lawyers and other advisers of Mr. Morton and the trustees it was furthermore announced, have already looked over the books of the society for the last 15 years, have become thoroughly conversant with the statute of limitations, and they are prepared to move against all officers and directors who began the systematic application of the society's funds to private ventures for their own private gain, to the great detriment of the policy holders of the society.

"No man is to be spared. Three of the directors, formerly very active in the society and auxiliary instructions of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, are on the list for decapitation and prosecution. It was announced that one or two men connected with the Equitable Trust Co. have already been marked for removal and prosecution.

"During the examinations Mr. Morton, it was added, intended to keep cool, but that he has to have his courage with him every hour of the day."

Continuing its review of the Equitable Life's reorganization, the World today says:

"By virtue of what lawful right or legal authority does Thomas F. Ryan control the $413,953,020.74 assets of the Equitable Life Assurance Society?

"Mr. Ryan says in his letter of June 15 to his trustees:

"'First—I am the sole owner of the 502 shares of the stock of the Equitable Society, which I have purchased from Mr. Hyde. * * * I am under no obligation to any living man with respect to my action as the owner of this stock.

"'Second—The amount which I paid for the 502 shares of stock purchased from Mr. Hyde is $2,500,000.'

"Following this statement, Mr. Ryan created a voting trust, installed Paul Morton as personal representative, and, without regard to the wishes or rights of other stockholders and 60,000 policy holders, he now proposes to do as he pleases with the Equitable management and assets.

"How can this be legally possible? The 502 shares of stock recited in Mr. Ryan's letter are the identical shares covered by a deed of trust between Henry B. Hyde and certain trustees, dated Sept. 17, 1895. This stock was irrevocably tied up until James Hazen Hyde should die or attain the age of 30 years. Hyde will not be 30 years old until June 6, 1906. Until then he has nothing to sell except a revisionary interest in expectancy.

"No one except the Henry B. Hyde trustees has, or can have, title to this stock, and they cannot sell it under the terms of the deed of trust, which, in turn, cannot be altered without the consent of its creator, who is dead, any more than the terms of Mr. Ryan's deed of trust can be altered without his consent.

"This is made unmistakable in the Henry B. Hyde deed of trust of 1895. This language, and more to the same effect, is unmistakable. No one can legally vote on this stock except the Henry B. Hyde trustees. No director may, under any circumstances, be voted for with this stock except he is 'a person approved by the said James Hazen Hyde.'

"Does any one believe that Ryan paid Hyde $2,500,000, or any other sum in real money, for an invalid title to trusteed stock?

"The more the great Ryan mystery is examined the more obviously improbable the offered explanations appear. It is plain that Ryan's trustees have not even the legal right to vote on this stock. They are worse than dummies. They are illegal fictions.

"There must be a full legislative inquiry into the great Ryan mystery. Produce the real Hyde-Ryan agreement."

Mrs. Charles F. Joy of St. Louis to Meet Mikado of Japan in Tokio

MRS. CHARLES F. JOY.

Wife of Former Congressman Will Be One of the Party to Visit the Philippines With Secretary Taft and Miss Alice Roosevelt.

Mrs. Charles F. Joy, the only St. Louis woman who will be a member of the distinguished party that is to accompany Secretary of War Taft on his trip to the Philippines, sailing from San Francisco on the steamer Manchuria July 8, will probably have the honor of personally meeting the Mikado of Japan as one of the cherished memories of her journey.

It is expected that the steamer conveying the Taft party, after touching at Honolulu, will arrive at Yokohama July 26, and the Secretary of War and his guests will then leave the steamer and proceed to Tokio, where they will be presented to the Mikado. The American visitors will undoubtedly receive notable attentions from the Japanese Government, and Mrs. Joy's meeting with the Mikado will be accompanied by brilliant ceremonies worthy of the crowning type of American woman—the woman who comes from the metropolis of the American Middle West.

Secretary Taft will make it known to the Japanese Government, however, that his visit is purely unofficial, made in his capacity as an American citizen having in his care the daughter of the President of the United States, and, if necessary, an explanation to this effect will be made unofficially to the Russian Government, so that there will be no occasion for Russian resentment of the visit to the Mikado.

The ladies of the Taft party will, of course, be headed by Miss Alice Roosevelt in the presentation to the Mikado, but Mrs Joy, as the feminine representative of the World's Fair city, where Japan scored so pronounced a success, will doubtless find herself especially commended to the Japanese ruler.

Mrs. Joy is a handsome woman of charming personality. She comes originally from California, where former Congressman Joy met, wooed, won and married her. She is quite wealthy and the Joys have traveled much, having girdled the globe together more than once, and when they leave the Taft party at the conclusion of the trip it is their intention again to travel around the world.

CORN PRODUCTS CO. PASSES DIVIDEND

Standard Oil Concern Gives Out That High Price of Corn Is Responsible.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Much surprise was caused in Wall street by the announcement that the directors had passed the dividend on the preferred stock of the Corn Products Co.

The Corn Products Co. is a Standard Oil concern, and was considered one of the most prosperous of the industrial trusts until recently. It was organized about three years ago to merge the Glucose Sugar Refining Co., the National Starch Manufacturing Co., the Illinois Sugar Refining Co., the Charles Pope Glucose Co. and the New York Glucose Co.

The company's capital stock is $50,000,000 preferred, 7 per cent accumulated, and $30,000,000 common stock. The company paid a dividend on the preferred stock at the rate of 7 per cent from July of 1902 to January of 1905. In April of the present year the dividend was reduced to 1 per cent.

LOOMIS REBUKED; MINISTER BOWEN LOSES HIS OFFICE

Venezuelan Scandal Culminates in Severe Criticism of Assistant Secretary of State and Diplomat's Dismissal.

ROOSEVELT CHARGES ATTEMPT AT A THEFT

Disloyalty, Falsehood, Even a Plan to Steal, Among President's Accusations Against Disgraced Official.

By Wire from the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Herbert W. Bowen of Brooklyn, Minister to Venezuela, was dismissed from the diplomatic service by President Roosevelt last night, and Francis B. Loomis against whom Mr. Bowen made charges, was so sharply rebuked that he may resign his place as First Assistant Secretary of State.

President Roosevelt, in a scathing arraignment, refers to Bowen's conduct in the Loomis case as "especially reprehensible," and accuses the Minister of having shown "complete disloyalty to the country he represented."

The President's censure of Minister Bowen is the most bitter given an officer of the Governemnt wihtin the last 20 years.

His dismissal is the result of bringing what the President and Secretary Taft regard as "false and malicious charges against Loomis, who preceded him as American Minister at Caracas."

Secretary Taft, in his review of the case, in which the President concurs said:

"I do not think that the record of Mr. Loomis as Minister in Venezuela as shown in this record, is such as to disqualify him from service as Minister in the diplomatic service in the United States, but I sincerely hope this bitter experience makes it unnecessary further to point the moral that one who occupies the position of Minister of the United States cannot afford, in any country to which he is appointed in which the business enterprises must more or less be affected by government favor and concession, to make personal investments of any sort or to leave the slightest doubt as to the absence of all personal interests in any matters which he may bring before the Government to which he is accredited."

This is the official verdict in the scandal which has been agitating the administration for months. Though Mr. Bowen has failed to substantiate his charges that Mr. Loomis acted dishonestly while minister at Caracas and was really the agent of the Asphalt Trust and in its pay he has made a showing which, it is believed, will force Mr. Loomis to resign.

With his reputation for discretion publicly besmirched by the findings of Secretary Taft, even his friends admit that his future diplomatic career is ruined and that the only course open to him is to resign.

When the investigation into the Bowen charges began the President was so convinced of their falsity that he let it be known that he contemplated promoting Mr. Loomis to be an ambassador as soon as the investigation was concluded.

In the face of the rebuke administered by Mr. Taft it is considered certain that the Senate would refuse to confirm him as ambassador and probably would reject his appointment even to a ministry. Mr. Loomis has remained in the State Department with the expectation of being given an embassy. With all hopes in that direction shut off and under the sting of Mr. Taft's criticism, it is now believed that he will soon resign, thereby closing the malodorous incident.

Judge Bishop Courtless.

Efforts are being made by Mayor Wells and Building Commissioner Smith to supply a courtroom for sessions of Judge Bishop's court. When the latter was appointed to the Circuit bench by Gov. Folk, there was no available room for his court. He has been sitting in the other courtrooms, continually changing about to find an unoccupied room.

A DRUNKEN NATION.

In the course of a critique of Maxim Gorki in the National Review, M. Georges Brandes observes that "spirits occupy in Gorki's novels the same place as they do in Russian life. We see how, in the lower classes, every upward flight is drowned in them. A sea of spirits sweeps over all Russian crops."

The testimony is all one way. Drunkenness is the curse of Russia.

Observers with the army in Manchuria have said that the defeats were largely due to this cause. Is it possible that the wreck of Russia is entirely due to it?

Officers and men on shipboard have been drunk at critical moments. It was said that they were drunk when they fought the fantastic battle with the Hull fishing fleet in the North Sea. Were they drunk May 26?

Every Russian novelist who has written of the upper classes devotes considerable space to their drinking bouts. It is quite a matter of course.

Is it probable that men who drink all night are fit to administer the affairs of a great nation by day? Can men who are full of alcoholic liquor see to shoot?

The question is of general interest. Can a man afford to trifle with a peril so great?

The struggle for existence is fierce enough. Can any man afford to impair his strength to even a trifling degree by indulgence in intoxicants?

Why should German soldiers chase the ghost at Charlottenburg? Soldiers are expected to make, not chase, ghosts.

OUR DEADLY GRADE CROSSINGS.

The newspapers of Chicago, Buffalo, Indianapolis, Cincinnati and other cities are fighting for the abolition of grade crossings. Something is being done in all these cities to do away with these death traps. Chicago has compelled the railroads to elevate or depress several miles of track. The change is one that is recognized as essential to public safety in all the cities.

On Monday a 4-year-old child, Merritt Brown, was struck by a train as he was standing on the track at the Benton Station crossing, which is one of a large number of grade crossings within the city limits of St. Louis. The baby's skull was fractured. If he and his mother had been compelled to cross on a bridge or under the track by a tunnel, another life would have been saved. But there was no such safeguard at this point.

Broadly speaking, the interests of pedestrians, including women and children, have been ignored by the legislators in so far as the laying out of railroads within the limits of cities in Missouri is concerned. Long stretches of track are permitted to go unfenced, and at numerous points the pedestrian is compelled to cross at grade or make a long circuit.

Why should we be less careful of human life than are the people of European and Eastern cities? Why not continue the agitation for the abolition of these grade crossings, and for other necessary safeguards in connection with the railroads in our cities, until the present dangerous conditions are changed for the better?

War means, among other things, millions of pensioners. Today we have more than a million. So let us not be too meddlesome, even though we feel that we can lick all creation.

"ALL THE COMFORTS OF HOME."

A railway advertising agent tells his public that in traveling over the line he represents they may have "all the comforts of home."

There are many persons who will go to New York via the Pennsylvania who do not maintain cabs or hire them often; yet this road will deliver passengers to their destination in New York in free cabs. There are many who write their own letters, pare their own nails and put buttons in their own shirts who will travel on the Lake Shore, which is providing free valet, manicure and stenographer. And still a great many who have no facilities for salt water bathing in their homes, must send their clothes to a tailor to be pressed and wait in a shop upon a barber's convenience to be shaved, may travel on the New York Central, which is supplying free salt water baths and shaves and presses its passengers' trousers while they sleep. The Union Pacific is putting in a telephone service, by which passengers en route may communicate with the corner drug store that will send messages to the telephoneless dear ones at home. And, although we have no wireless stations in our back yards, we may travel by the C. & A. and enjoy its wireless service free of charge. Railway travel is being coupled with all the comforts to be purchased by unlimited wealth.

The railway's advertising man has missed 99 per cent of his argument in that old fashion, nineteenth century phrase. All the comforts of home! Pah!

Contributions to the Pure Milk Fund to date aggregate $33, which the Post-Dispatch has been pleased to acknowledge. W. J. Spillman of the United States Agricultural Department says that much of the milk offered for sale in the poorer sections of the large cities is watered and is handled in such an uncleanly manner that it sours sometimes before it can be delivered. This class of milk frequently has antiseptics, such as formalin, boracic acid, etc., added to it to keep it from souring. Milk of this character is worse than none as a food for infants in hot weather. It is poisonous. Children constantly fed with it become victims of the deadly summer complaint. The milk and ice distributed by the Pure Milk Commission will prevent the sacrifice of life by the use of such poisonous milk. The Pure Milk Fund, therefore, is one of the noblest and most useful charities. It should be the success of the summer.

CRIME AND PUNISHMENT.

Secretary Taft's report in the Bowen-Loomis scandal and the President's comments bring out two facts:

(1) Loomis, while Minister to Venezuela, became personally interested in investment schemes; if these were nominal "that would mislead others," if substantial "it would surely in the end make his public duty and private interests conflict." It does not appear whether Mr. Loomis' interest was nominal or substantial.

(2) Mr. Bowen criticised Mr. Loomis' conduct in the wrong way. Not content with reporting facts as he found them to the State Department at Washington he took the newspapers into his confidence and endeavored to create public sentiment against his predecessor by anonymous publications.

Mr. Bowen is dismissed from the diplomatic service by the President, whose letter is full of violent denunciation.

Mr. Loomis is mildly reproved for his indiscretion and his promotion is reported.

The outcome seems illogical. If Loomis was interested personally in these speculative schemes he was guilty of gross impropriety, which itself raises a violent presumption of deeper guilt.

Mr. Bowen does not deserve any sympathy. A man who has the talking habit is not well fitted for the diplomatic service.

But the question is: Why did the lesser offense bring the greater penalty? Why does not the punishment fit the crime? Why is the greater offender let go with reproof and promotion while the man whose only offense was that he was clumsy in right doing is turned out of the public service with every mark of condemnation and dishonor?

Massachusetts has arrived at the conclusion that if she is to successfully compete with Southern cotton mills she must retrograde and increase hours of labor, reduce wages and employ children, or the South, after an industrial experience sure to come, must voluntarily adopt Northern standards of labor, hours and wages.

LET HER RIP. WHO CARES?

One who signs "Independent" writes in the Letter Column that as the Fourth of July is the only day on which we celebrate our independence, we should "let her rip for all she is worth;" that is to say, defy the law, ignore the sick and permit any degree of recklessness in the use of explosives.

A single year's record on that basis ought to be sufficient to show people of this way of thinking the error under which they are laboring. Let us quote it once more:

Deaths from lockjaw, 406; deaths from other injuries caused by explosives, 60; number of persons totally blinded, 10; number who lost one eye, 75; arms and legs lost, 54; number who lost fingers, 174; minor injuries, 3983. Total number of casualties in the United States, 4349.

If it were possible to get the attention of the fellow who wishes and intends to "let her rip," he might be made to realize, in some faint degree, the awful meaning of that one item: "Died of lockjaw, 406." He might be made to see that this little army of victims from one of the most terrible forms in which death comes were mostly little children. He might be brought to picture to himself that other army of the blind, the halt and lame, disfigured as if from a field of battle, who survived as witnesses to the murderous folly of the reckless use of firearms and explosives as the sole means of expressing a noble sentiment.

But the effort to impress the unthinking by means of argument is slow and uncertain. The law must be enforced in his case, in order to save him and others from the results of his folly. The police of St. Louis, and in every large city, should make sure that the record of injuries and deaths this year shall be much less than any in former years. The "let her rip" policy is altogether too costly.

How different the fate of Gomez and that of Aguinaldo. In a few hours, but for our interference, Aguinaldo would have captured Manila. History will find it hard to explain why we treated Cuba so generously and the Philippines so harshly.

WOMEN'S CLUBS PASSING.

At a woman's club in Des Moines, Io., the other day a member announced the "patent fact that too many women are daft on the club question." Another thought the day of extremes in club going was passing. The general opinion was that Grover Cleveland was not entirely wrong in his criticism.

Is it true, then, that the woman's club is about to "pass"? Is the universal uproar of pseudo activity and aimless motion to be mitigated by the disappearance of one of the sensational elements of life? Can it be true?

If so, we shall have an opportunity to estimate the value of the woman's club movement. It cannot be appraised while it is here claiming everything. When it goes we shall think back, examine results and perhaps arrive at a definite conclusion. But it will be a great relief—not to hear of woman's special excellencies and general superiority. The affirmation of sex gets tiresome after a few years.

The Westliche Post quiets an apprehensive reader by saying that Carrie Nation is an especially American product and that she was not born in Switzerland. Isn't that "especially American" a bit severe on the natives?

A PICTURE OF HIGH FINANCE.

According to John Skelton Williams, whose corrosive character sketch is published in the Sunday Post-Dispatch, Thomas F. Ryan, the newly-risen star in the firmament of high finance, "has the tendencies which, if his lines had been cast in an humble and contracted sphere, would probably have made him a kleptomaniac, his strongest impuse is to acquire money and his one robust passion is to keep it. He is simply an acquiring machine and operates himself for the purpose of getting what others have."

This is not irresponsible declamation. It is the mature, sober estimate of a man who has risen to a foremost place in the world of finance and business. A great banker and a greater railroad builder and manager, Mr. Williams is yet wedded to honor and justice.

And this is his opinion of one of the foremost business men of the age. In an humble sphere Mr. Ryan would have been a "kleptomaniac." To get "what others have"—that is his absorbing passion.

In ordinary circumstances the picture would be dismissed as libelous, but the public is about ready to accept any hard story about high finance. Henry D. Lloyd first exposed the doings of Standard Oil. That was in 1895. Then followed Miss Tarbell's history and Mr. Lawson's diverting sketches. The Equitable scandal confirms the worst suspicions aroused by these unvarnished tales. We must believe them, because they are proved.

It is an interesting question. If business falls into the hands of men who cannot be trusted and who cannot trust each other, what becomes of business? It is a condition that confronts us, not a theory.

The President's "Hooray for the Scandihoovian!" will be more than ever in order if Norway and Sweden separate peaceably.

MAKING IT HARD FOR THEM.

Has Judge Rogers of the United States District Court at St. Louis no pity in his heart for the poor railroads that are trying to make an honest living? Is Uncle Sam himself determined to squeeze the last cent out of their coffers?

In the first place, Uncle Sam made it a law that all railroads transporting cattle should feed and water them at least once every 28 hours while in transit, making them liable to a fine of $500 in each case of failure to do so. When three railroads were adjudged guilty of several such offenses in his court, Judge Rogers fined them $100 on each count; and there are other cases to follow.

Is this any way to treat the railroads of this country? Don't they have a hard enough time keeping out of the poorhouse the way it is? Don't they have enough trouble watering their own stock and feeding their stockholders? Why should they be compelled to water and feed ordinary cattle?

Why don't the courts jump onto somebody who has money, instead of mulcting the poor railroads?

Diamonds in Nightshirts.

Those of us who have a hankering for diamonds, but who, never having been able to earn more than six bits a day at our chosen professions, have never been able to gratify that longing, will mavel at the prosperity of an East St. Louis street car conductor, who was robbed of $365 worth of these precious gems—to say nothing of $8 in real money he happened to have in his possession—including a $100 diamond, which, he said, he always placed in the front of his nightshirt before retiring.

Salome's Comb.

I'll sing you a song of a lass called
  Salome,
Who always forever is losing her comb.
This comb has a place at the back of her head,
And keeps all beholders in tremors of dread,
For hourly it slips from its hold underneath
And quivering hangs by the skin of its teeth;
And loud rings the cry in the track of Salome,
"Excuse me, young lady, you're losing your comb."

She rode in a trolley, did lovely Salome,
And wore in her tresses this treacherous comb.
A man sat behind her, so smitten was he,
He swore that the lady his own wife should be.
He told her he loved her, he whispered,
  "Be mine,"
And that very minute ('twas four twenty-nine)
The comb became restless and started to roam,
And not one word more said the man to Salome!

O maid wheresoever, in Jersey or Nome,
Be warned by the story of simple Salome!
'Twere better your tresses were blown out a foot
Than held in by shell goods that will not stay put.
There's nothing that quicker sends lovers a-skipping
Than sight of a comb that is always a-slipping.
So don't let them tell you, abroad or at home,
"Look out, there, young lady, you're losing your comb."

NEW YORK NEWSPAPER VIEWS.

This Morning's Comments on Today's News by the Leading Metropolitan Journals.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—The World says: "Having been a party to the Madrid treaty of 1889, the United States is logically required by the Sultan Abdul Aziz to participate in the proposed international conference on the Moroccan question.

"The commercial interests of the United States in Morocco are hardly worth considering. Nor has the United States rightly any political interest in Morocco.

"If this country did not formally accept the (Anglo-French) agreement at the time it was given out, as Spain and Italy did, it certainly entered no objection. To take the other side now would gratify the Kaiser and add to France's embarrassment.

"So far, in the negotiations between Paris and Berlin, the Kaiser has scored. Premier Rouvier has shrunk from any step threatening war. An international conference now seems assured. In that case the interests of the United States who is so little concerned in Morocco would be best preserved by promoting good feeling and a working arrangement between the European powers."

A person advocating "free love" and signing herself "A Woman Lawyer," writes the Sun a wail against criticism of those who stray from their own firesides in quest of "love."

"We are astonished that a woman who seems to have even a respectable place at the bar should write such wretched stuff to us. 'Love'—What is love? Is it a sentiment apart from self-respect, from the law of society, a vagarious impulse to be followed blindly and madly without regard to established social morals?

"A woman lawyer who has not learned that legitimate marriage is essential to the conservation of society, and more particularly the protection of women and children, has pursued her studies to very little purpose. She is an anarchist, not a lawyer. She says she renders obedience to her higher nature; actually she is under the dominion of her lower senses. 'True love'—Bosh! The saddest degradation of society comes from the eroticism which she calls love."

"Even mimic warfare creates its devastation," says the press. "The hardy farmers of Newport have protested to the commanding officer of Fort Adams that the firing of the great guns of the fort so alarm their hens that the biddies refuse to lay eggs. Fort Adams is one of the great defenses of the coast and considered necessary to the security of the Atlantic seaboard, but the interests of such a well-known agricultural community as Newport are not to be disregarded. When it comes to a pass that the Stuyvesant Fishes have not been able to set a hen this spring, and Farmer Vanderbilt's hen house is an eggless desert, it is time that the Government did something about it, even if Fort Adams has to be moved a few miles out to sea."

OLD STORIES RETOLD

No. 6.

Sowing the Dragon's Teeth.

IN No. 5 of these stories, some of the adventures of Jason and the Argonauts were briefly described. It will not do to dismiss these heroes without recounting the adventure of the dragon's teeth.

Aetes, the King of Colchis, insisted that Jason should show his prowess by killing the dragon which guarded the golden fleece. But first he must yoke to a plow the King's unmanageable bulls, which had hoofs of brass and breathed out fire and smoke. With these he was to plow the field of Ares, or Mars, nearby, and sow it with a dragon's teeth. Aetes appears to have had a good supply of dragons, which were quite common in those days.

Jason yoked up the bulls and, having plowed the field, sowed it with the dragon's teeth. To his surprise, the crop which immediately sprang up from the furrows was a large number of fully armed men. They would have killed Jason but for the fact that Medea, the daughter of Aetes, had given him a witch's mixture to drink which made him proof against fire or sword. He killed the armed men, and then went for the dragon which lay at the foot of a tree on which hung the golden fleece.

It is a curious fact that there is another story, in Greek mythology, about sowing dragon's teeth.

Cadmus, the hero who is said to have brought the letters of the alphabet to Greece, was desirous of founding a city. The oracle at the sacred shrine at Delphi told him to follow a cow which should come in his way, and where it lay down he should found the city. It lay down where the city of Thebes was afterwards built. Cadmus, wishing to sacrifice the cow to Athene, the goddess of wisdom, sent his attendants to a fountain not far off to fetch water. It happened that the fountain was watched by a terrible dragon, which killed his men. With the aid of Athene, Cadmus slew this monster, and, at her command, sowed its teeth in the ground. There instantly sprang up a lot of wild, armed giants. By throwing a stone among them, Cadmus made them so angry that they turned upon each other and fought till only five were left. From these five the noblest families of Thebes afterwards traced their lineage.

ALBERTA,

A Romance of Bachelor Girls,

By Ivan Whin.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Albert England and Dr. Emma Conroy live in an office building where Dr. Conroy has his office. They are stared at in a restaurant by a man who afterwards speaks to them in the balcony of the Olympic Theater. He tells them he is starving for the companionship of good women and incidentally tells them that he never knew his parents. They permit him to accompany them home, but do not learn his name. He sends them a floral ship. One evening, when some friends of the bachelor girls are calling, he appears, and Dr. Conroy introduces him as Mr. Sonntag.

CHAPTER III.

The Strange Man.

"EMMA! cried Alberta, when their friends were gone, "where did you ever learn that man's name?"

Mr. Sonntag had joined their friends with the ease of one thoroughly used to good society. The conversation was formal at first, as the introduction of the stranger forced them to search for congenial topics, but one mentioned a friends who was studying cave dwellers in Arizona and Mr. Sonntag told of an expedition he made into that land, where once dwelt, ethnologists tell us, the most numerous people on the face of the globe and whence drouth—more merciless than any human enemy—had driven every living thing. He described vividly an all-day struggle over a high sandy mesa in search of water, from early summer morn till near darkness, beasts and men crying for a drop of water to ease cracked lips and swollen tongues; how at nightfall they came upon the springs, and the men were forced to fight with their horses to prevent the beasts killing themselves by over-drinking, all the while suffering tortures through their own unquenched thirst.

"Gosh!" muttered Joe Clarke. "That makes me thirsty."

The graphic tale daunted them all, and they laughed in hysterical relief at Joe. Alberta made lemonade and Joe drank copiously, facetiously providing himself against a possibility that he might some day be lost in a desert.

"Where did you ever learn that man's name?"

The voices of the departing guests might still be heard in the halls below. Alberta cornered the doctor and demanded an answer.

"He came in this afternoon. He brought a letter of introduction from Dr. Hughes. Here is the letter:"

Alberta read it.

> This will introduce to you, doctor, my friend, William Sonntag, formerly of Evansville, Ind., but latterly a citizen of the world. He is a mining engineer. He tells me that he has met you irregularly and desires an introduction, which I would make in person, but the state of my foot forbids me to leave the house. I can assure you of his high character and great worth. We have had some business relations and I am pleased to recommend him to you.

"Well," Alberta said, disarmed but doubtful, "I suppose it's all right then. But how did he call to-night?"

"I asked him, not knowing the others would be here. He wanted to meet you."

"Is he still starving for human companionship? Dr. Hughes is a very satisfying conversationalist."

"Don't be hard Alberta. I believe that what he said the other night is true. He knows men, some men of his own kind, but he hasn't a single woman acquaintance in the city.

"Won't they introduce him to their families? I suppose some of them have families. Think, Emma, isn't it silly that a man of his address and standing—Dr. Hughes says he's respectable—should be forced to 'pick up' acquaintance with women in a restaurant or theater?"

"My dear, I do not know what men acquaintances he has, and it is not usual for men to offer business acquaintances the hospitality of their homes in St. Louis. In a smaller place it would be different. He will in time get invitations, but just now he is neglected and lonely. It won't hurt us to be kind. If he should prove to be unpleasant or undesirable you can"—

"Freeze him. Yes, that will be my task. You open the door and I must close it. How long has he been in St. Louis?"

"Two months. He came from the Klondike, where he has been immured for two years. All his life he has been in lonely places. It began when he was a boy keeping the time of loggers working for a lumber company on the Green river in Kentucky. He saved enough money to maintain him at De Pauw University for a year. He was mad for learning and made a hermit of himself. Then he went to a lead mine in Southeast Missouri, with a De Pauw professor as an assistant. After that he had a few years in the School of Mines at Rolla, then work in Colorado and Montana and finally the Klondike—Always living in communities where there were few women and those commonplace creatures or worse. While he told me this, Alberta, I felt that he had dignified me, paid me the highest of all compliments in seeking my acquaintance. He wants to know good women, women of intellect. Our chaff over the quaint dishes at Priario's, our whimsical humor attracted him. His mode of life has taught him directness; where a clean-minded man, reared in St. Louis, would not have dared approach us he put his fortune to the touch. It was a brave thing to do."

"He seems to have captured your imagination."

"Yes. I believe that is true. He is different from all the other men I have known and I don't think he will turn out undesirable."

Two friends who have gone separate ways from home meet in an odd quarter of the world. On the lips of each is the old phrase: "What a small world it is, after all."

So thought Alberta some days later. [illegible] had a tiny office between the offices of Edward Johnson and Tyron Cunningham in the Chemical building. The lawyers kept her busy on their letters and legal documents and seldom did any one save her employers enter that small domain.

She was deeply absorbed in typing the intricate endless sentences of a whereas and an aforesaid document when Mr. Johnson entered with a man. She did not look up until Mr. Johnson said:

"Miss England, will you write a statement for Mr. Sonntag?"

She half rose from her seat, startled by the name that had played hide and seek through the musty legal phases all afternoon, and saw before her the strange man. In an instant she was mistress of herself save for a foolish trembling of her hands.

"Certainly," she said, in her business voice, and Mr. Johnson left them alone.

"Will you dictate to the machine?" she asked.

"Yes, it is only a statement of facts for Mr. Johnson's guidance and you probably write as fast as I will be able to speak. I shall have to refer to some papers and they are not in very good order."

She put a long, clean sheet of paper in the machine in the place of the legal cap on which she had been typing, and then said:

"Your name is William, I believe. Middle initial?"

"None."

She typed the line: "Statement of William Sonntag in relation to"—and stopped. "What is the style of the case?" she asked.

"It's a claim I have against the estate of Richard Evan Harriman."

She concluded the caption on the paper: "his claim against estate of Richard Evan Harriman."

Mr. Sonntag was a long time arranging his papers. Presently he spoke and his voice was husky.

"I didn't know that you were here. I knew you were in an office down-town, but Dr. Conroy did not tell me where."

"Let us begin," Alberta said coldly.

Still he delayed. "Perhaps you would not like to take my statement. Its—parts of it—I'm afraid"—

"Please begin, Mr. Sonntag."

"I have to dictate some unpleasant things and I thought it might be better if I went to a man."

Her face was flaming as his own, but while he was embarassed she betrayed no other evidence of agitation.

"You must have known there was a woman in this office. What difference can the fact that we have met before make? I have frequently to hear unpleasant things, but I do not like to discuss them."

"I beg your pardon," he said humbly and began the statement.

It was the narration of a story so strange that she lost consciousness of Mr. Sontagg's presence, and, though her fingers flew over the keys of the typewriter, she seemed to be reading the story his monotonous voic was telling. She put in and took out sheets of paper mechanically. She had no sense of the task her fingers performed. All her mind was absorbed in that wonderful tale. He told dry facts, but she clothed them with the flesh of life. She did not know that hours passed.

"That's all," said Mr. Sonntag at the most interesting part of the story.

"Go on," she murmured.

"That is all," he repeated.

His brusque tone awakened her to realization of him. Yes, she knew now, he had told the story as far as it had developed.

"What a case!" she exclaimed ecstatically.

He stared at her a moment and then laughed. "I see," he said, "you look at it professionally. I have heard doctors talk that way of operations that meant life or death maybe and certainly torture; I have heard thief catchers talk that way of mysteries they must solve. Yes, in my business we have professional enthusiasm too."

He left her quickly and did not see the pity that took the place of professional elation in her eyes.

PURE FOODS.

From the Boston Herald.

"Formaldehyde is an excellent preservative, as any undertaker will be willing to affirm; but when fish or meats or cream or other food substances are prevented by an infusion of formaldehyde from undergoing deterioration it may readily happen that the food thus treated cannot pass through the process of human digestion with entire impunity to the person who eats it. Beer may be prevented from deteriorating by the use of salicylic acid, but those who drink beer thus treated are subjecting their physical systems to a strain which it would be much better for them to avoid. This is recognized by dealers in these commodities. Few people knowingly would purchase for their own use an article of food which they knew contained some harmful preservative, and thus, for example, the brewer who used salicylic acid in his beer would be the last person in the world to comply with the law by advertising the fact in plain English on the outside of each bottle of beer that he sold."

The Late Dr. James A. Close.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Permit me to say a few words in vindication of my dead friend, Dr. James A. Close.

Dr. Close was one of the most scientific physicians of this city—eccentric, it is true, but by no means a crank. A man of his knowledge, if he intends to commit suicide, does not shoot himself in the abdomen, producing an exceedingly painful wound and a lingering death; he would have shot himself in the head had he had any suicidal intentions, or he would have taken one of those powerful poisons producing painless death in less than five minutes.

But there is another element in this case, excluding the suicidal theory—namely, Dr. Close was opposed to and abhorred suicide. I know this, because I have conversed with him on this subject more than once.

Dr. Close lived in an almost childish fear of burglars—why, I cannot explain—and from the frequent conversations which I have had with him on this subject I believe that he lived in constant fear of someone. I, for one, am convinced he is the victim of a crime—perhaps of the unknown "someone" whom he feared and whom he tried to keep out of his house by his many ingenious electrical and other devices guarding against surprise.

DR. HENRY BARTENS.

Anticipating the Fourth.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Time and again I have heard people complain of children anticipating the celebration of the 4th of July, and were bitter in their denunciation of these children and their parents.

Can the parents of these children keep them constantly under their surveillance? No, nor all the laws that were, or will be, enacted for the abolition of this "Fourth of July nuisance," as these resentful people term it, will stop them. Children will enjoy themselves regardless of what the penalty may be. I think the law should not apply to these youthful pleasure seekers, but to the merchants who sell fireworks before the fourth, or at least—say the third. HAS BEEN.

Inconsistent Wilhelm.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

What must be the sober, serious conviction of even the unregenerated concerning the Emperor of Germany, who preaches a sermon from Holy Writ on Sunday morning and attends the races the afternoon of the same day?

Parson Bill Kaiser Hohenzollern should give up the races on Sunday or else give up his license to preach—one or the other. J. J. JONES.

The Wisdom of Youth.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A good many old men have laughed at the young Post-Dispatch reader who writes that "every young man over 18 years of age ought to know what to do himself." Every man with gray hair can remember troubles growing out of the inexperience of that time of life. The young man who has a good, sensible adviser, even if it be only his mother, is blessed; and there are some young men wise enough to know this. R. C.

RAW ASPARAGUS SALAD.

It Is Delicious, Expensive and to Be Had by Only a Fortunate Few.

From the New York Sun.

Most housekeepers do not know that one of the most delicious of salads is made from raw asparagus. It is also one of the most expensive, and is to be had only by those who have asparagus beds of their own, or are able to pay a market gardener near at hand to furnish the asparagus in the condition necessary for the success of the salad.

In order that raw asparagus salad may be really worth eating the stalks must be cut when they barely show a point above ground. The length of stalk used should not be much above two inches.

Stalks of this length, growing almost entirely underground, are white, crisp and tender. They have the characteristic slightly bitter taste of asparagus, but it is not so marked as in stalks that grow several inches above ground.

The stalks should be cut late in the afternoon, or after sunset, so that they shall be fresh and cool. They would probably be the better if an earthen flower pot had been turned over them from noon onward, and they should be thoroughly cooled in cracked ice before they are served. In fact, they are likely to be the better if they are brought to the table in a bowl of cracked ice.

A simple French dressing, not too oily, but not oversharp with vinegar, is the proper accompaniment of raw asparagus salad, and if the asparagus has been properly prepared and the ingredients of the dressing have been nicely proportioned the result is a salad unlike any other, and especially unlike the excellent salad made from cold cooked asparagus.

Such a salad is extravagant, because it involves the use of the asparagus 24 hours or more before it has reached the growth at which it is usually eaten. To make a proper dish twice the usual number of stalks must be used, and they must be cut when they have attained half or less than half their size.

So the salad may be said to cost at least four times as much as the cooked asparagus salad ordinarily served. It is useless to attempt to make raw asparagus salad from the ordinary asparagus of commerce because it lacks the very qualities that make the young home-grown asparagus fit for this special use.

How to Look Pretty.

When a woman has a baby in her arms she looks prettier than at any other time. To go further; a woman is prettier when she has young babies than at any other time. It is told of an Atchison woman that she tried beauty doctors in vain, and found no improvement, but that after her baby came she became positively pretty.—Atchison Globe.

SUGAR AND SPRING FLOWERS

Why do the flowers bloom in the spring? We all know the place of the flower in the economy of the plant, but what is the precise cause of its periodical appearance? It is, of course, due to some form of irritation, and a recent re-examination of the question has been made by a plant physiologist, Oscar Loew, who lives in Japan. His researches have been made particularly with the Japanese cherry blossom. Despite the abundance of their blossoms, the Japanese cherry trees do not produce perfect fruit, for the climatic conditions cause the cherries while still in an unripe state to drop from the trees. Herr Loew found that the nutritive matter which the tree provides to bring its fruit to ripeness ceased to be operative after the unripe cherries had fallen off, and was stored in the form of starch in the bark. This starch in the following spring was transformed into sugar and appeared in an unusually large measure in the sap of the tree. To this fact is due Loew's impression that the sugar is the cause of the irritant influence that leads to the formation of blossoms.— London Post.

WHAT IS A CYCLONE?

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

As defined by United States District Judge Morris of St. Paul, Minn., "a cyclone is a violent and destructive storm of greater or less extent; sometimes its path is narrow, and sometimes a wide strip of territory. It is characterized by high winds, rotating around a low pressure center, which center moves at great velocity. It is generally accompanied by thunder and lightning."

This may do, and it probably will have to do, as a legal definition, but it differs in many and important particulars from the descriptions which have been given to us by persons who have been active participants in cyclones.

Few of us there are who cannot recall with great vividness the picture drawn by the man who was first to bring in the intelligence:

> When I fust seen it, I was standin' in the sou'-west corner of the potato patch. It was a cloud no bigger than me hand, but I knowed by its shape that it was time to make for cover, so I up an' give the alarm. Before I got half way to Mitchell's corner, I met Mitchell's store comin' down the road. From that time on I was kept busy dodgin' farm houses, barns, livestock, an' cultivators.
> Blow! Well, you wouldn't believe me, the sky was chock full o' tree stumps, fence posts, an' well buckets. When the storm struck me the stripes on me pants ran up an' down, now, you see they run the other way. I seen the Flemming family goin' due south about a hundred yards up, an' as they wus passin' old man Flemming hollered to me to lie low as his crops would be along in a few seconds. Circular movement? Well, no, I can't just say it was. The last I remember it looked to me like the hull country was movin' in a straight line toward the Missouri.

The eyewitness who invariably has corroborated this statement, as we all remember, was a man who happened to be passing through the ill-fated district at the time, and who was so stunned by the shock to his nerves that he could not give an intelligible account of the storm until restoratives had been applied. Then he dictated a statement like this:

> I hev saw many a cyclone in me time, but never one that cum up so suddent as this here. I wus walkin' along the road by the Watkins place wen somethin' told me to look back. It wus lucky I did. There in the nor'west was a cloud no bigger than me hand, but it was funnel-shaped an' I knowed well wot wus comin', but before I could shout to the Watkinses I seen the Baptist Church from Gray's Center comin' across the country with most of the congregation followin', so I clumb over a fence an' lay down in a furrow. Well, sir, you may say it blowed!
> There wus to be a baseball game in Newton, an' I wus reminded of it wen I seen the Hopkins Blue Stockings go past, all in uniform, with the pitcher ready to pitch an' a man at the bat. It was that suddent that the nine didn't hev a chance to change positions. Most of the diamond came along just a little behind 'em, an' I could hear the crowd cheerin' in the grand stand. They must have been a mile up. Wus it circular? Wus what circular? The cyclone? Well, I should say not. Most of the stores, farm houses, livery stables, an' general stocks come along as ef they hed bin fired outer a gun.

When, in the course of a few hours, the details began to come and it was found that, in view of the movement that had taken place in real estate, merchandise, and population, the loss of life and property was small, we were all so much rejoiced that no effort was made to obtain a clearer description of the cyclone. So the first pictures were always the ones that remained, and it is doubtful if even a definition handed down by a United States District Judge will obliterate them.

Woodbury Talks About the Hair

As Complete a System as Can Be Devised for the Care of the Hair Is Installed at the Woodbury Institute.

First of all, there are the physicians, graduates of the foremost institutions of medical learning in this country and Europe.

These physicians are specialists in the highest sense of the word. They devote their entire life to the one branch of medicine in which they are engaged daily, year in and year out.

The skin, the scalp and the hair are treated by them till the number of cases that come under their observation runs into the thousands every year.

For thirty-five years this has been going on. The history books of The Woodbury Institute reveal a succession of successful treatments that inspire confidence in its integrity of purpose.

One of these specialists will be found ready to receive you when you call, and for a consultation there will be no charge. If necessary a microscopist will examine your hair. Advice as to the best course of treatment for the care, preservation or restoration of your hair will be as freely given.

When the specialist has diagnosed your case and exactly located the causes of incipient baldness, falling hair, itching scalp or whatever it may be, massage may be prescribed, electrical treatment recommended, the use of a tonic, scalp cleaner or lotion be suggested, and you will not be left in the dark as to how to apply the remedy.

A score of the most skillful masseurs, trained in the Woodbury way, are at your disposal.

Static and vibratory electrical treatment are given by the latest and most approved electrical appliances.

The remedies are compounded from our own prescriptions in our own laboratory by our own chemists.

It is the one place in all the world where scientific investigation has devised correct methods for the treatment of the hair and scalp.

And all is at your disposal.

Why then experiment with remedies of which you know nothing and can know nothing!

FACIAL BLEMISHES.

Blackheads, Pimples, Freckles, Superfluous Hair, Warts, Moles, Birthmarks and all other Facial Blemishes, as well as Featural Irregularities and Deformities, when treated by the Specialists of the Woodbury Institute, are removed permanently, leaving no trace of their being.

For 35 years the Woodbury Institute has held supremacy in the treatment of all diseases of the Skin, Hair and Scalp.

Whatever disease or blemish stands in the way of your social or business success can be successfully treated by the Woodbury Specialists without loss of time from your regular vocation.

ONE MOLE REMOVED FREE.

To prove how simple is the Woodbury method of removing moles, anyone who brings this advertisement to the Woodbury Institute, during the present week, can have one mole removed without the payment of any fee whatever.

PIMPLES

"I tried all kinds of blood remedies, which failed to do me any good, but I have found the right thing at last. My face was full of pimples and blackheads. After taking Cascarets they all left. I am continuing the use of them and recommending them to my friends. I feel fine when I rise in the morning. Hope to have a chance to recommend Cascarets."

BATHS GO WITH PUBLIC OFFICE OUT IN KANSAS

Populists Introduced This Oddest Innovation Into Sunflower State Politics and Provided Tubs for All Officials.

LONELY REMINDERS OF GOV. LEEDY'S CAMPAIGN

No Republican Ever Thinks of Using One-Time Symbols of Populist Idea of Cleanliness in Public Life.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 21.—Do politics and bodily cleanliness go together?

The Populists of Kansas, when they were in power, seemed to think so, for connected with every State office in the Capitol building was a handsomely appointed bathroom.

The tubs are of genuine porcelain, while the washstands are of the purest white marble.

These monuments of approximity to godliness are still in the State House. Every day a janitor cleans them of the dust that has accumulated in them during the preceding 24 hours and takes a look to see that the bath towels, which were hung there before he "taken charge," are in place.

He knows that these towels are on the proper hooks, because experience has taught him that the Republican State officer or clerk is yet to be found who has or who will use one of those tubs.

But they are always ready for use, and, perhaps, some day some one will have the courage to say: "Well, here goes, whether I need it or not."

But these bathtubs played rather an important part in Gov. Leedy's campaign for Governor. It will be remembered that William Joel Stone of Missouri, now United States Senator from Missouri, in order to impress his rural constituents with his thorough democracy, said in his speech as candidate for Governor:

"When I get up to Jefferson City I want all of you to come there and see me. If you do, you can put your feet upon my mahogany desk and spit 'terbaccy' juice on the floor as much as you want."

Leedy Made Promises.

Gov. Leedy went Senator Stone one better. He went from county to county and not only gave his permission to allow his callers at the Capitol to put their feet upon the gubernatorial table, but he added:

"When any of you come up to Topeka, drop into the Governor's office and you can take a free bath in my new bathtub."

That this promise bore fruit was demonstrated a few weeks after the inauguration. A man from the interior of the State dropped into the Governor's office.

"Governor," he said, "you remember what you said in your speeches about that bathtub in your office? Well, I'm here and want that bath."

Gov. Leedy didn't hesitate. He was a good politician.

"Certainly," he said, with as much ease as if the request were made daily. "Jus step in here and go ahead."

The man locked the door and for 45 minutes there came sounds from the smaller room like that made by a school of porpoises scampering for the deep sea.

Finally he appeared, flushed, happy and many shades lighter.

"John Leedy," he said, "I sure am obliged to you. A bath like that can't hurt no man, 'specially when the weather is as warm as it is today."

But the "Pops" were by no means selfish. Not only did they provide their State officers with porcelain tubs, but the members of the Supreme Court were looked after as well.

Court Bath Once Used.

One large bathroom was fitted up for the entire court. Unlike the tubs in the offices downstairs, this one has been used, and used where it was probably needed, as Judge William R. Smith of the present bench, can testify.

Not that the eminent jurist found time to immerse himself in this public tub, but it was he who discovered the lone bather.

It was one Saturday night. Judge Smith had returned to his chambers to do some important work. He was in deep thought when he heard a noise such as had never disturbed that portion of the Capitol before. He went on a tour of investigation.

Cautiously he opened the bathroom door. He was surprised and delighted to see floundering around in the tub the negro janitor of the upper floor. The negro seemed embarrassed, but he was immediately reassured by the Judge's smiling face.

"Evenin', Judge," he said. "You ketched me, didn't you?"

"That's all right," replied Judge Smith. "You have no idea how much pleasure it gives me to see you doing what you are doing."

Speaking of bathtubs, this incident is related of a former State officer. It appears that he had never seen the office he was to occupy before coming to Topeka to take charge. The man who would be his predecessor in a few hours showed him about. The door leading into the bathroom was opened and the incoming official was delighted.

"That's great," he said. "This is Tuesday, isn't it? Think of it, a bathtub right here. Gee, I can hardly wait until Saturday night."

POST-DISPATCH COMPLETE DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCIAL

BULLS CONTINUE TO CONTROL PRICES

Failure of a Trust Company in Philadelphia Breaks Prices in Late Trading, but a Recovery Follows and the Close Is Higher.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Stocks on Wall street seemed fairly active and slightly higher this morning with the bulk of the inquiry centering in the steel and iron issues. The United States Steels were conspicuously strong and the shares of the minor companies were also well taken.

The London range on American issues before the local opening was irregular, gains and losses being about equally distributed throughout the active list. The United States Steel stocks were the strongest features above the common, being ⅜ higher and the preferred ⅝.

Iron trade reports are more favorable, United States Steel exports are increasing and indications of an early improvement in the demand for pig iron are daily becoming more pronounced.

Ontario & Western suddenly spurted to 53 in the second hour, but as it met large realizing sales the general list was inclined to yield. Later buying became animated and the market broadened, led by Illinois Central, which rose 2¾. Tennessee Coal gained 2¼ and there were one-point gains in Union and Southern Pacific, St. Paul, New York Central, B. & O., Norfolk & Western, Atlantic Coast Line, U. S. Steel, Amalgamated Copper, Pressed Steel, Locomotive and others of less importance. Northwestern rose 2, Central Railroad of New Jersey 3 and Pacific Coast 4½. Corn Products pfd dropped 4¼ on the passing of its dividend.

Stocks in the loan crowd are in only fair demand, with the best inquiry noted for Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio. In ordinarily active times the light demand for stocks would indicate a short interest of small volume. But at the present writing the shifting about of securities is naturally at a low ebb and any amount of collateral is left undisturbed for days at a time. Banking interests are disposed to hold stocks taken on supporting orders on prospects of a higher price level in the future, and are not attempting to realize under the prevailing conditions. Consequently the loan crowd is undisturbed to any noticeable extent, and it is generally known that the short interest in the general market is largely in excess of that indicated by the daily condition of the loaning rates.

Local bond houses report only a moderate activity in the bond market and as yet the business noted is largely of a speculative nature and not of a character to indicate that funds in anticipation of a better market after the July disbursements are seeking invesment in this class of securities. The slack demand noted is causing considerable comment as investment buying of a discounting nature is usually seen in the bond market before the semi-annual dividend periods. It is possible that the feeling prevalent in certain quarters that call money rates may not remain on their present low level throughout the summer is restricting the investment demand. And that there is still an ample supply of good investment securities in syndicate and banking hands that are absorbing the demand that would otherwise find its way into the open bond market.

A drive against the shorts in Reading after the noon hour that carried the price to 97 stimulated the entire list and prices rose an average of a point. The dividend meeting on this issue is scheduled for this afternoon and 4 per cent, or an increase of 1 per cent per annum, is confidently predicted. At the advanced level selling was encountered and price dropped on the announcement of the failure of a small trust company in Philadelphia. The entire list was adversely affected by this announcement and much of the advance of the earlier trading was quickly lost. Buying orders at the decline checked the selling and the market again turned slowly upward. Realizing checked the advance and the close was steady and generally higher for the day.

New York Stock Quotations.

MRS. DAVIS ALSO MARRIES.

Ceremony Adds Link to Chain of a Turbulent Baltimore Romance.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 21.—Still another chapter has been added to the tangled matrimonial romance of Dr. William A. Davis and his wife. Both of the parties to the original marriage contract, after having eloped twice with and been twice divorced from each other, have now other mates.

Just a month ago Dr. Davis married Mrs. M. K. Apperson, who was also a divorcee. Today it was learned that Mrs. Davis was married in New York on Saturday to Mr. Alfred Tite. The bride's mother declined to give her present address, saying that she had gone to New York to avoid further notoriety.

Dr. Davis, who is a young physician of some prominence, after a romantic courtship, was married to Miss Bertha Winter in 1899. After a number of disagreements and reconciliations they were finally divorced in 1902. The wife returned to her parents, but soon began to show a fondness for her former husband, and to the surprise of her friends, just six weeks after the decree, she eloped with him and they were remarried. They seemed to get along better as lovers than as husband and wife. The old disagreements came to the surface again, divorce suits were begun by both and they were again separated, each to find another mate.

RAILWAYS ISSUES IN BETTER DEMAND

Sales Are Liberal in Railways Preferred at a Higher Level.

GENERAL LIST IS STEADY

Bond Demand Continues and Sales in These Issues Are on the Increase.

Sales were of fairly heavy volume at the session of the local Stock Exchange today and prices in the majority of cases were well maintained. The investment demand in the general list was still noticeable, and in the bond list a liberal inquiry was apparent.

United Railways preferred was more active than in some time past and the price rose a fraction at $81. United Railways common was unchanged at $30 and the bonds of the company were steady and in demand at $89 bid.

Missouri-Lincoln Trust was the most active feature in the bank and trust list and sold on the downturn from $141 to $140.37½. A small lot of Merchants-Laclede National Bank was taken at $330, and this closed the trading in this class of securities.

Sales were made in Ely-Walker preferred at $122.50, in Brewery Association 6s at $100.25 and in Kansas City Home Telephone 5s at $93.87½ and this closed the trading.

The case of Frank Schuette, by his next friend, William Trapp, against the Transit and United Railways companies, for $4500 damages from each, was continued generally by Judge Taylor in the Circuit Court, after Alexander Krop of 1918 Mallinckrodt street had exhibited a memory which the Judge considered very remarkable.

The allegation in the case was that on Aug. 2, 1903, Schuette was assaulted by the conductor of a Lee avenue car. An attempt had been made to show that before Schuette boarded the car the conductor had had trouble with a passenger and was therefore in an ugly humor.

After all the other testimony was in, Schuette's attorney, Congressman Ernest Wood, put Knop on the stand. He gave a very circumstantial account of a difficulty, which he said occurred on that car earlier on the trip. Judge Taylor questioned him very closely. His explanation of how he remembered an incident which occurred two years ago so accurately did not satisfy the Judge and he continued the case generally.

LOWER PRICES IN WHEAT MARKET

Range in Sales Was at Erratic Figures, With Business Fairly Active.

The market Wednesday opened easy, the cables being disappointing in their slight advances in sympathy with Tuesday's strength. It was largely a seesawing session of trading, with some early strength based on more expected rains in the winter wheat belt. There was quite active trading, scalpers furnishing a good proportion of the business, with but few outside orders on the floor.

On bulges the longs unloaded rather freely and it was only a short time before the demands of the buyers were satisfied.

Prices then sagged and with desultory trading the market closed not far from the low point of the day. A fair cash demand was evident for good grades of milling wheat.

Corn was stronger relatively than wheat, a manipulated market in Chicago being mainly responsible for the vagaries on the floor here.

Oats showed fair demand with little change in price.

Primary receipts: Wheat, 161,017 bu as against 258,150 bu one year ago; corn, 665,400 bu as against 744,760 bu one year ago; oats, 374,865 bu as against 367,861 bu one year ago. Shipments: Wheat, 1,203,996 bu as against 273,618 bu one year ago; corn, 705,334 bu as against 153,740 bu one year ago; oats, 457,723 bu.

Light receipts gave strength to the cash market in all grains. White corn was offered more freely than for several days, however. Oats were very strong. No high grade wheat was received. Local receipts: Wheat, 212 sacks and 13,300 bu local, 950 bu through; corn, 14,000 bu local, 29,000 bu through; oats, 22,950 bu local, 20,250 bu through. Shipments: Wheat, 59,735 bu; corn, 30 sacks and 76,390 bu; oats, 1600 sacks and 51,970 bu.

FLOUR—Receipts, 4715 bbls; shipments 9910 bbls. Trade slow, prices firm. Soft winter wheat flours in wood: Patents, $4.95@5.10; straight, $4.75@4.90; clear, $3.90@4.00. Hard wheat flour in jute sacks: Patents, $4.70@4.90; straight, $4.50@4.60; first clear, $3.60@4. Rye flour, $4.10 in jute. Cornmeal, $2.60. Grits, hominy, etc., $2.90.

HAY—Receipts, 365 tons local, 370 tons through; shipments, 370 tons. Market very dull. Market, east track—Timothy, $12.50@13 for choice, $8@9 for No. 2. Clover-mixed, $8.50@10 for No. 1; $7.50@8 for No. 2; prairie, $9.50 for choice. Straw, $4.50 for wheat and oats, $9@10 for rye.

POST-DISPATCH COMPLETE DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCIAL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Stocks on Wall street seemed fairly active and slightly higher this morning with the bulk of the inquiry centering in the steel and iron issues. The United States Steels were conspicuously strong and the shares of the minor companies were also well taken.

The London range on American issues before the local opening was irregular, gains and losses being about equally distributed throughout the active list. The United States Steel stocks were the strongest features above the common, being ⅜ higher and the preferred ⅝.

Iron trade reports are more favorable, United States Steel exports are increasing and indications of an early improvement in the demand for pig iron are daily becoming more pronounced.

Ontario & Western suddenly spurted to 53 in the second hour, but as it met large realizing sales the general list was inclined to yield. Later buying became animated and the market broadened, led by Illinois Central, which rose 2¾. Tennessee Coal gained 2¼ and there were one-point gains in Union and Southern Pacific, St. Paul, New York Central, B. & O., Norfolk & Western, Atlantic Coast Line, U. S. Steel, Amalgamated Copper, Pressed Steel, Locomotive and others of less importance. Northwestern rose 2, Central Railroad of New Jersey 3 and Pacific Coast 4½. Corn Products pfd dropped 4¼ on the passing of its dividend.

Stocks in the loan crowd are in only fair demand, with the best inquiry noted for Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio. In ordinarily active times the light demand for stocks would indicate a short interest of small volume. But at the present writing the shifting about of securities is naturally at a low ebb and any amount of collateral is left undisturbed for days at a time. Banking interests are disposed to hold stocks taken on supporting orders on prospects of a higher price level in the future, and are not attempting to realize under the prevailing conditions. Consequently the loan crowd is undisturbed to any noticeable extent, and it is generally known that the short interest in the general market is largely in excess of that indicated by the daily condition of the loaning rates.

Local bond houses report only a moderate activity in the bond market and as yet the business noted is largely of a speculative nature and not of a character to indicate that funds in anticipation of a better market after the July disbursements are seeking invesment in this class of securities. The slack demand noted is causing considerable comment as investment buying of a discounting nature is usually seen in the bond market before the semi-annual dividend periods. It is possible that the feeling prevalent in certain quarters that call money rates may not remain on their present low level throughout the summer is restricting the investment demand. And that there is still an ample supply of good investment securities in syndicate and banking hands that are absorbing the demand that would otherwise find its way into the open bond market.

A drive against the shorts in Reading after the noon hour that carried the price to 97 stimulated the entire list and prices rose an average of a point. The dividend meeting on this issue is scheduled for this afternoon and 4 per cent, or an increase of 1 per cent per annum, is confidently predicted. At the advanced level selling was encountered and price dropped on the announcement of the failure of a small trust company in Philadelphia. The entire list was adversely affected by this announcement and much of the advance of the earlier trading was quickly lost. Buying orders at the decline checked the selling and the market again turned slowly upward. Realizing checked the advance and the close was steady and generally higher for the day.

MRS. DAVIS ALSO MARRIES.

Ceremony Adds Link to Chain of a Turbulent Baltimore Romance.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 21.—Still another chapter has been added to the tangled matrimonial romance of Dr. William A. Davis and his wife. Both of the parties to the original marriage contract, after having eloped twice with and been twice divorced from each other, have now other mates.

Just a month ago Dr. Davis married Mrs. M. K. Apperson, who was also a divorcee. Today it was learned that Mrs. Davis was married in New York on Saturday to Mr. Alfred Tite. The bride's mother declined to give her present address, saying that she had gone to New York to avoid further notoriety.

Dr. Davis, who is a young physician of some prominence, after a romantic courtship, was married to Miss Bertha Winter in 1899. After a number of disagreements and reconciliations they were finally divorced in 1902. The wife returned to her parents, but soon began to show a fondness for her former husband, and to the surprise of her friends, just six weeks after the decree, she eloped with him and they were remarried. They seemed to get along better as lovers than as husband and wife. The old disagreements came to the surface again, divorce suits were begun by both and they were again separated, each to find another mate.

RAILWAYS ISSUES IN BETTER DEMAND

Sales Are Liberal in Railways Preferred at a Higher Level.

GENERAL LIST IS STEADY

Bond Demand Continues and Sales in These Issues Are on the Increase.

Sales were of fairly heavy volume at the session of the local Stock Exchange today and prices in the majority of cases were well maintained. The investment demand in the general list was still noticeable, and in the bond list a liberal inquiry was apparent.

United Railways preferred was more active than in some time past and the price rose a fraction at $81. United Railways common was unchanged at $30 and the bonds of the company were steady and in demand at $89 bid.

Missouri-Lincoln Trust was the most active feature in the bank and trust list and sold on the downturn from $141 to $140.37½. A small lot of Merchants-Laclede National Bank was taken at $330, and this closed the trading in this class of securities.

Sales were made in Ely-Walker preferred at $122.50, in Brewery Association 6s at $100.25 and in Kansas City Home Telephone 5s at $93.87½ and this closed the trading.

The case of Frank Schuette, by his next friend, William Trapp, against the Transit and United Railways companies, for $4500 damages from each, was continued generally by Judge Taylor in the Circuit Court, after Alexander Krop of 1918 Mallinckrodt street had exhibited a memory which the Judge considered very remarkable.

The allegation in the case was that on Aug. 2, 1903, Schuette was assaulted by the conductor of a Lee avenue car. An attempt had been made to show that before Schuette boarded the car the conductor had had trouble with a passenger and was therefore in an ugly humor.

After all the other testimony was in, Schuette's attorney, Congressman Ernest Wood, put Knop on the stand. He gave a very circumstantial account of a difficulty, which he said occurred on that car earlier on the trip. Judge Taylor questioned him very closely. His explanation of how he remembered an incident which occurred two years ago so accurately did not satisfy the Judge and he continued the case generally.

LOWER PRICES IN WHEAT MARKET

Range in Sales Was at Erratic Figures, With Business Fairly Active.

The market Wednesday opened easy, the cables being disappointing in their slight advances in sympathy with Tuesday's strength. It was largely a seesawing session of trading, with some early strength based on more expected rains in the winter wheat belt. There was quite active trading, scalpers furnishing a good proportion of the business, with but few outside orders on the floor.

On bulges the longs unloaded rather freely and it was only a short time before the demands of the buyers were satisfied.

Prices then sagged and with desultory trading the market closed not far from the low point of the day. A fair cash demand was evident for good grades of milling wheat.

Corn was stronger relatively than wheat, a manipulated market in Chicago being mainly responsible for the vagaries on the floor here.

Oats showed fair demand with little change in price.

Primary receipts: Wheat, 161,017 bu as against 258,150 bu one year ago; corn, 665,400 bu as against 744,760 bu one year ago; oats, 374,865 bu as against 367,861 bu one year ago. Shipments: Wheat, 1,203,996 bu as against 273,616 bu one year ago; corn, 705,334 bu as against 153,740 bu one year ago; oats, 457,723 bu.

Light receipts gave strength to the cash market in all grains. White corn was offered more freely than for several days, however. Oats were very strong. No high grade wheat was received. Local receipts: Wheat, 212 sacks and 13,300 bu local, 950 bu through; corn, 14,000 bu local, 29,000 bu through; oats, 22,950 bu local, 20,250 bu through. Shipments: Wheat, 59,735 bu; corn, 30 sacks and 76,390 bu; oats, 1600 sacks and 51,970 bu.

FLOUR—Receipts, 4715 bbls; shipments 9910 bbls. Trade slow, prices firm. Soft winter wheat flours in wood: Patents, $4.95@5.10; straight, $4.75@4.90; clear, $3.90@4.00. Hard wheat flour in jute sacks: Patents, $4.70@4.90; straight, $4.50@4.60; first clear, $3.60@4. Rye flour, $4.10 in jute. Cornmeal, $2.60. Grits, hominy, etc., $2.90.

HAY—Receipts, 365 tons local, 370 tons through; shipments, 370 tons. Market very dull. Market, east track—Timothy, $12.50@13 for choice, $8@9 for No. 2. Clover-mixed, $8.50@10 for No. 1; $7.50@8 for No. 2; prairie, $9.50 for choice. Straw, $4.50 for wheat and oats, $9@10 for rye.

CARDINALS WILL FACE BOSTON AGAIN TODAY

LOCAL TURNERS LEAVE FOR INDIANAPOLIS

NEW BASEBALL RULES OFFERED FOR USE IN THE NATIONAL LEAGUE

Invention of the "Thought Dial," Supplemented by More Stringent Rules Governing Players' Conduct, Is Expected to Put a Stop to Rowdyism on Field.

Because of the numerous disturbances in the National League this year and the many instances of rowdyism, President Pulliam, it is understood, is arranging a new set of rules, which will govern the conduct of the players on the field.

It is also reported, though official verification is lacking, that a new invention, known as a "thought dial," will be worn by each player. By means of this little instrument the umpire will be able to read the secret thoughts of the players. It will not be necessary for him to hear the words "lobster," "robber" and other choice epithets usually offered by disgruntled players.

For example, a player may have three strikes called on him and go to the bench with a scowl on his face. He makes no audible comment, but the umpire, whose gaze is fixed on the telltale dial, sees the indicator whizzing around and immediately knows that the player's think department is exceedingly busy. The player is probably saying:

"O, wouldn't I like to hand it to that croppy? Why, he wouldn't know a strike if he threw it himself. I couldn't have reached that last ball with a hay rake. If I ever meet that false alarm on a dark night"——

"That bit of mental overwork will cost you just $10," calmly remarks the umpire.

"Aw, I ain't said nothing," complains the player.

"I am aware that you make no audible comment," answers the arbiter. "Nevertheless, I know what you were thinking. As I said before, $10 for you."

Whereupon the subdued player seeks the shade of the bench, utterly discouraged.

Thought dials for certain bench managers are also included in the new order of things. Report has it that an extra large recorder, copper riveted and trimmed with asbestos is being constructed for Manager McGraw.

The suggestion has been made that a large dial be placed in the bleachers, thus enabling the umpire to understand the trend of thought in that section. While ordinarily the bleacherites do not refrain from giving voice to their thoughts, there are times when the umpire's decisions have been particularly obnoxious and when the faithful are laying plans that threaten his safe egress from the park that the instrument would be very welcome.

While the new rules in their entirety have not been made public, in substance the more important ones are as follows:

1. Growling at the umpire with wrinkled brow and one corner of the mouth lowered, $5 fine.
2. Smothered imprecation, with red face and a smile, $10.
3. Same without smile, $12.
4. Pale, set face, with biting of the lips and mentally consigning the umpire to a torrid climate, $50.
5. Throwing the bat violently to the ground, growing purple in the face and muttering indistinguishable threats, $45.
6. Pounding the plate with the bat when a strike is called, $5.
7. Looking up at the grand stand with a sarcastic smile on the face, $15.
8. Sitting on the bench and indulging in profanity under the breath in which the umpire's name is coupled, $35.
9. Indicating with the bat that a ball was two feet from the plate, $5.
10. Throwing a glove in the air when the umpire gives an unfavorable decision, $10.

Another innovation will be a personal staff for the umpire, including a stenographer, who will take down the Czar's reports hot off the bat, and other assistants to keep tab on the readings of the various dials. It is believed that before long the game of baseball will be conducted in a manner that will rival the most lady-like game of old maid in peace and harmony.

YOUNG CORBETT STILL TALKING

CHICAGO, June 21.—Corbett refuses to be silenced regarding the Referee Hemann decision in the Hanlon battle at San Francisco.

"I am through with the Pacific Coast," he said. "That is the trouble when a fellow thinks he is unbeatable. I knew I could lick Hanlon and did not care who they got to referee. Result: I go up against the 'native son game.' A native son in that country will sometimes win even if he is knocked out, for they are always concocting jobs against what they call the foreign element. No more of it in mine."

Auto Races at St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, June 21.—The race program of the meet to be held at St. Paul July 6 and 8 under the auspices of the Automobile Club of St. Paul contains 19 events. The purses aggregate $6000 and the cups and plates nearly as much more. Included among the races are two exhibitions at a mile and two miles respectively. In these exhibitions Oldfield and Jay or some other racer of equal class will compete. The exhibitions will be against the world's records for circular tracks.

Touring cars such as have been entered to make the trip to St. Paul are eligible in several events for valuable plate, and great interest is being taken in these contests by those who have entered for the tour.

Lawson Again Breaks Record.

SALT LAKE, Utah, June 21.—Iver Lawson has again set a new mark for two-mile open professional cycle event, going the distance in 3:49 3-5. This breaks Lawson's former world's record of 3:53 4-5, made at Ogden last week.

NEW TRICK PLAY INVENTED BY REDS

A new play has been invented.

It is the work of the brains of the Reds, according to a Cincinnati paper.

The play, which is akin to the "squeeze," has been called the "safety." It is not planned to gain home, but third.

As an illustration of how it is worked, it may be stated that in the fifth inning of a recent game Kelley was at the bat and Huggins was on second—a brawny batter and a brainy baserunner. Huggins took a long lead. There was one out.

Sparks of Philadelphia moved to throw and Kelley stepped in, holding his bat as if to bunt. Every fielder knew that Kelley would be likely to lay the ball down slowly if he wanted to. Courtney, on third, flew in like a hawk to get the ball.

But—

Kelley did not bunt. He did not want to. He saw that third was uncovered. His purpose accomplished, he let the ball (which was a bad one) go past.

Kahoe saw the little Red flying toward third and started to whip the ball over, when, to his dismay, he observed that Courtney was ten or fifteen feet in and away from the bag. He threw and Courtney, in his excitement, muffed the ball.

Huggins had a year to get safe on his steal. Then the Red runner grinned and everybody, including President Herrmann, in the grandstand, said: "Did you see that?" That is the "safety play."

SPEAKING TO MEN ONLY

Pay when cured. We do not ask you to take chances. Not a dollar need be paid until a complete cure has been effected.

Isn't it at least worth while to consult us? That will cost you nothing.

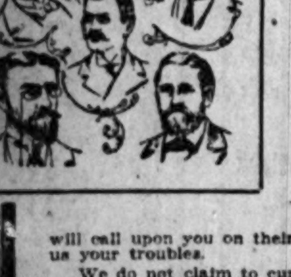
Consultations free and confidential, by mail or in person.

In this strenuous age we hear a great deal about lost vitality.

What is lost vitality?

When the fire of youth burns low; when ambition is lacking and vigor and energy wanting; when life's purpose is thwarted by the ravages of disease or dissipation; that is "lost vitality."

Why drag yourself through life thus handicapped when we can so easily and quickly cure you—show you the world's most roseate hues, and make your life a joy to yourself and a blessing to posterity.



Whether your ailments are of long standing or whether recently contracted they are all the same to us, and readily yield to our scientific treatment.

Who should you consult about your health if not specialists?

Contagious Blood Poison—This loathsome disease, humiliating and ofttimes deadly, cannot be trifled with.

Don't waste time on mercury or hot baths.

We are positively able to drive the horrible poison forever from your system, no matter in what stage of development. We can make you clean and whole and will save you from a lingering death.

To those out of town—Those living outside of St. Louis can avail themselves of the special arrangements with the railroads, or one of our physicians will call upon you on their first visit to your city or town. Write us your troubles.

We do not claim to cure every ailment that flesh is heir to, as we are specialists and confine ourselves strictly to curing diseases most common to men, such as nervous debility, varicocele, lost vitality, blood poison and the like.

Nervous Debility—Weakness of the nerve centers consequent upon the wear and tear of modern life or dissipation, etc., soon result in physical bankruptcy.

Our highly scientific treatment reaches the very seat of the trouble, wholly restores your youthful vigor and makes a strong, healthy man of you.

Varicocele—We have an original method of treatment entirely our own which positively cures this debilitating disease at once without the danger, pain and inconvenience attendant upon the use of the knife.

GIANTS WILL ROW IN SYRACUSE BOAT

Prominent Candidates in Poughkeepsie Regatta Average 5 Feet 11 1-2 Inches.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 21.—The most noticeable thing about the Syracuse varsity crew, which has arrived here to join Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania in preparing for the boat races a week hence, is the height of the men. They are unusually tall, averaging five feet eleven and one half inches, resembling the six-foot Wisconsin crew of 1899. The men are very lithe and wiry and are built on the same tall, slender lines as their coach, the famous oarsman of former days.

Coach Ten Eyck does not talk much about his crew, but he says enough to warrant the inference that they are some better than last year, when they were more than good enough to beat everything else on the river.

In addition to the varsity and freshmen eights, Syracuse this year has a varsity four, so that champions of last year will be represented in all three races. Of the varsity eight, six of the men were in last year's crack crew, and the two others were in the freshmen boat of 1904.

RICE "IN" AGAIN; W. J. C. WEAKENS

Reinstatement of Turfman Indicates C. A. T. Combination on Its "Last Legs."

The most recent development indicating that the Western Jockey Club, in which the Cella-Adler-Tilles combination is one of the controlling powers, is on its "last legs" is the reinstatement of Capt. R. R. Rice's racing stable by the Memphis Jockey Club, a member of the Western combination.

Capt. Rice, who has long been a prominent figure in St. Louis racing, went with the Union track when it was established here, and was promptly declared an outlaw by the then-powerful W. J. C. It was stated that he would never again be allowed to race over any W. J. C. course. The feeling against him was more bitter than against any of the other selling-plater owners who followed his lead and went with the Union people.

His sudden restoration by the Memphis track, in which Louis Cella is heavily interested, is taken to mean that the Western Jockey Club has come to recognize its weakening condition under the body blows delivered by opposition to its autocratic rule, and under legislation in Missouri and Tennessee against turf gambling.

Since the Chicago tracks have been closed the W. J. C. has few tracks left. It controls courses in St. Louis, Kansas City, Memphis, New Orleans and Hot Springs, the latter two winter tracks. The American Turf Association, the opposition, has tracks in the same cities excepting Kansas City and Memphis.

The restoration of Rice is taken to be a forerunner of the abolition of the "outlaw" rule by the W. J. C.

TRAINER KNOCKED OUT BY HART

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RENO Nev., June 21.—Jack McCormick, a member of the training squad of Marvin Hart, the pugilist, learned yesterday that the life of a sparring partner is not an envious one. A hard left swing to the jaw, that put him on the floor for the count, convinced him that Hart is in fine condition for his fight with Root July 4.

It was during a sparring bout that Hart forgot himself and accidentally landed the blow. McCormick was severely jarred for a while and will not resume work for a few days.

Hart is doing a great deal road work each day. He weighs 197 pounds.

Mrs. M. Frank, sitting on the front steps of her residence, West Belle place, Tuesday evening, heard a noise in the house. Going in she found a negro standing in her bedroom. She called her son, Sylvester, who was upstairs. The negro ran out through a cellar door. Sylvester pursued him to Whittier and Fairfax avenues, where he lost sight of him. Nothing was taken from the house.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The victory of the Browns over the Nationals yesterday cast a gloom over Washington that is slow in lifting.

The loss of the game would not be regretted so much but for the fact that it sent the Nationals into last place in the championship race.

The Browns played great ball all the time, and their victory was easy.

Hill is still sick in bed, and Anderson has not yet reported, which has broken up the team.

The weather was cloudy and threatening.

M. A. C. PLANNING AN ATHLETIC MEET

The Missouri Athletic Club has made the announcement that a closed athletic meet for their members will be held July 4. It has not been decided where the meet will be held, but the Stadium, C. B. C. and Triple A grounds have been suggested.

The officials of the club have also decided not to enter any men in the Illinois A. C. Marathon, which will be run off next October.

It was expected that Joe Forshaw would enter, but Athletic Director Basset states that he thinks it would be unjust to ask Forshaw to compete, as the effects of training in October would likely injure the local crack, the Autumn month being considered too early for a race of the Marathon kind.

HOT OFF THE BAT.

Captain Collins has a lame shoulder that has bothered him all this spring and handicaps him when handling bunts.

Efforts are being made to restore peace between the Jap. and Russ. Now if somebody would bring McGraw and Dreyfuss together!

Ban Johnson does not believe that Ned Hanlon will be Clark Griffith's successor as manager of the New York Yankees.

Kittredge has been working so hard this spring that Manager Stahl lets the popular little catcher rest up every other day.

It is claimed that Pitcher Puttmann has no feeling in his feet. He doesn't know whether they are asleep or merely ossified.

"Some of the spitballs thrown past you are so damp," observes Bill Dahlen, "that you get rheumatism swinging at them."

Harry Pulliam thinks Lauterborn of the Bostons a better man today than was Claude Ritchey when the Reds handed him over to Louisville.

Ted Sullivan, who is a scout for the major league clubs, Cincinnati in particular, is in Texas looking up talent. He is looking for hard-hitting outfielders.

Joss of the Cleveland team is pitching great ball. He has twice held clubs down to three hits, once to four and twice to five.

Bill Dineen says that he is feeling in the best physical shape, but that for some reason or other he has not struck his gait yet.

Frank Farrell, owner of the New York American League team, has made an offer for the services of Outfielder Billy Lush of the Cleveland team, now head coach of the Yale baseball team. Lush's contract with Yale expires July 1.

Malay of the Brooklyns is a promising-looking youngster. He has allround ability, stands up to the plate nicely and goes after fly balls with good judgment.

The New Yorks lost eight straight games while away from home. This is rare in a league where the teams are so evenly matched as in the American. Griffith says it will not occur again.

They say that Catcher Kittredge has a crouch coming that dates back to the day of his christening. His full name is Malachi Jemdadiah Kittredge.

Pitcher Gibson of the champions has a lame shoulder, supposed to be the result of using the "spit ball" too freely last fall and in practice this spring.

Tom Daly has started in training again. He thinks that before long some National or American League club will call upon him for assistance.

QUAKER CITY TRUST CO. FAIL

Pennsylvania Banking Department Names Receiver for City Corporation.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—The City Trust and Safe Deposit Co. of this city closed its doors today and has gone into the hands of a temporary receiver. A notice was posted, signed by Acting Receiver A. L. Taber, stating that the company had been closed by order of the State Banking Department.

$50 for Reckless Driving.

George W. Tryling of 2605 Bremen avenue was fined $50 by Judge Pollard in the Dayton Street Police Court Wednesday for careless driving. The prosecuting witness was Henry H. Sanders, 73 years old, of 626 North Market street. He was run over by Tryling at Ninth and North Market streets and his head and hand were hurt and his shoulder dislocated. The Judge thought that Tryling's own testimony showed that he had driven recklessly and fixed the fine at $50. Tryling appealed.

Anderson Did Not Jump.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Outfielder John Anderson of the Washington baseball team, who left Washington Saturday without notifying the management of the team, has advised Manager Stahl that he will report for today's game. He informed Stahl over the long distance telephone from Worcester, Mass., that his departure from Washington was due to a dispatch he received that his wife was dangerously ill at Worcester. He left immediately for that city.

LEAGUE PARK, June 21.—After a day of inaction due to the heavy rain of Tuesday, both the Beaneaters and the Cardinals were eager for the fray at League Park today.

The game was the third scheduled one of the series. Yesterday's postponed one will be played on the next appearance of the Bostons in St. Louis, July 29.

Fred Tenny, in conversation before the game, said he would probably send Fraser, his no-hit no-run pitcher, to the firing line for the Beaneaters. To make sure of the game, however, he had "Chick" and Willis both warm up.

Charley Nichols was Burke's early selection for the Cardinals. The veteran who has pitched nineteen years has the weakness of an abhorrence of the Wagnerian "Simple Life." Charley wants to work all the time, and intends to show his old club today that he is not "all in."

GUN IN COURT HOUSE VAULT

Soldier Seeks Weapons and Papers Left in 1865.

City Register Regan is considering seriously burying himself for several weeks in the different vaults of the St. Louis Courthouse in an effort to locate a gun, knapsack, sword and papers placed in a vault there in 1865 by David Kittrell, a soldier.

Kittrell now wants these articles and is especially anxious to get the papers. The Register received a letter from a Kansas City law firm Wednesday asking for information concerning them, and the probability of recovering them. They were left in the vault by Kittrell upon his discharge from the army.

TURNERS ON WAY TO INDIANAPOLIS

Rules of South St. Louis Turnverein Will Govern at National Turnfest.

About 1000 local members of the Turner societies left Wednesday morning to contest in the Bundes Turnfest of the United States, which opened at Indianapolis Tuesday.

The Concordia Turnverein, alone, is expected to have 125 representatives in the different events. Concordia will have competitors among the actives and "baers" and should make an excellent showing in the tournament.

In the all-around competition for teams, the averages of all members of the teams are taken and a final average made, the team with the highest mark winning the competition.

The Concordias are especially strong in the running broad jump, it being claimed that all members of the team can clear at least 19 feet. Their excellence in this event will bring up their marks in the other contests.

The complete program calls for competition on all the apparatus, sprinting, pole vaulting, rope climbing, high and broad jumping and swimming.

It has been agreed by the officials of the Turnfest at Indianapolis that the rules governing the South St. Louis Turnverein, which are thought to be very rigid, shall govern the meet. No smoking or drinking of intoxicants will be allowed in the teams.

Young Erne Bested Lewis.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHESTER, Pa., June 21.—A fast 10-round fight took place last night between Young Erne and Harry Lewis, both of Philadelphia, before the Leiperville Athletic Club. Nearly 1000 people, mostly Philadelphians, witnessed the battle. During the first three rounds Lewis did the leading and had the better of the argument. Erne woke up in the fourth and began to make things interesting. His frequent lefts to the jaw jarred Lewis, who redeemed himself in the sixth by pounding Erne's ribs in great style. Had there been a decision Erne would have gotten it. Erne was heavier and showed the result of fine training.

CHAS. A. DUFF, M. D.,

Also PILES, FISTULA, RUPTURE, HYDROCELE, NERVOUS DECLINE, SEXUAL WEAKNESS, "LOST MANHOOD" AND DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS, BLADDER AND PROSTATE.

In announcing myself as a physician of merit with a reputation as a competent, reliable and trustworthy specialist in the treatment of Pelvic and Private Diseases of Men, I am not endeavoring to gain the confidence of unfortunate men for the purpose of dishonestly getting their money, but am publishing facts for the benefit of those who want to be cured and are willing to employ the services of a physician who can give more than a thousand times the value received. No man hesitates about paying a few dollars in the hope of getting himself cured of a destructive disease, and this is why there are so many unsuspecting sufferers duped by dishonest doctors. I do not ask any man to deal with me until he has satisfied himself that I can do all I claim. My diplomas from the best medical institutions bespeak my success, and my financial standing is amply vouched for.

CURE OR NO CHARGE—Absolutely no charge unless satisfaction is given. My patients receive an instrument of writing insuring them of every dollar paid for services refunded in case of failure to completely cure in a specified length of time, so that the disease will never return, and render entire satisfaction, and my well-known financial standing is sufficient evidence to anyone that I am entirely responsible for any guarantee that is not fulfilled.

Consultation Free, Confidential and Invited, both at office and by correspondence. Terms are always made to suit the convenience of anyone applying for treatment, and very reasonable charges. Do not treat elsewhere until you have investigated my methods and terms. Office hours during week, 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.; Sundays, 9 to 1.
